court sustained his objection to having the witness tell how he arrives at the mental condition of a patient. The defense then asked the question in another form and again Crowe objected and was sustained.

Again Crowe objected to a question along the same line and was sustained. A fourth objection by Crowe was "erruled. When the witness started to answer, Crowe objected again and said "the witness must confine himself to this case." Crowe was sustained.

"What is the condition of those boys?" the Judge cried. "If there is anything wrong with the boys, let us hear about it."

Fighting every step of the way, Crowe again objected to a hypothetical question, not dealing with the boys, but the court over-ruled it.

Asylum For Insane

Criminal Court Room, Chicago, Aug. 1—(Special to Daily Democrat)—Fearing that his "perfect hanging case" against Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb has been undermined by the masterly plea for mercy made late yesterday by Clarence Darrow chief defense attorney, state's attorney Crowe today completed plans to make an attempt to force the youths into an asylum for the criminal insane.

Crowe is determined that Leopold and Loeb shall not escape with life imprisonment—the aim of the defense.

Complaints are being registered by automobile owners in this section concerning the high weeds that have been allowed to become rank along the roadside and especially at road intersections. Other complaints are received concerning heavy foliage at curves and road intersections and it has been suggested that the local road officials should get busy immediately to relieve this condition, in the interest of public safety, as the state law requires.

A bulletin on this subject just issued by the safety department of the Hoosier State Auto Association, the state-wide organization of auto owners, points out that fatal or near-fatal collisions are occurring in many places in Indiana, due to obstructed views at road intersections.

"There is little doubt that the first cause of such accidents is too much speed, says the bulletin. "Common gunption ought to lead a driver to proceed cautiously when he cannot see 'around a corner' at an intersection, yet there are too many drivers who dash through a blind intersection with undiminished speed, trusting to luck that there is no one approaching at right angles. Every once in a while there is a terrific smash and the coroner attends to the subsequent details.

Not until every driver realizes the deadly hazard of such senseless driving will there be a real decrease in road corner crashes—and this goes for blind intersections in villages, towns and cities of Indiana, as well. But, in the meantime, there is a duty to be performed by township and county road officials in the matter of cutting weeds and trimming foliage according to law. The time for this work is right now. The state highway commission crews are already at work trimming weeds along the state road right-of-ways and we urge that county and township officials lose no time in following suit."

The bulletin explains that the Hoosier A. A. is making a big effort this summer to get more automobile owners interested in the work of the organization. "We are making steady gains," the bulletin continues, "but there is a vast work to be done that can only be accomplished through organized effort. A wheat pool would not be of much effect if only 10 out of every thousand farmers entered into it. By the same token an organization of automobile owners should embrace a majority of such owners in Indiana if the greatest good for all owners possible is to be accomplished. There are many matters of vital interest which are expected to come up for legislative action next winter and we believe the automobile owners should best protect themselves by assisting the state-wide association which will be expected to be their mouthpiece and 'friend at court.' This safety matter is a problem for us all to solve, and not just sit back and let George Crowe score a point when the presence of evidence tending to his duty to hear evidence in mitigation of punishment."

Justice Caverly said that he felt it a duty of punishment and in a few words summed up his stand, overruled the state's objections and ordered the defense to proceed.

"After hearing arguments of the State and the defense," Judge Caverly stated, "It is still the opinion of the court that it should hear evidence in mitigation as well as evidence in aggravation."

"Therefore, the objection of the state's attorney to the testimony of the defense witness is over-ruled."

Court's decision ended after some ten court hours of bitter fighting between the state and defense on the admissibility of medical evidence. While Justice Caverly did not so state in his final ruling, he has stated at various times during the arguments that he would not listen to testimony tending to show insanity, but would merely permit the introduction of testimony showing evidence of mental disease, "in mitigation of punishment."

Dr. William A. White of Washington, a noted alienist connected with the United States Public Health Service and other public institutions, then took the stand.

LABOR LEADERS START SESSION

Take First Step Toward Endorsing LaFollette For President

Atlantic City, August 1.—The first official step towards endorsement of the presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette was taken here today at the opening session of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

A report recommending that the governing council advise laborers of the nation to cast their ballots for the independent ticket and against the two major parties was offered by the political committee.

This committee is headed by Samuel Gompers dictator of labor policies in the past, and the weight of its suggestion is so great it is reasonable to believe it may prevail as the decision of the entire council.

Consideration of the report is the first business before the council of eleven labor chieftains who assembled here today to recommend to its 1,000,000 voting members which political candidates will best serve the desires of labor if elected.

Final decision by the council is not expected before Sunday.

There is prospect of a tiff on the LaFollette endorsement. Two of the members are opposed to such a step and believe the federation should follow a hands-off policy in the campaign.

Boy Scouts Enjoying Trip Across Atlantic

The scout swimming team is practicing daily in the big tank and camp fire programs with singing by the nassed scouts have been held every night. All the scouts are in good health.

May Appoint Sherwood To Succeed B. S. Burris

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—While there is no definite information as to when Benjamin S. Burris, state superintendent of public instruction, will resign his position to assume his new duties as president of the Indiana State Normal School, Eastern Division, at Muncie, to which he was appointed some time ago, there is considerable gossip as to what step the Governor will take to name his successor, in the event he resigns before the normal expiration of his term, which will be next March.

It is generally believed that in the event Burris does resign before the expiration of his term that the governor will name H. N. Sherwood, a professor of history at Franklin College, who is the republican nominee for the position. Politicians believe that this move is the proper one in order that Sherwood may become acquainted with the office in the event of his election.
