ALLEGED FORGER FOUND NOT GUILTY

Lloyd Biberstein Acquitted When Defect Is Found In The Affidavit

A verdict of not guilty was returned by the jury in the trial of Lloyd Biberstein, on a charge of forgery, in circuit court Wednesday afternoon, after the court had instructed the jury to acquit the defendant. These instructions were given to the jury after a technical defect in the affidavit had been pointed out by counsel for the defense.

Biberstein was arrested here during fair week last month. He presented a check at the Hoosier store, asking that it be cashed. The check was made out to Biberstein for $13.20 and signed, "Bert Elevator Co." Lee Lawless, manager of the store, became suspicious when he read the signature on the check and he told Biberstein that he would call the Burk Elevator company here and ask if the check was good. When he stepped to the telephone, Biberstein ran from the store. Charles Ault, a special policeman, gave chase and caught Biberstein near the interurban station.

Four witnesses had testified for the state before the question of the validity of the affidavit was questioned. Biberstein is a young married man residing in the southern part of Adams county.

MELLON MAKES NEW INCOME TAX RATE SCHEDULE

New Schedule Is Forwarded To House Ways And Means Committee

SLASHES 25 PER CENT. FROM PRESENT RATES

Washington, Oct. 22.—A new schedule of normal income tax rates, slashing about 25 per cent from the present schedule was set out in a letter Secretary of the Treasury Mellon forwarded to Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee.

The new schedule would provide an income tax of one per cent on $3,000; two per cent on the next $1,000; three per cent on the next $4,000, and five per cent thereafter. This compares with the original Mellon suggestion of one per cent on $3,000; three per cent on the next $4,000 and five per cent thereafter.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Following a series of political tilts with members of the Iowa Tax club, the house and ways committee today ordered politics barred from discussion at its hearings, and instructed future witnesses to confine themselves exclusively to taxes.

Representative Oldfield, democrat, Arkansas, raised the question when the committee met for their fourth hearing on the new $300,000,000 tax reduction bill and asked that no more political arguments be indulged in.

"Political discussion is not in order before the committee," Chairman Green, republican, of Iowa, ruled.

Several speakers denounced communism and referred to opponents of the Mellon plan as "radicals."

R. B. Lowden, Lowden Machinery company, Fairfield, Iowa, today asked reduction of the present 12½ per cent capital stock tax to six or eight per cent. He endorsed the proposal to combine the capital stock with the corporation tax.

TEACHERS TALK POLITICS TODAY

Selection Of President Of State Association Occupies Attention

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—(United Press)—Political gossip filled the air as the 14,000 Indiana school teachers gathered here today for the annual convention of the state teachers' association.

A boom for Miss Martha Whitaker of Richmond, who was one of the strong candidates for president of the association last year, was started early.

Last year Miss Whitaker and R. U. Graff, superintendent of the Indianapolis schools, were deadlocked for many ballots and finally Dr. W. P. Dearing, of Oakland City college, was selected to break the deadlock.

Another candidate mentioned for the presidency of the association is Dr. Henry N. Sherwood, state superintendent. The present convention will be one of the most important in the history of the association. The teachers will be called upon to decide two vital questions which threaten to cause a bitter fight.

These questions are the plan to abolish the present state-wide gathering and substitute concurrent regional sessions and the matter of establishing a delegate assembly system.

Twenty sectional meetings will be held this morning and this afternoon with the first general session scheduled for tonight.

FARMER SLAIN BY NEIGHBOR

Huntington County Farmer Confesses He Murdered Andrew Stouse

Huntington, Oct. 22.—Charles Fairchild, 41, who lives across the road from Andrew Stouse, 41, bachelor farmer, who was found slain at his farm northeast of here last Tuesday night, confessed last night that he murdered Stouse. Fairchild, who has a wife and six children, told the officers that the murder was prompted by Stouse's threats to kill him and derogatory remarks alleged to have been made by Stouse concerning Mrs. Fairchild and her daughters.

