Indianapolis, Jan. 12.—(Special to Daily Democrat)—With brief inaugural ceremonies in the corridor of the state capitol building, Major Ed Jackson at noon today took office as the thirty-first governor of Indiana.

At the same time F. Harold Van Orman, of Evansville, was inaugurated lieutenant governor and Mrs. Emma Eaton White, Indianapolis, the first woman to hold a state office in Indiana, assumed the duties of reporter of the supreme and appellate courts.

Nearly 5,000 persons, including members of the legislature, state officials, and political leaders, witnessed the ceremonies.

The two houses convened shortly before noon and in a joint session canvassed returns on the election returns for governor in accordance with the provisions of the state constitution. Adjournment was then taken for the inauguration.

OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR RADIO FUND

Drive For Fund To Provide Blind With Sets Opens This Evening

The subscription campaign for the fund to provide radio receiving sets for the blind residents of this city, will be opened this evening at the annual banquet and meeting of the Decatur Industrial Association, Charles Colter, leader in the movement, stated today. Small envelopes will be placed at each plate this evening and those present will be asked to contribute any amount they desire to aid in the cause. The envelopes will be printed so that the contributor may enclose money in them, and write his name on the outside, or if he desires, he may fill in the blanks on the envelope, which are the same as a check.

It is hoped that the contributions received this evening will be a fine start on the campaign. Those sponsoring the movement feel certain that little difficulty will be experienced in raising a fund large enough to purchase sets for the city's blind. So far as known, there are only five blind residents in the city. After tonight a canvas will be made by several local citizens, giving everyone a chance to contribute to the fund.

KELLOGG GETS HUGHES' POST

President Coolidge Takes Over Active Control Of Foreign Policy

UNITED PRESS SERVICE Washington, Jan. 12.—With the announced resignation of Secretary of State Hughes, President Coolidge prepared today to take active control of American foreign policy and drive toward further international disarmament and world peace.

While Hughes' withdrawal on March 4, after brilliant achievements is regretted by the president, it gives Mr. Coolidge an opportunity to direct foreign affairs which he believes should be the chief concern of the next administration, now that domestic issues are in hand.

In Frank Kellogg, now ambassador to London, he has chosen as his new aide of the state department a man who will execute Coolidge's policies and dispel possible senate opposition.

The other member of the triumvirate whom the president has picked with himself and Kellogg to conduct foreign affairs is William E. Borah, chairman of the important senate foreign relations committee.

It is vitally necessary to Mr. Coolidge as a party leader that the new secretary of state be able to work with Borah. Since last summer when the president wanted Borah as his campaign running mate, the senator had been slated as the progressive spokesman in the consolidated and stronger Coolidge republican party.

With Hughes at the state department pulling in one direction and Borah pulling in the opposite direction for Russian recognition and a hands off policy in the Caribbean, Mr. Coolidge was faced with an apparently insoluble party problem. The solution came in the unsought resignation of Hughes.

Kellogg is expected to meet Borah halfway. As a senator he voted for Borah's proposal to authorize President Harding to call an arms conference. On the other hand he voted to ratify the treaty of Versailles, Borah opposed. On Russia and Caribbean policy his position is not clearly defined in the records.

Kellogg's practical experiences as a diplomat in London and his natural conservative tendencies will balance the more "liberal" policies of Borah, leaving to the president the ultimate decisions which have hitherto been almost solely in Hughes' hands.

The president is taking over control at a time of natural transition in American foreign affairs when many of Hughes' policies have culminated and a fresh situation is developing. Some of the problems follow:

Hughes made his contribution in the Washington arms conference.

FRY TRIAL IS MOVING SLOWLY IN COURT HERE

Indications Are That Case Will Reach Jury Some-time Tomorrow

MANY WITNESSES

Fry Not Yet Called To Stand To Testify In His Own Behalf

The trial of Elwood Fry, Union township youth, on a charge of grand larceny and robbery, in connection with the holdup and robbery of Homer P. Crum, Honduras storekeeper, on July 26, 1924, moved slowly in circuit court here today as a stream of witnesses for the defense moved to and from the witness stand. Indications were that the introduction of evidence would not be completed today, at least not before late this afternoon, and the case will not go to the jury before tomorrow sometime.

Fry had not taken the witness stand in his own defense at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Several residents of Union township were called upon to testify as to the reputation of Union township were called upon to testify as to the reputation of young Fry in his home community as to honesty, peace and quietude. All testified that his reputation as to those qualities was good, prior to the time of the holdup at Honduras.

The defense does not deny that Fry was with Cleho McClester when the holdup was staged, but the defense is being based on the plea that Fry was forced to be an accomplice.

CORONER WILL BE NAMED SOON

Commissioners Will Appoint Successor To The Late Dr. Mattax

In all probability a special meeting of the board of county commissioners will be held sometime this month, at which time the appointment of a county coroner to succeed the late Dr. L. L. Mattax, of Geneva, whose death occurred Thursday night, will be made.

The first man to make his candidacy for the appointment is S. E. Black, local undertaker and republican candidate in the last election for the place. Mr. Black filed notice of his candidacy with County Auditor Martin Jaber this morning and requested that it be presented to the commissioners when they meet to name a successor to Dr. Mattax.

Dr. Mattax began his third term as county coroner on January 1, 1925, serving only 8 days of his new term. It was stated that sentiment existed for the appointment of a man from the south part of the county. As far as could be learned no one was favored for the appointment, although the name of Dr. Mattax' son, Harold Mattax, publisher of the Geneva Herald, has been mentioned by his friends.

The county commissioners will more than likely be called into special session sometime this month to make the appointment. In the meantime the office of county coroner can be filled by a Justice of the Peace in the different townships, assisted by two physicians.

Funeral services for Dr. Mattax, were held Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church, at Geneva. The services were largely attended by Decatur and Adams county people and members of the Adams County Medical society.

Governor Of Kansas Charged With Soliciting And Accepting A Bribe

(UNITED PRESS SERVICE)

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 12.—(Special to Daily Democrat)—For the first time in the history of the state, a governor of Kansas was placed under arrest here today.

Warrants charging soliciting and accepting a bribe were served upon Governor Jonathan M. Davis, and his son, Russell Davis, in connection with acceptance by the latter of $1,250 from Fred Pollman, paroled convict, for a pardon for Pollman.

The governor and his son, an hour before the former was to relinquish his office to Bert S. Paulen, the new state executive, appeared at the courthouse to sign bonds of $1,000 each.

Neither displayed the slightest bit of emotion as they stood by the clerk's desk waiting to sign the papers which had been prepared.

Accompanying the governor were Colonel A. H. Harvey and the latter's two sons, who will represent the governor and his son.

Several prominent democrats were also present. Governor Davis talked in low tones with several of these and ignored other bystanders who had come to the courthouse to see their governor placed under arrest.

After signing the bonds Governor Davis left the building and went back to the state house to prepare for the inaugural ceremony at noon. Russell Davis accompanied his father.
