Suit For Divorce

A suit for a divorce and $1,000 alimony was filed in the circuit court here today by Elizabeth Williams against Grant Williams, aged residents of Blue Creek township. The complaint states that the parties involved were married on September 12, 1885 and that they separated in August, 1925. Mrs. Williams alleges that her husband often would fly in a rage at her, sulks and quarrel and maintain an attitude of anger and sulkeness until it affected her general health and nerves. She avers further that her husband refused to support her, that he refuses to pay the taxes and insurance, and that he carries away and disposed of her interest in the crops on their farms and threatens to take everything off the farm. Five children were born to the couple and all are married. A petition for an injunction and restraining order filed by the plaintiff was sustained by the court today and the defendant was restrained from molesting or interfering with the plaintiff, from entering upon the premises where she makes her home and from selling or disposing of any of his personal property until further order of the court. Attorney C. L. Walters, of Decatur, is counsel for the plaintiff.

The case of Clement Blasing vs. Peter A. Moran & Co. company was dismissed on motion of the plaintiff.

SCHOOLS TO HONOR RILEY

all walks of life will observe the seventy-six birthday anniversary of the famed poet. It is the hope of the State Department of Public Instruction that the school children of Indiana participate in these exercises.

"From time to time the schools of our state are asked to observe anniversaries of national events. These are well worth the few minutes they take from the daily routine of school work and should form a part of the year's program in each school room. Few anniversaries, however, are of more importance to the school children of the state than is the anniversary of James Whitcomb Riley's birthday.

"Riley won laurels as a poet but he won friends by being a friend. He received the recognition of many critics as a man of letters but he received the approbation of his fellow-men by his acts of kindness. His was a life of love, of sympathetic understanding, of service to mankind.

"Any observance made by the school children should emphasize those outstanding characteristics of the poet's life. His life should be reviewed and his poems should be read. The inspiration and the good cheer of his words which have meant so much to all of us should be passed on to the children of our commonwealth. It was for them he wrote.

"It seems particularly significant that in connection with this anniversary, the report of the first year's work of the Riley Memorial Hospital for Children shows that more than eight hundred children have been admitted to the institution since its opening in November, 1924. This is an excellent record and should be brought to the attention of the people of Indiana.

"It would seem wise to make Riley's birthday anniversary an occasion to rededicate the Hospital to the use of the boys and girls of the state. There should be renewed efforts on the part of the public to enlarge the activities of the Hospital which is indeed Indiana's greatest contribution to the physical welfare of her children.

"I sincerely hope that each teacher in the state of Indiana will take a few minutes from the daily routine work of the class room Wednesday for an appropriate observance of Riley's birthday anniversary."

Bloomington — The town was given a thrill when James Higgins, balloonist at the county fair came down on the roof of Oscar Cravens home. He was unhurt.