Fairchild said he went to the Stouse barn about daybreak Friday morning, carrying his shotgun loaded with two shells. He is quoted as saying that he made the trip with the intention of killing Stouse. He said Stouse was not there, so he decided to await his appearance. He waited about half an hour, according to his story to the officers, and when Stouse entered the barn, about fifteen feet from where Fairchild was standing, he lifted his gun and fired once.

Fairchild said his victim staggered and fell and when the form was still, he dragged the body to the pile of straw, carefully covering it. The body was found Tuesday night, in the spot described by Fairchild, by three neighbors who had become uneasy over Stouse's continued absence. Examination of the body disclosed 14 pieces of shot in the right side of the head and in the neck.

There had been no words between the two men at the time of the shooting, Fairchild told the officers. He said he went to the place with the intention of killing Stouse and did not intend to give the victim a chance to talk or fight.

The arrest of Fairchild and the subsequent confession of the murder was brought about through Chester A. Lincoln, prosecutor of the Whitley-Noble circuit court, who recalled that Stouse and Fairchild had had trouble. Stouse having been called before the Whitley circuit court on September 24, when it is understood he told of being struck by Fairchild with a gas pipe while he was at Fairchild's home visiting the family on account of the illness of Fairchild's son. The blow on the head had caused a deep scalp wound.

ARMIES OF BOTH NATIONS REPORT MANY CASUALTIES

Diplomats Of Both Countries Work Frantically To Stem War Spirit

MUCH ANXIETY LEST THE TROUBLE SPREAD

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
Greek and Bulgar are locked in combat near the rim of Macedonia, and reports out of the Balkans today say that numerous casualties have already occurred.

A Sofia United Press message recounted that the Bulgarian cabinet was called to meet tonight to decide whether or not Bulgaria could declare war on Greece.

Meantime diplomats at Sofia and Athens were reported frantically trying to stem the war spirit. But neither nation had even answered the other's sharp demands, arising from what the Greeks call a Bulgarian invasion of Macedonia and the Bulgars call Greek invasion of their territory.

No report of league of nations action to consider the situation had come to early afternoon.

The Bulgar village of Coula was occupied by the Greeks following their taking of Petritsi yesterday and fighting was in full swing when the cablegrams were fled.

Bulgaria, thinking of declaring war, is ill-equipped to wage it, since her armament is practically nonexistent as a result of the allied conditions imposed upon her.

However, London messages said that there was a great deal of anxiety, lest the present trouble spread through the Balkan "powder keg" at a time when Europe was dreaming of peace as a result of the Locarno safety agreements.

Athens, Oct. 22.—Fighting is in full swing between Greeks and Bulgarians.

Having occupied Petritsi yesterday, the Greeks followed this up today by occupying the Bulgarian village of Cuba. Fighting ensued and is now progressing.

The double occupations are part of the Greek course of compelling Bulgaria to end the alleged raiding of Macedonia by guerrilla warriors.

FALL WEATHER PREDOMINATES

Mercury Climbs Few Notches Today, But Cool Wave Is Due To Stay

Fall weather predominates in Adams county.

After several attempts of old man weather to chase the summer temperature away, it appears that he has finally succeeded in ushering autumn in, especially in northern Indiana.

Last week's cold weather is still in our midst and the trees are quickly assuming their colors. Fewer leaves have fallen so far this year than usual, but it is predicted that the early morning frosts will soon cause them to fall.

Today, the mercury was slightly higher than yesterday, but weather predictions are to the effect that the cool wave will remain. Snow flurried for a few minutes last night and then changed into rain.

A slight frost was reported this morning, but there is very little vegetation which can be affected now by the frosts. The last few days have set a record for cold weather in October, at least for recent years and this leads many to believe that this part of the season will have a cold winter.

Cool weather usually holds off until the first or second week in November, but this year furnaces were being renovated and started as early as three weeks ago.
