Murder Trial

CLAIM INFECTION IN WOUNDS KILLED GIRL

Noblesville, Ind., Nov. 3.—(United Press.)—Another telling point supporting the state's claim that Madge Oberholtzer died from infection developing in her wounds was brought out today at the trial of D. C. Stephenson, Earl Klenck and Earl Gentry.

The wounds, the state charges, in its murder case against the three men, were inflicted during an attack on a train ride from Indianapolis to Hammond last March. Dr. J. M. MacDonald, an expert witness called in by the state, testified that bichloride of mercury rarely produces a high temperature in a person who has taken it.

Had High Temperature
The temperature of Miss Oberholtzer just before her death was more than 106 degrees, Dr. MacDonald testified.

This fact, he asserted, pointed to infection from her wounds as the cause of her death rather than bichloride of mercury taken after the alleged attack.

"If the infection from her wounds had continued for several days, it is probable that the infection was the cause of her high temperature," he said.

As the state continued building up its expert testimony pointing to the infection as the cause of Miss Oberholtzer's death, Stephenson lost the buoyant air which characterized his attitude early in the trial.

Stephenson leaned back in his chair, listening attentively to the testimony of Dr. MacDonald, who followed Dr. Virgil Moon, Indiana University pathologist, on the stand.

Noblesville, Ind., Nov. 3.—(United Press.)—A stubborn attempt to tear down the damaging testimony of Dr. Virgil Moon, pathologist, was made by defense attorneys today in the murder trial of D. C. Stephenson, Earl Klenck and Earl Gentry.

As a state witness, Dr. Moon had testified that Miss Madge Oberholtzer, for whose death the three defendants are being tried, might have died from blood poisoning resulting from infected teeth wounds.

Eph Inman, chief defense attorney, questioned Dr. Moon on every medical angle of the case in an attempt to show that Miss Oberholtzer died from the self-administered poison.

His questions revealed the theory of the defense that the girl died from

TO CONDUCT TAG DAY ON SATURDAY

Volunteers Of America To Seek Funds Here For Carrying On Work

Permission has been given to a representative of the Volunteers of America to hold a "Children's Heart-Tag Day" in Decatur on Saturday, November 7, as has been done in other nearby communities. This organization "has established itself on a very high plane," says the secretary of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, "being recognized as worthy by our community chest, which subjects all its beneficiaries to most exacting tests."

The affair will be sponsored by the following well-known leaders in civic and clerical circles: Mayor H. M. DeVoss, Rev. Father Seimetz, Rev. B. N. Covert, Mrs. Faye Smith-Knapp and Mrs. F. W. Downs.

The Volunteers of America, organized more than thirty years ago by Gen. Hollington Booth, is a national institution, having one or more headquarters in every state in the Union.

One department of its activities is spiritual work among prisoners of penal institutions and for this home missionary work clergymen are regularly employed by the organization.

Another commendable phase of Mr. Booth's work is looking after the families of prisoners left destitute while the father serves his sentence.

Said a representative of the Volunteers of America, "We find that when a man is convicted it generally leaves the family about penniless, that the mother moves from the place of trial to keep her neighbors from knowing her husband is a convict. This reticence on the part of the mother often results in great suffering to herself and children rather than expose their humiliating position by applying for public aid. There may be

Washington, Nov. 3.—(United Press.)—Prosecution in the court-martial today granted the request of the defense for subpoenas of 73 witnesses, including three cabinet members and adjourned the trial until next Monday to permit their examination by defense counsel.

The court, earlier in today's session, had overruled a motion by Mitchell to have a verdict of "not guilty" returned.

Washington, Nov. 3.—(United Press.)—Holding that army prosecutors had failed to make a case against him, Colonel William Mitchell today threw his court-martial into another legal tangle and for the third time sought to have the proceedings quashed.

The latest legal maneuver by the flying colonel—a motion to strike out all charges and specifications—based on the contention that prosecutors did not substantiate accusations of the war department, was pressed when court convened.

The motion was made late yesterday when the army rested its case after establishing that Mitchell had issued his statement condemning the

Recognized By Man Who Knew Him Personally

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 3.—Identification of the bandit slain here Saturday night as the notorious George "Dutch" Anderson was regarded as complete at police headquarters here today following arrival of George Pate of Toledo, federal secret service agent, who knew the outlaw personally.

Pate readily identified the body as that of Anderson, confirming the previous reports of Police Lieutenant Roy W. Ferris, who made the fingerprint tests; of A. W. Hamilton, post-office inspector from Grand Rapids, and of Bert Brown, in charge of Detroit's secret service.

