

BROWN AND WHITE LICENSE PLATES

Indianapolis, July 26—Esthetic Indiana motorists who wish to have perfect harmony in the color scheme of their cars will, when they take the "old bus" to the paint shop next winter, order a brown and white finish. For those are the colors of the 1923 license plates, the numerals being white on a brown background. The state automobile license department is getting ready for the 1923 rush. Official say that next year there will be no necessity for car owners employing the old cardboard sign—"License Applied For."

The new plates are ready and are being distributed to 36 branch offices of the state automobile department outside of Indianapolis. In order to facilitate the issuance of licenses H. D. McClelland, manager of the department plans to have a branch station in every county within another year. The branch stations are usually maintained in garages, banks or in automobile dealers' offices. The plates for the coming year will be slightly larger than those of this year, one-half inch having been added to the width and length. This increase in size has added approximately one cent to the cost of each license to the state, the cost of the new plates being 12 cents while this year's plates cost 11 cents each. The cost of issuing each plate is approximately 22 1/2 cents, including the cost of manufacture, Mr. McClelland says.

The automobile licenses, however, bring considerable revenue to the state as the fees range from $5 to $7 for different classifications of cars. The net profit to the department for the first six months of the present year was $2,674,000, according to Mr. McClelland. This money is turned over to the state highway commission and is used for maintenance and construction of roads.

In order to make the numbers on the new plates easily readable the numbers in thousands will be divided by a dash. Thus plate number 146,641 will appear 146-641.

RACING WITHOUT BETTING PLANNED FOR CALIFORNIA

United Press Staff Correspondent
San Francisco, July 26—A racing season to compare in quality with any anywhere in the country, without betting of any kind.

That is the proposition which a group of well-known racing millionaires of California will attempt to put over at Tanforan track, a few miles out of San Francisco.

The old Tanforan track, famed in the days before betting was legislated out of existence in California in 1911, is being reconstructed by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, organized by a group of millionaires. Construction is already under way, and it has been announced that everything will be in readiness for a big Thanksgiving day opening.

Those interested are A. B. Spreckles, president; Rudolph Spreckles, vice-president; Herbert Fleishacker, treasurer; Howard Spreckles, secretary; A. K. Macomber, C. K. G. Billings, Frank J. Kelly and Thomas Fortune Ryan, the New York capitalist and sportsman, directors.

Colonel D. C. Jackling is also interested in the venture, but recently resigned from active work because of other business. His place was filled by Ryan.

The club has announced that neither handbooks, oral betting, nor pari-mutuels will be tolerated at the track, and the track officials will cooperate with the police to bar all bookies and gamblers from entering the stands.

LICENSED WAREHOUSES ENABLE PLANTERS TO HOLD COTTON

More than 1,500,000 bales of cotton were received during last season, up to May 31, in cotton warehouses licensed under the United States warehouse act, the United States Department of Agriculture reports. The number of bales on hand May 31 in these warehouses was 268,345.

"These figures indicate increased recognition of the value of warehousing cotton in Government licensed warehouses," says H. S. Yohe in charge of the Federal warehouse work. "The receipts issued for cotton stored in these warehouses are readily acceptable as collateral for bank loans. The value of these receipts for collateral purposes enables growers to market their cotton orderly."

There are 271 cotton warehouses now under Federal license as compared with 239 warehouses May 31, 1921. While the number of licensed warehouses during this period has increased only 32, a great many small warehouses were dropped from the system while a number of warehouses with capacities ranging from 5,000 to 75,000 bales came under the act. The result has been that the licensed cotton storage capacity during this time has been increased more than three times what it was on May 31, 1921.

There has also been a great increase in the number of grain warehouses requesting to be licensed under the United States warehouse act, particularly in the Northwest. The number of grain warehouses now licensed is 241; 16 tobacco warehouses and 23 cool warehouses are also licensed.

SURPLUS ARMY EQUIPMENT RETURNED FOR ROAD MAKING

The first shipment of surplus war material used by the American army of occupation in Germany and now to be distributed among the states for use in road construction arrived at Boston, N. Y., July 1. The equipment consisting of 30 trucks, 7 tractors, 4 concrete mixers and 3 road rollers, will be distributed by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture in the same way as was several million dollars' worth of material from France and the arsenals and camps in this country. Additional material for road making to be shipped from Germany will consist of several hundred trucks, a number of tractors, and about 2,000,000 pounds of spare parts for trucks.

LONDON TAKES TO U. S. SOFT DRINKS

United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, July 26—Is prohibition really sweeping across the Atlantic to Great Britain?

Reports to the Department of Commerce indicate that American soft drinks are becoming popular in the British Isles.

Until recently soda fountains, according to commerce department reports, were practically unknown in London. Now they can be found in all the principal cities. One agent claims to have sold 150 fountains in the last year. The majority of the fountains go to chocolate shops, department stores and cafes, the drug stores not yet having entered into the business.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 26—A compressed air automobile engine that will revolutionize the motor car industry is the invention claimed by Christman Edwards, formerly of Detroit, who came here for his health. Edwards claims his engine will develop 1,600 horsepower on air. The motor requires neither gas, oil, electricity, or water to operate, he says, and is practically silent running. Compressed air is used in the motor. The same air is used over and over, according to Edwards.

CHAUTAUQUA IS DRAWING LARGE CROWDS DAILY

The Isaac Van Grove concert company, which furnished the entertainment this afternoon and will give another concert tonight, is composed entirely of vocalists, three men and two ladies. The company carries one of the best mixed quartets that is doing chautauqua work. Mr. Isaac Van Grove formerly served as accompanist to Mary Garden on one of her greatest American tours and was also with her in the Chicago Grand Opera company.

Mr. Harry L. Fogleman, one of the greatest lecturers on business topics in the country, will deliver his lecture "The Winning Man" at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Mr. Fogleman is a rapid fire, magnetic speaker, often called "Gatling Gun" Fogleman on account of his rapid fire delivery. Although he speaks rapidly, Mr. Fogleman speaks distinctly and holds his audience extremely well. He deals with the fundamentals of success in business and life.

The program arranged for tomorrow afternoon and night also promises to give complete satisfaction, featuring the Smith-Spring-Holmes orchestral quintet, and Arthur Frederick Ewert, popular, dynamic lecturer, both afternoon and evening.

James L. Loar, general manager of the Independent chautauqua circuit from Bloomington, Illinois, was in Decatur yesterday afternoon and last night he spoke for about ten minutes near the middle of the evening program. Mr. Loar is a real chautauqua worker and seems very anxious to furnish entertainers for his circuit who will please the public. He stated last night that his circuit has grown so large that no more new towns will be added. It is the policy of his company to have a circuit small enough that all of the greatest speakers and entertainers may appear in the small towns as well as the large cities.
