New Experiment To Be Tried In Football Game

By Henry L. Farrell,
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Nov. 6.—(United Press)—Football modernists will put the game through the most interesting ex- periment tomorrow at Providence hat has been tried since the conserva- tives were forced to accept the for- ward pass.

Brown university and Boston uni- versity have been persuaded by a small group of gridiron radicals to measure their game by a number of plays instead of timing the periods by the tick of a watch.

The idea is this:

Each period will be restricted to forty plays and they are to count consecutively, excepting in cases where a foul has been committed by the defending team necessitating the imposition of a penalty. For in- stance, if a play is called back be- cause the defending team was off-side, the play will not count against the team in possession of the ball. If, after four plays, the ball goes to the other side on downs, the play will be number five play and the tabulation continued.

The same rules will prevail as un- der the watch system of timing.

At the start of each period the score board will register "40 plays to go," then "39," "38" and so forth, until forty plays have been made. The periods ends then and the score at that time is recorded.

Advocates of the new system be- lieve, although there are arguments against it, that the game will be speeded up, because there will be no benefit to a team stalling in the last part of the game by throwing forward passes wildly and promiscuously.

Dutch Anderson Was Scion Of The Danish Nobility, Says Lawyer

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The veil of mystery that shrouded the real identity of Dutch Anderson, slayer, bank robber and desperado, whose career was ended by a bullet from his own revolver at Muskegon, Mich., Saturday, was pierced today.

In a copyrighted story the Roches- ter Journal and Post Express prints the life history of the bandit, as given by William J. Baker, an attorney, of this city, and to whom the police of the Michigan city have turned for advice, now that the curtain has fallen on one of the amazing crime dramas of America. The records at Atlanta Federal Prison gave the name of Mr. Baker as the person to be called in case of death.

While the bullet-riddled body of George (Dutch) Anderson lies in the morgue at Muskegon—it will be tempo- rarily interred in that city at the direction of Mr. Baker—a widowed mother awaits patiently in Denmark for another letter from the boy she thinks is prospering in business in this country. That letter never will come.

Must Break News

And to the Rochester attorney falls the lot of breaking the sad news.

Madame von Teller, representative of a noble Danish family, never knew that her son, Ivan Danl von Teller and Dutch Anderson, internationally-known bandit, safe-blower and desper- ado, were one and the same.

Mr. Baker said:

"She does not know, and I hope she never will know.

"No matter what others may say about Anderson's real name being Brown or Heins, or any of the many other aliases he used and fixing his birthplace as St. Louis, or any Ameri- can city, the fact remains—and I can vouch for its authenticity—that he was born in Denmark and christened Ivan Danl von Teller.

"At the age of twenty he ran away from home and came to America. With 'the lid off' it was not long be- fore he fell in with criminals of var- ious kinds and soon his genius for crime began to assert itself. From petty crimes he soon became a mem- ber of larger 'mobs,' and it was not many years before he found himself a leader in the circle of those who lived by pitting their intelligence against that of the police for big stakes.

"In his Bertillon pictures there is an unmistakable sneer in the down- ward draw left corner of his mouth. Although even among the police he was always characterized as 'the gentleman crook,' he himself frankly admitted a vicious hatred against or- ganized society.

"This he attributed to an experi- ence in South Carolina, when he was convicted of a crime because, as he would have phrased it, 'there was no one else to hang it on,' and sent to one of the turpentine camps operated by convict labor."

Although Mr. Baker said he had re- ceived no direct communication from Anderson since his escape from At- lanta nearly two years ago, he ex- pressed no surprise at the way in which he came to his end.

"Anderson always said he would never be captured alive again," the attorney said, "but the thing I can't understand is this story that he had a woman companion with him when he was captured. Anderson never worked with women to my knowledge, and I've known him a long time."

From the time of the release from Auburn until his escape from Atlanta, Mr. Baker said, "Anderson looked on Rochester as a kind of sanctuary and refrained from plying his vocation in this city. He visited the attorney many times in his free years and, according to Mr. Baker, invariably notified Capt. McDonald, detective, of his presence in this city, to avoid the humiliation of being picked up in the street and taken to police headquar- ters for questioning.

Mr. Baker said he would arrange to have the body of the bandit in- terred at Muskegon and would then communicate with Mme. Von Teller as to the final disposition of the body of her son Ivan.

"She does not get the American papers," he said, "and for many years her only news from America has been the regular letters from her son."

Anderson met Gerald Chapman, equally famous bandit, in Auburn prison, when he was serving a sen- tence for a jewelry robbery at Roches- ter. He was at that time teaching Spanish in the prison school and found in Chapman a kindred spirit. From that time, Mr. Baker said, their paths ran together until Chapman's arrest at Muncie, Ind.

Tanners Show How To Detect Shoe Frauds

Chicago, Nov. 6.—(United Press)—The "A B C" of avoiding fraud in buy- ing shoes and other leather products is taught in a series of exhibits, pre- pared by the American Leather Pro- ducers and displayed in connection with the two-day convention of the Tanners' Council of America which opened here today.

"There is nothing which the aver- age individual buys about which he is as ignorant as leather goods," said Leo Elkan, president of the Chicago Tan- ners' association, which arranged the exhibits.

"The increased use of leather offers dishonest manufacturers a greater opportunity of faking. Some of these im- itations are so skillful even a tanner is deceived.

"One consists of scattering leather fillings over a fabric and applying a laquer finish. This preparation has none of the qualities of leather, yet a retailer might buy and sell it as such without intentional fraud."

A model shoe factory is in operation at the convention.

Prominent tradesmen from every state in the union are in attendance. Among them are representatives from England, France, Canada and Austra- lia.

Taxes On Corporations And Capital Stock Stand

Washington, Nov. 6. — (United Press)—The house ways and means committee today voted to retain the present taxes on corporations and on their capital stock.

Action was taken, however, to re- lieve small business men by raising the amount considered as earned in- come from $10,000 to $20,000.

The committee turned down the sug- gestion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to start the surtaxes at a $13,000 income, leaving the surtax ap- plying at $10,000 as at present.

Mrs. Daniel Falk and son, Charles John, and daughter, Constance Mary, of Peru, are the guests of Mrs. Mae Melbers.