While Anderson's body lay under guard at Clock undertaking parlors here, members of the police force joined in preparation for the funeral of Detective Charles Hammond tomorrow.

Hammond was mortally wounded by Anderson while trying to arrest him for passing counterfeit money. The bandit was slain by his own revolver, however, as Hammond's last act in line of duty was to wrench it from him and fatally wound Anderson.

OFFICIALS BEING ELECTED IN 93 CITIES IN INDIANA; MANY OTHER MUNICIPALITIES ARE TAKING VOTE

Unusually Large Vote Is Predicted In Decatur; Voting Is Heavy Soon After Polls Open; Democrats Claim Victory For Entire Ticket Here; Walker Favored By Odds Of 15-1 In New York City Election; Close Fights Predicted In Fort Wayne And Indianapolis.

With the prediction of the heaviest vote in the history of Decatur municipal elections, workers for both democratic and republican parties started early this morning gathering in the votes and urging all voters to vote the straight ticket.

Until the last few days, the Decatur city election has been comparatively quiet, but candidates have been canvassing the town and they all predict a heavy vote. In 1921, when H. M. DeVoss was swept into the mayorality office and the entire democratic ticket, with the exception of one councilman, was elected, there were 2,560 votes cast.

Workers hope to advance that total to near the 3,000 mark this year. Democratic workers predict that every man on their ticket will be elected by a comfortable majority, while republican workers hope to elect one or two candidates at least. A heavy morning vote was recorded at all the polls.

Few irregularities were reported at any of the voting places and little challenging was done. The "last minute forces" were organizing at noon today in an effort to get every eligible voter to the polls by 5 o'clock.

The heaviest voting was reported at the Third ward, A precinct, where more than half of the voters had cast their ballots by noon. The Daily Democrat will receive the returns tonight and the public is cordially invited to come here for returns on the election here and also other city elections.

SAYS POLICEMEN ACCEPTED BRIBES

Attorney Claims 300 Officers Were On Payroll Of Notorious Bootleggers

Chicago, Nov. 3.—(United Press.)—Three hundred Chicago policemen were charged today with having been on the payroll of the notorious Genna brothers, bootleggers, for the past two years.

The charge was made by Patrick H. O'Donnell, in the court of Judge William Brothers, where two Genna henchmen, are on trial for murder. The 300 policemen collected $8,000 a month, O'Donnell charged.

Some of the policemen took their pay in liquor and bootlegged it, the attorney said. In return for their pay the policemen kept hands off of the score or so of liquor manufacturing plants maintained by the brothers, and saw to it that consignments of liquor were unmolested, by law officers and protected from hi-jackers, O'Donnell declared.

O'Donnell made his charges to prove that the police had attempted to dispose of Albert Anselmi and John Scallisi, Genna henchmen, for fear of exposure. The two men were charged with the murder of two policemen and O'Donnell declares it was a case of self defense.

O'Donnell was prevented from making further charges when the court declared that the attorney must confine himself to the issues in the case. O'Donnell declared he had a "little black book" which he was going to turn over to federal agents.

State attorneys held that O'Donnell was trying to blacken the name of the police department in a desperate effort to influence the jury.

Indianapolis, Nov. 2.—Despite last minute appeals of politicians for a heavy vote, indications were that the vote in Indianapolis city election would be light.

One man, a negro democratic worker, was arrested in Indianapolis, charged with intimidating a voter.

Private detectives have been employed by the democrats in an effort to prevent fraud and Chief of Police Ricehoff issued a warning that he would not permit interference by private detectives, state police, or horse thief detectives.

Fair Weather In State
With fair weather reported in all parts of the state, indications were that a heavy vote would be cast in the most of the 93 cities outside of Indianapolis.

In thirteen cities the candidates for mayor are unopposed, ten of these are republicans and three democrats. A heavy vote was certain in South Bend at noon today, when men and women flocked to the polls and stood in line awaiting their turn at the machines.

Republicans seeking to overthrow the regime of George Durgan, 18 years mayor of Lafayette, saw victory in the heavy vote there.

In Fort Wayne, indications are that the fight to oust Mayor Hosey would bring out a heavy vote.

New York, Nov. 3.—(United Press.)—With betting odds as high as 15 to 1 on State Senator "Jimmy" Walker, Tammany nominee, New York City voted today on a new mayor. Backers of Fred D. Waterman, fountain pen manufacturer and republican candidate, continued to predict a victory, but it was generally predicted that Walker would roll up a 2 to 1 majority.

Weather conditions were unfavorable to a large vote. It was gray, damp day with the temperature hovering near 40 degrees. With the total registration only 1,240,000, an evidence of the pathetic campaign, the vote is not expected to
