who are now enroute. Although in the main the delegates were having too much fun to be bothered about serious matters, considerable interest attached to what action the legionnaires may take on several organization and national affairs.

There is the Mitchell affair, for instance. Colonel William Mitchell's daring in risking his own rank to tell the war department that its attitude on aviation is "bonheaded," has fired the imagination of a vast number of the legionnaires.

The Forty and Eight, fun making section of the legion, may bring up a resolution demanding endorsement of Mitchell's fight.

Attempts were being made by other legion officials to smother the Mitchell question in committees. However, it was believed impossible to keep the sentiment for Mitchell off the floor.

Supporters of Mitchell were anticipating the arrival of Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the legion, who is reported to be in favor of Mitchell's proposal for a unified air service. Owsley is not expected until tomorrow.

Plans were complete today for the arrival of President and Mrs. Coolidge tomorrow morning. It is planned to have Mr. Coolidge speak at 10:30 a. m. in the convention hall. At least 12,000 persons will be allowed to crowd the auditorium to hear him.

Land speakers will carry his voice to city parks and other places where 300,000 more will hear it. The speech will be broadcast by radio.

Following a luncheon in his honor the president will review the annual legion parade at 2 p. m.
