THE DAIRY SHOW—

If somebody announced that $10,000,000 in gold had been piled in stacks at the state fairground the public probably would have sufficient curiosity to go out and see it. The dairy show which opened today, means much more. It is a $10,000,000 show inasmuch as the exhibits there represent as much wealth as that, and they represent farms, factories and retail establishments worth billions.

Indianapolis is awakening to the fact that the dairy show is the biggest thing of its kind in the country. Realization is coming of the magnitude of the dairying industry. Dairying means more than milking a cow or going out to the barn lot to laugh at the antics of the little wabbling calf. In reality it means not only cream, milk and butter, but it is the basis of the cheese industry, of ice cream and frozen suckers, of evaporated milk, Eskimo pie and a score of kindred products. The methods of the business are shown at the fairground from first to last.

Probably never before has there been collected together such herds of high grade cows, such magnificent bulls, such an array of machinery used in all the phases of the dairying industry. A horse show is being held in connection with the cattle exhibit. President Coolidge will be present in the form of golden butter and keeping cool with Coolidge is expected to prevent melting while the show is in progress. Officials of the Dairying Association are enthusiastic. This is the first time they have had the room and the buildings for an adequate display of cattle, products and machinery. Realizing that the Indiana state fairground has provided an ideal site and proper equipment for the show, those interested in the business are confident this year's exhibition will be the best they ever held. The only thing necessary now to make the show complete is for the people to go and see the interesting exhibits and learn more about a business that concerns them from the cradle to the grave.—Indianapolis News.

John W. Weeks, secretary of war has resigned from President Coolidge's cabinet. Ill health is given as his reason. Secretary Weeks has been unable to be at his desk for more than six months and wishes to retire to private life. Dwight F. Davis, assistant secretary in the department is slated for the appointment and with Mr. Weeks' retirement, only four of President Harding's appointments remain in the present cabinet. The controversy now on between the army and navy departments and the supporters of a separate post for the airplane division more than likely makes the secretaryship a difficult task at this time.

The members of the Junior calf club in this county were taken to Indianapolis this morning to attend the National Dairy show, the trip being one of the prizes given the members as a result of their club work. They will attend the big show, gain much information and see what an important industry the dairy business is. The trip is given them by the Decatur Industrial Association and the Cloverleaf Creamery of this city co-operating, and is one of the fine events

In the Junior club work carried out in this county this year.

A county round-up of all Junior farm clubs is being planned for November 7th in this city. Winners in the calf club, the corn and sugar beet clubs are invited to bring their calves and exhibits to this city where an all-day exhibition will be held and grand prizes will be awarded. The farmers will serve a dinner and the event promises to be a delightful community event.

The trial of old man Stephenson started yesterday at Noblesville and the main task is to select a jury. He will be tried for murder and within the last six months he has found how little his orders amounted to when it came to giving bail. Stephenson and his clerk are a nasty bunch and the decent Hoosier has felt safer during their confinement in the Noblesville jail.

In case you have forgotten, let us remind you that you are supposed to vote in the city election three weeks from today. The campaign is progressing very quietly, but that does not mean that you should forget to vote.

American Troops Called To Stop Trouble In Panama

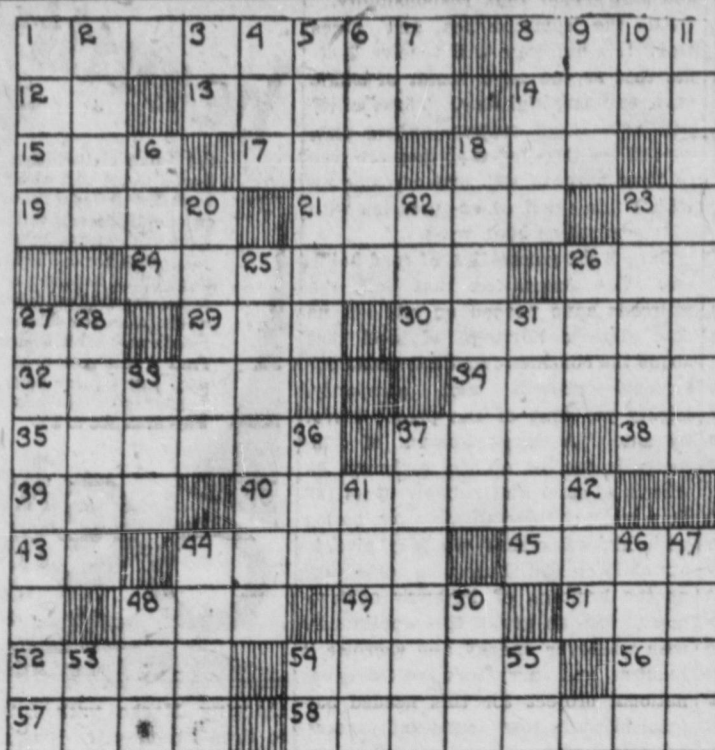

Balboa, C. Z., Oct. 13. — (United Press.)—American troops, invited into Panama City by the Panama government in an effort to suppress anti-rent payers demonstrations last night, killed one native, shot and wounded two others and caused the arrest of forty.

Earlier in the evening one of the patrols ordered against the ring of natives dispersed it. They at first refused to comply, but rushed to their homes when the Americans approached.

Patrol was assaulted with missiles thrown from the upper stories of the strikers' homes. A shot was fired, narrowly missing one of the Americans. The troops then countered with their revolvers.

RICHES

There are some things of value. The fair esteem of everyone he knows. Life bestows. Success lies not alone in wealth or grace. Riches of spirit and the tints of grace. 'Tis in a neighbor's love and friendship true. Which lift a man above the commonplace. A humble garden may as truly claim God's morning sunshine and the evening dew. And make him long remembered when he goes. A good name is beyond the rage of foes. And past the power of gossip to Peace and rich memories with life's sunset fall. He has achieved who, through the years, can trace To him who has been gentle through it all.

Proper Tuning Of Receivers

A regenerative receiver improperly tuned is a sure source of annoyance for other listeners.

The circuit, known as the Armstrong, is one of the most efficient ones in use today, but when not properly tuned it is capable of causing a great deal of interference.

A great many owners of this type set, not knowing or thinking of this, force their set to oscillate and cause the so-called "cat fights" and various other howls often heard while one is enjoying a jazz selection from WLW, or grand opera from WEAF, etc.

The regenerative set, when made to oscillate, becomes a small transmitting station. In fact, it is possible to transmit over distances as great as six or seven miles, by placing a key in the B battery circuit of a set operating in this condition. "Don't try this, boys, as to do so requires a government license." It is very easy to tune a set of this kind without making it regenerate, (howl) by taking just a little patience and care in the adjusting of the various dials and knobs. The following are three things to remember when tuning a regenerative set to prevent howls:

1. Keep the filament rheostat on the detector tube just below the point where a hissing sound is heard. This saves the life of the tube, also.
2. Keep the tickler coupling just as loose as possible. In other words, keep the movable coil and the stationary coil of the coupler well separated.
3. After you have the rheostat properly set, turn the tuning condenser slowly, and follow each movement of same by a slight adjusting of the tickler. Be careful not to advance the tickler to the point where the set howls. The best results will be obtained by keeping the set tuned just below the oscillating point, and when so tuned you are not interfering with the reception of others.
