The address heralded the official opening of the wets' new campaign to spur this congress to some modification of the Volstead act, and was directed to prove the advisability of adopting Edge's bill.

ELEPHANT ROCK IS BROUGHT TO DECATUR TODAY

Large Boulder, To Be Dedicated To Memory Of Mrs. Porter, Is Moved

DEDICATION SET FOR A LATER DATE

Elephant Rock, the huge boulder taken out of the St. Mary's river recently, to be dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Gene Stratton-Porter, formerly of this county and city, arrived in Decatur this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The boulder was taken out of the river several weeks ago by A. M. Meads, of Convo, Ohio, who had the contract for moving it to this city.

Several days ago the rock was removed from the banks of the river to the Gage farm, southeast of Decatur. This morning the slow process of moving the rock to this city started. The boulder was placed on a heavily built trailer and attached to a large truck. The time consumed in bringing Elephant Rock to this city is estimated at about seven hours.

The rock was formerly located in the center of St. Mary's river about five miles east of Decatur. Mrs. Porter, before her death a year ago, often expressed the desire of having a large boulder dedicated to her memory.

A movement to bring the rock here was started by French Quinn, of this city, and several other business men. The movement was taken up by the school children of the county and a fund was raised sufficient to move the rock to this city and to erect it in the Court House yard with a bronze plaque. The placing of the rock and in memory of Adams county's author bronze plaque will be done soon, it was learned today. A fitting dedication will be held and the rock will become known as the Gene Stratton-Porter Memorial.

SUGAR FACTORY ISSUES CHECKS

Growers Get $250,000 Today; Tomorrow Is Pay Day For Employees

The payment is for about 35,000 tons of beets and will be distributed over the territory of the local company.

Between 1,000 and 1,200 tons of beets have been run through the big mill every day this season and, barring the poor condition of the beets, the campaign has been a most successful one.
