Daily Report Of Local And Foreign Markets

OPENING GRAIN REVIEW

Chicago, Dec. 18.—(United Press)—Grain futures sagged in opening busi- ness on the Chicago board of trade today. Distant wheat options were weaker. The remainder of the list registered fractional recession.

Wide-spread uneasiness greatly re- duced buying power in wheat. Con- tradictory reports from the southern hemisphere hung like a cloud over the pit.

Corn had a steadier tone. Prices sagged fractionally with the leading cereal.

Oats held relatively steady.

Many Hogs Are Trucked To Indianapolis Market

Indianapolis, Dec. 18.—(United Press)—The Indianapolis Livestock Exchange operates the largest truck- ing division of any exchange in the United States, according to local deal- ers.

Officials of the hog department of the exchange point out that the large trucking business done by the local exchange indicates not only that the Indianapolis market is growing but that the farmers and hog raisers of Indiana are among the most progres- sive in the nation.

It was pointed out that farmers ship- ping by truck are enabled to get their stock on the market at an earlier hour than is possible by electric or steam transportation.

Shipping by truck has the added ad- vantage that stock can be loaded at a later hour and as a result less shrink- age from transportation results.

The record for trucking receipts on the colcal exchange, which it is claim- ed, is also a record for the entire na- tion was established on December 3, 1924, the local dealers said.

On that day more than 8,900 hogs were brought to the local market by trucks.

New "Pro" Football Scandal Stirs Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 18.—(United Press)—A professional football scandal, in- volving the charge that four high school boys of Chicago were induced to participate in the games between the Chicago Cardinals and the Mil- waukee team of professional football players here last Thursday, stirred Chicago today.

E. C. Delaporte, supervisor of ath- letics in the public schools, announ- ced that James Snyder, Wm. Thomp- son, Jack Daniels and Charles Rich- ardson, prominent in high school ath- letics, had played with the Milwaukee team, under assumed names.

Art Folz, former football star at the Englewood high school, and now a member of the Cardinals, induced them to play with Milwaukee, the boys told Delaporte. The youths said they were told it was a practice game. Chris O'Brien, manager of the Car- dinals, staged the game in order to gain an even footing with the Potts- ville, Pa., team of the National pro- fessional football league, which was in the lead for the championship. O'Brien did not charge admission to the game, which his team won with little trouble. The Cardinals and Pottsville are now regarded as tied for the championship. O'Brien said he knew nothing about the make-up of the visiting team.

SNOW FLEAS LIKE WET

Snow fleas can stand cold but not dryness, says Nature Magazine. Evaporation is so rapid through the delicate skin of these soft-bodied lit- tle insects that dry air is quickly fatal to them.
