MUCH DAMAGE CAUSED BY DOGS

County Auditor Pays Out $2,800 This Year For Stock Damaged by Dogs

County Auditor Martin Jaberg has paid out more than $2,800 out of the dog tax fund this year to farmers for damages to sheep and fowls. Stray dogs have been doing a great deal of damage this year, especially to sheep. In October, the losses paid for sheep, which the dogs killed, amounted to $563. This month, the losses total $372.50 to date and one or two claims are pending before the board of commissioners for allowance.

Mr. Jaberg urges farmers to be on the look-out for stray and sheep-killing dogs. According to law, dogs which are caught killing sheep must be killed before the claims can be paid.

The dog license fees in this county are three and five dollars a year and sentiment exists for lowering this fee, but it will be impossible to lower this tax in view of the large damage done by dogs to sheep and fowls, it was stated. Sheep are now worth about $15 a head.
