YEOMEN DAY:—

Plans are now being made for Yeomen Day to be held in Decatur August 22nd or 23rd. The day will be just what we make it—nothing more or less.

In starting the work we should remember that it is a big cause—an effort to locate here the proposed ten million dollar home and school for the children of Yeomen—to give the boys and girls a chance who might not otherwise have it—to make them better citizens of tomorrow—to educate and train them—to make this the headquarters of the greatest school of its kind in the world.

We have been promised that the school will be located in a city centrally situated, with good railroad facilities, proper drainage, pure water and above all among a people who sense the big cause and are willing to assist in working out the high ideal.

We have them all and it remains only for us to impress the visiting directors and officials next month in such a way that they cannot forget it when they make their decision.

We shall try to show them by a pageant in which the actors will be women and children, that we grasp the great thought which has inspired the school and home, and by a hearty welcome that will be the last word in hospitality. And then we will show them a class of Yeomen, each inspired with the desire to help make the dream come true. It can be done if we do as we have always done, just be "folks" and pull together.

This is our big opportunity—Help put it over.

The story, if it is true, of the seance at which members of congress were present, and the spirit of Washington is reported as having been called upon, is a sad commentary on some of our so-called solons at the national capital. Besides being a mockery to the memory of our first president, it is a sad reflection on the intellects of any of the legislators present. One thing that the leaders at Washington do need is a little more of the spirit of the great founder of this nation. They can get this, not by indulging in seances and other like follies out by acquainting themselves with some of the very sane doctrines enunciated by George Washington. If they would hearken more to the principles endorsed by this soldier and statesman and less to the idle minded reformers of the day, read more of the history of the first years of our republic and less of the intrigues of latter days, they would be better fit to refer to themselves as representatives of the people.—National Daily Tribune, Des Moines, Iowa.

Senators New and McCumber don't like the primary law. It's no wonder. If they had won do you think they would have been attacking the law? Not by a jug full. They say because the people didn't like their work in the senate the law is bad. We have never been crazy about the primary law in Indiana but the attacks by these men make us feel that perhaps after all it has merit.

Now altogether for a successful Yeomen Day in Decatur with the board of directors as our guests. The community is entitled to this big celebration, a day of pleasure and reunion and then we owe it to ourselves to show the Yeomen that we have what we claim—the best community in the entire United States. That's taking in a lot of territory so we will have to work that much harder to make good.

It's safe to predict that if the eighth district sends John Tyndall to congress they will know he is there and that's more than the Adams county Witness can say for their friend Vestal. He has no axe to grind other than a desire to serve you and that should be the kind of a man to employ for any job.

REPUBLICAN GERMANY MAY BE CRASHING TO RUIN AFTER FINANCIAL REVERSE

(By Carl D. Ghoot)

United Press Staff Correspondent Berlin, July 8.—(Special to Daily Democrat)—Republican Germany may be crashing to ruin on the heels of a shattered financial system foreign observers believe.

Complete political collapse and anarchy may follow the monetary disaster which has overtaken the republic.

A restored monarchy or extreme communism are the alternatives if the republic comes to an abrupt end as a result of the present financial chaos. Berlin is afire with rumors. Absence of newspapers helps keep alive the wildest reports. The capital is kept orderly, but the surface quiet is ominous, covering a seething volcano of unrest.

The next week will write republican Germany's future history for them it will be decided whether the government can pay the 6,000,000,000 paper marks due July 15.

Payment of this sum will mean final, complete collapse of the mark, it is said in banking quarters. Industrial breakdown will follow, then political chaos.

WELLS COUNTY THRESHERS BOOST PRICES TO BE CHARGED FOR THRESHING

The Wells County Threshers' Association at a meeting held Thursday night made two changes in the schedule of prices announced two weeks ago.

The new schedule is as follows: oats, 12 cents per bushel; wheat, 7 cents; rye, 8 cents; and barley, 5 cents.

The new list shows wheat one cent higher per bushel, and oats 12 cent less per bushel for threshing.

Threshers explained that since the adoption of the first schedule oats is looking better and will have a heavier yield than first anticipated, while wheat is not so good, hence the change in the price lists.

Wheat threshing has begun.

BRYANT CITIZEN STABS HIMSELF

Chester Pingry in Serious Condition as Result of Attempt at Suicide

Chester G. Pingry, age about 56, well known paper hanger and restaurant man of Bryant, lies at his home in a critical condition as result of an effort to take his own life, made about 9:25 o'clock Friday morning when he stabbed himself in the throat with a butcher knife, at his home in Bryant. No reason can be assigned for the rash act other than he became despondent over poor health. Pingry has been complaining of stomach trouble for sometime, it was said.

His chances for recovery are very small according to word from his bedside this afternoon. The butcher knife was jabbed into the throat and not brought across the throat in a slashing movement. Jagged wounds about a half inch deep and about an inch long were made. The wounds bled profusely this morning and it was thought he would die from loss of blood before medical aid could reach him.

According to word from Bryant Pingry was engaged in hanging paper at the Metzner store at Bryant this morning. He left the store shortly after 9 o'clock and went to his home.

His wife was in the garden at the rear of the house at the time and two of the six children were in the house. Pingry went to the kitchen and procured the butcher knife and stabbed his throat while two of the children looked on. Horrified at the sight, the children hastened to their mother's side in the garden telling her that their father had cut his throat. Dr. Smith was immediately summoned and finally succeeded in stopping the flow of blood.

He left no note or not indication as to the cause of his deed.
