APPEAL FOR GRAIN

Prof. Christie of Purdue Heads Organization in Big Drive for Grain

STARVING ARMENIA
Corn and Wheat Will Be Shipped From Indiana—Farmers on Committee

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 1—Prof. G. I. Christie, well known agricultural head at Purdue University, who is to lead in the Near East Relief appeal for grain for starving Armenia, has selected an agricultural committee of the best known farmers and grain men of Indiana to lead the campaign during September and October.

State headquarters of Near East Relief has fixed Indiana's quota of grain at 124 cars of corn and thirty-seven cars of wheat.

An agricultural committee selected by Prof. Christie and approved by Governor McCray, honorary chairman of Near East Relief, consists of I. Newt Brown, secretary of the state board of agriculture; C. B. Riley, secretary Indiana Grain Dealers' association; George C. Bryant, statistical United States department of agriculture; Prof. R. A. Ogg, Greencastle agriculturist; Everett McClure, Master Indiana State Grange; John G. Brown, president Indiana Federation of Farmers' Associations; E. G. Cullum, secretary Farmers'-Grain Dealers' association; Charles Brown, president Indiana Corn Growers' association; Carl W. Sims, Frankfort, director of the Indiana Millers' association. Miss Adah E. Bush, secretary to Governor McCray will also act with the committee.

The appeal for food from the Russian Caucasus, Armenia and the Bible lands should have a special significance in Indiana, the relief organization believes. It is the farming classes who are starving in the Near East. Plans have been perfected whereby all corn and wheat donated by Indiana farmers will be converted into food stuffs for the Bible lands without the deduction of one cent from the value of the original contribution of grain. This is not a new drive, it is a continuation of the drive of last spring when the American farmers pledged 5,000,000 bushels of corn and wheat to this cause. Elevators of the state will act as receiving stations for the grain free of charge, it is announced. The movement is national with Senator Arthur Capper at the head. Associated with him are Russell F. Bower, secretary of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America; Gray Silver, representing the Farm Bureau Federation; T. C. Atkeson, representing the National Grange; Charles A. Lyman, national board of farm organizations; L. A. Morehouse American Farm Economic association; Milo D. Campbell, National Milk Producers federation; Dr. Henry J. Waters, former president Kansas agricultural college; W. L. Drummond, chairman board of governors of the International Farm Congress. Headquarters are maintained by the Near East Relief state agricultural committee at 403 City Trust building, Indianapolis, to which address all interested citizens are urged to call or write at once.
