HORSE CAUSED AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Driven by Decatur Young Man Wrecked Near Portland Sunday Night

Two Decatur young men figured in an automobile accident near Portland on Sunday night when a loose horse suddenly appeared in the road directly in the path of the car. The horse was killed and the car was badly wrecked but the local youths, whose names have not been learned, escaped serious injury. The Portland Sun has the following to say about the accident:

"A Ford machine driven by two Decatur young men, whose names were not learned last night, was damaged about 2 miles north of the city about 8 o'clock last night when they collided with a stray horse, which was standing in the road. The machine was so badly damaged that it could not be driven and had to be hauled into the Kavanaugh Taxi garage on North Meridian street, where the remains of the other machines in the accidents were also towed after the mishaps. Mr. and Mrs. Kavanaugh were kept quite busy last night, answering questions and looking after the calls of unfortunate motorists. They received a call from the vicinity of Pennville sometime last night, where it was said two machines had collided, however they could not answer this call, being busy looking after the other accidents. The horse, struck by the two Decatur young men, north of here, was killed by the impact."

Ballasted For Long Service

Rails and ties, no matter how well laid, will not stand the battering of heavy trains without proper ballasting.

A roof needs ballast, too—a tough, enduring base that will hold together through years of exposure. The "ballast" of asphalt roofing is its body of asphalt-saturated felt; the length of service it gives depends largely on the strength of this felt, which supports and reinforces the surface.

Flex-a-Tile Roofing is made from genuine Richardson Felt, the standard since 1863 for all roofing purposes. It has the quality, uniformity and tensile strength that are obtainable only through long and specialized experience.

FLEX-A-TILE HOUSE TOPS

This felt is thoroughly impregnated with scientifically tempered natural asphalt, waterproofed on both sides, and finished off with a double coating of crushed slate from our own quarries at Flex-a-Tile, Georgia, giving a beautiful and durable surface of rich natural green (or red if you prefer).

For a really unusual type of high grade asphalt roofing, we recommend Flex-a-Tile Shingle Roll, which gives the appearance of individual Giant Shingles at less than half their cost. Each shingle stands out clean-cut and permanently molded, with extra thickness at the shingle butts.

For any roof where good looks are desirable and economy important, there is no better material than Flex-a-Tile Shingle Roll. It can be easily laid right over the old surface if you prefer.
