PASSED COUNTERFEIT BILL ON POLICE

Honolulu, May 26.—Despite the fact that he was arrested on an assault and battery charge preferred by his wife, Kuma Takamori, a Japanese, was all smiles when brought to the desk sergeant at the station. Bail to the amount of $25 was asked.

Takamori smilingly pulled out a roll of bills, gave the desk sergeant a $50 bill (and got $25 in change, and went his way).

Later in the day the sergeant took the money to the bank, and was told that the $50 bill was a counterfeit. He returned to the station out of breath. Waving the bill he told the captain that it was counterfeit.

"Better call the police," someone on the sidelines suggested.

A squad was sent out, and Takamori was in jail again. He was relieved of the $25 change, and held without bail pending an investigation of the source of the money. He declared he did not know that it was counterfeit.

Millard Baumgartner, living east of the city, was very delightfully surprised yesterday, when upon returning home from church in the morning, a large crowd of relatives and friends had gathered at the home. To help him celebrate his birthday. Congratulations were showered upon Mr. Baumgartner. He was also presented with several nice presents. The table, which was very prettily decorated with streamers from the chandelier to each corner, was heavily laden with all the good things any one could eat, and the way the guests did justice to the eats was evidence of their goodness. A fitting climax was the ice cream and cake which was served to all later in the afternoon. The guests departed wishing Mr. Baumgartner many more happy birthdays.

A dinner was given Sunday in honor of Calvin Yost and bride at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Sam Yost. Those attending were: Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Breiner; Grandmother Yost, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Liby and son, Floyd; Miss Della Miller and Miss Nova Yost of Fort Wayne.

Victory is the aim of conflict and usually costs much work and suffering, and many times the loss of blood and life to accomplish, the speaker pointed out. Too often, he said, the cost of victory is overlooked. In life, there's no one who is normal who does not crave victory, he said, but many of them hate to pay the price. The knowledge that one is fighting for a just cause adds strength to the fighter, the Rev. Bridge said, no matter whether the conflict is a war, or the everyday conflict of life. "He who stood for the right holds a conspicuous place in history and lives on forever," he said. The great secret behind all conflicts, he said, is that God is in the conflict.

the speaker said that the rewards of the great wars of our country were that national unity had been preserved; the advance of the negro, and that numerous Republics were springing up throughout the world. The secondary rewards of the wars are that the country has been made stronger and is able to contribute more toward the solution of the world's problems. The great reward for victory in this life is the life eternal.

bed, he remarked to his father that he saw his mother looking at him. The next Tuesday morning he was taken seriously ill. He was a member of St. Paul Christian Union church. He is survived by his father; two brothers Robert and Donald; one sister, Audrey; both grandmothers; and five uncles.

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

Then I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicines

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. I had been having pains every month and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true."—Mrs. T. A. LANDRY, 612 Miss. St., Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Landry's words—"as it is true." Every letter recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.

CHINCH BUG APPEARING

ing migration were used last year but the only effective one was the creosote line. A thin line of especially prepared creosote is made between the crop which harbors the bugs and the corn fields and the bugs refuse to cross it. Some farmers dug post-holes along the line and as close to it as possible and in this way trapped gallons of them where they could be easily destroyed. Pamphlets explaining this method may be obtained from the county agent.

Another practice which is being recommended by the county agent is that of plowing under fields of grain now seen to be so badly infested they will not produce a crop and sow them to soy beans. The small grain crop will furnish considerable green manure and soy beans will make a good crop if planted during the next two or three weeks. Chinch bugs will not bother soy beans and turning under the ground now will destroy a large number of the eggs which have been laid. Soy beans make especially good hay for cattle and nothing excels them as a soil improver. The Ito San is a good variety for this purpose.

It is to the interest of every farmer to examine his small grain crops at this time and if they are infested with chinch bugs to immediately take steps to combat them. If creosote is wanted orders should be placed with County Agent Busche as soon as possible. At any rate, don't wait until the corn is covered with bugs and then begin looking for a way to get rid of them.
