Newman T. Miller Compares Work Of Last Two Years In Last Statement As Fire Marshal.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—(United Press)—Newman T. Miller, in his last interview as state fire marshall, gave a brief outline of work done in 1925, compared with the fiscal years of 1924, made seven recommendations to decrease future fires and gave an outline of a fire proof building in the measure.

Miller declared that the three foregoing motives for arson are: to cover up, to get revenge, and to cover another crime. They still remain.
