Want O'Connell's Case Reconsidered By Landis

By Henry L. Farrell
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
New York, Oct. 29.—Commissioner Landis, head of baseball, will be asked at the annual winter meetings of the big leagues to reconsider the case of Jimmy O'Connell, the young former Giant outfielder, who was placed on the ineligible list after the 1924 scandal.

The movement is not being pushed actively by anyone connected with the New York club or anyone with any particular sympathy for the former champions.

Most of the National league officials and practically every player in the two big leagues feel that O'Connell acted innocently if he had any part in the attempt to bribe Heinie Sand, the Philadelphia shortstop, for not "bearing down" in one of the last games of the 1924 season against the Giants.

They point out also that the New York officials failed to get a case against the California youngster and the investigation of Commissioner Landis showed that he had acted innocently and had been made the goat. "The boy was just a green, innocent youngster," a prominent National league man said today. "He would do anything he was told and was made the goat for countless practical jokes. I know that at one time he was sent to the clubhouse for a couple of left-handed bats and he tried to find them. Another time, in the eighth inning of a tight game in which the Giants were playing, one of the regulars sent him to the clubhouse for the home run bats and he returned with an armful."

"That boy has been given a big enough dose for what he was charged with doing and they ought to take him back."

Pennsylvania Star May Be Out Of Illinois Game

New York, Oct. 29.—Two good legs—A grid battle between two of the most famous backfield stars football has produced seems to have been cancelled with the news from Philadelphia that Al Krueze, the Pennsylvania ace, will be out of the lineup when Red Grange and his Illinois team mates invade the Quaker City Saturday.

According to the decidedly bearish information handed out by the Penn coaching staff, Krueze has an injured left knee which will not permit him to play for more than a week.

Football mentors dearly love to betray their public by sounding the lugubrious note in advance of the big games. Week after week, passes in which a casualty list is announced and the members on that list get into action just as though they never had been injured.

KIRKLAND TEAM GETS NEW NAME

Quintet Nicknamed "Kangaroos"; Play Lancaster Friday Night

When the Kirkland high school basketball team takes the floor against the Lancaster Bob Cats, at Lancaster Friday night, yells of "Yea Kangaroos" are likely to be heard. The pupils of Kirkland high school have unanimously selected the title of "Kirkland Kangaroos" for their team. The name was selected during a contest which closed this morning. The winning name was suggested by Alfred Heller and Walter Smith.

Friday night's game will be the first game of the season for Lancaster. Kirkland has not forgotten the two defeats suffered at the hands of Lancaster last season, which were the first victories ever won by Lancaster over Kirkland. The Kangaroos are out to trounce the Bob Cats. The Kirkland team has improved in all departments of the game since its first contest with Rockcreek here last week. Lancaster has three regulars from last year's quintet. They are Bowman, center; Spehger, forward; and Johnson, guard. In the preliminary game Friday night, the Kirkland girls will play the Lancaster girls.

The withdrawal was finished at 8 a. m. today, well within the time limit set by the council at Paris on Monday when it required that Greece and Bulgaria should notify the council on Thursday that invasion of foreign territory by either, or both parties, had ended definitely.

With completion of the evacuation, the threat of real hostilities in the Balkans seemed stopped. Greece felt that she had shown her loyalty in the matter when yesterday she reentered evacuation even after Bulgars attacked the withdrawing forces.
