COL. MITCHELL WALKS OUT ON INQUIRY BOARD

Storm Center Of Aviation Refuses To Testify In Dirigible Crash Probe

CLAIMS SUBPOENA NOT LEGALLY ISSUED

Washington, Oct. 8.—Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of aviation, walked out on the naval board investigating the Shenandoah disaster when it served him with a formal subpoena to testify today.

Mitchell, on advice of his counsel, Representative Frank Reid, republican of Illinois, openly defied the committee, refused to recognize the subpoena issued and left the navy building where the hearing was held here.

Mitchell who called because of his statement that collapse of the Shenandoah could have been avoided, took the position that the naval board had no right to question him while court-martial proceedings were pending in the war department and that any testimony by him might jeopardize his legal rights.

When the court opened here Mitchell was the first witness called, but Reid immediately interposed objection and curtly told the court Mitchell would not submit to questions.

Reid contended Mitchell had not been legally subpoenaed and after a sarcastic colloquy with Admiral Hildy P. Jones, chairman of the board, Mitchell and his counsel withdrew.

Jones called the court into executive session, ordered the judges advocate generals of the war and navy departments to appear and inform the court as to its legal right to require Mitchell to testify. Thereupon a subpoena was issued and served upon Mitchell in an adjoining room. Mitchell and Reid went into

ASPHALT BEING LAID ON ROAD

Paving Of Thirteenth Street South On State Road Is Under Way

The work of laying the asphalt on the Ben Elting road, extending south on Thirteenth street to the intersection of the Ed Green road with state road 21, about a mile south of town, has been started. The road is being paved with emulsified asphalt. It will furnish a paved approach to this city on the state highway from the south. The paving will be completed within two or three weeks, it is thought.

The Winchester street south of the Nickel Plate railroad tracks and the extension of the street, known as the Ed Green road, around the curve to state road 21, will be paved with emulsified asphalt, also, the contract having been let to the same contractor who is building the Elting road. This improvement likely will not be made until next spring, however.

NEW SURVEY IS BEING MADE BY NICKEL PLATE

Railroad Company Is Considering Branch From Latty, O., To Decatur

COMPARING COST WITH OTHER ROUTE

Col. William Beehan, Nickel Plate engineer, is here again with a crew of fifteen assistants, this time to set permanent stakes over a survey being made between Latty, Ohio, and this city, that the line and the cost of building it may be compared with that of a proposed line surveyed a few months ago between here and Dupont, Ohio. The Nickel Plate has in view the straightening of the route so as to save considerable mileage and, in order to determine just which is shortest and best route, has ordered these surveys made with cost estimates.

Would Enter City From East

The Latty line, it is said, would strike the Erie east of this city and come in over the Erie bridge near the Mutschler Packing Plant, while the Dupont line would enter the city in the north part, near the Acker Cement Works and the Holland-St. Louis Sugar factory. It is expected that definite action will be taken within a few weeks. The Latty line would connect the Nickel Plate road at Latty with the Clover Leaf and Erie divisions of the Nickel Plate system in this city.

FARMER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

William Mitchell Seriously Injured When Clothes Catch In Buzz Saw

William Mitchell, well-known farmer living east of Monroe, is bedfast as the result of an accident which came near costing his life. He and one or two others were at the William Rupert farm assisting in buzzing wood, when his coat became fast in the shaft and he was pulled against the fly wheel with terrific force. In an instant his clothing was torn off, his coat, overalls, shirt and underclothing being wrapped around the shaft. Claude Fraizer, who was standing near, saw Mr. Mitchell's predicament and with presence of mind grabbed him around the neck, perhaps saving his life.

Mr. Mitchell received a number of terrible bruises, one spot on the right hip being burned raw, one rib was broken and he is suffering from the severe shock and injuries and will be laid up several weeks. The accident happened so quickly that no one understood just what did happen until the saw was stopped by the jam of clothing.

Mitchell Field, Long Island, Oct. 8.—One aviator was killed and a second seriously injured in a crash today during the first event of the international air races, held here.

Two men—Clarence D. Chamberlain, a pilot, and Lawrence Buraneli, a passenger, were in the machine when it crashed several miles away from the judges' stand.

First reports stated both men were dead, but this was later corrected to an announcement that one had been killed and the other was in the hospital. It was officially announced that Chamberlain was the man killed and then changed to state that Buraneli had met death while Chamberlain was injured.

The machine crashed so far from the field that the accident was not witnessed by spectators and it was first reported by telephone.

The contestants in the race did not stop when Chamberlain's plane crashed. The winner of the flight was Pilot B. L. Rowe, who flew a Thomas Morse S-42 at an average speed of 102.9 miles an hour.

(United Press Service)

Forbes Field, Oct. 8.—"Kiki" Cuyler, Pittsburgh's outfielder, broke up the second game of the 1925 world series this afternoon and produced the long waited Pirate punch at the critical moment.

With the score tied at one to one and Max Carey on first in the last half of the eighth, Cuyler straightened one of Stan

Coveleskie's spitters for a home run that bounded into the temporary stands in right field, the Pirates winning, 3-2.

As "Kiki", face wreathed in smiles, bounded around the bases the 40,000 fans went wild with joy. Previous to this there had been a homer by Joe Judge into the same stands that put Washington in the lead and another by Glenn Wright, which fell into the same stands, tying the score.

Vic Aldridge, who worked in the box for the Pirates, gave one of the tamest exhibitions of pitching that has ever been seen in a world's series. He filled the bases twice and escaped by having only one run scored.

Rodger Peckinpaugh, the veteran shortstop who was voted the most valuable player in the American league, broke out with two bad errors in the eighth one of which put Moore on the base with the run that won the game.

BOOM PERSHING FOR LEGION HEAD

Election Of National Commander Scheduled To Be Held Tomorrow

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 8.—(United Press)—General John J. Pershing was boomed for national commander of the American Legion today by the Missouri delegation to the national legion convention in session here.

The Missourians called Pershing, who is in South America, asking him to accept.

The boom for the former commander of the American expeditionary forces in the world war was greeted warmly by other delegations. Election of a national commander takes place tomorrow.

A hands off policy in regard to United States entrance into the league of nations was voted. However, the convention voted favorably on a proposal for the United States to send an official observer to all league sessions.

The convention is at peace over the Mitchell issue, it was apparent today. Supporters and opponents of Colonel William Mitchell patched up a truce, compromising on demands, that the Mitchell air policy be endorsed.

The American Legion is "profoundly impressed" with Colonel Mitchell's proposal to reorganize the nation's defense under one cabinet officer, but the delegates were not asked to approve the program by their aeronautical committee.

The committee presented a resolution to the convention today in which all reference to Mitchell had been deleted.
