Kellogg Company Making
Demonstrations In Homes

A house-to-house canvass is being made in this city by Mrs. Bertha Van Horne, dietitian for the Kellogg company, of Battle Creek, Michigan. Mrs. Van Horne is being assisted by four other women, three of whom are dietitian women. They call on the housewives in the city and ask to explain or demonstrate the merits and tastiness of the Kellogg Food Products. Mrs. Van Horne and her lady helpers will be in the city for a week or ten days and will then go to Berne and Geneva to demonstrate. H. R. Palmer, the district manager for the Kellogg company is also in the city and is working in co-operation with the Egerer and Hite Wholesale house and the local grocers in furthering the sale of Kellogg Food Products in this territory. He is well known here and gives splendid co-operation and assistance to local grocers.

THANK YOU.

The American Legion Adams Post No. 43, wishes in this manner to express their thanks to the people who enabled us to accomplish a financial success of our benefit show at the Cort theatre. We appreciate the courteous treatment accorded us in our endeavor to entertain the public by both the management of the Cort and our patrons.

The operation was performed by two local physicians, assisted by Mr. McKean's brother, of Linn Grove. Mr. McKean's appendix was ruptured and he is in a serious condition.

High Handed Methods

Washington, Nov. 2.—Alleged high handed methods in the office of the comptroller general of the United States, with respect to handling claims were put squarely before President Coolidge here today.

Revelation of these methods was made yesterday during the course of a hearing in the senate committee's investigation of the Veterans' bureau in a manner which evoked expressions of displeasure from the senators on the committee.

Their leader, Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania, today called the White House to discuss the situation with the president.
