"Stoning Jesus," Was Subject Of Fine Sermon

A good crowd attended the evangelistic services at the Baptist church last night. Rev. C. P. Meeker preached a forceful sermon on the subject, "Stoning Jesus." He showed how the Jews tried to stone Him because he claimed to be God, and how they were unable to stone Him because he was

God. Rev. Meeker said, "There were only two things for the Jews to do in the face of such a claim: either admit his claim and worship Him as God, or else reject Him and deny His claims. The same thing is true today. Christ makes a claim upon every person's life. There are only two attitudes toward Him: acceptance or rejection. There is no neutral ground. We are either for Him or against Him. Many so-called Christians help stone Jesus by living such lives of sinfulness that they place stones in the hands of Jesus' enemies to be hurled at his character." Mr. Meeker will preach tonight on the subject, "A Political Gaffer's Dilemma." There will be an immersion of candidates at the close of the service to night. The meeting will close Sunday night.
