

"Bill's" Auto Barks
And He Hoofs It In,
Arriving At 4 A. M.

W. A. Klepper, of the Cloverleaf Creameries, had a tough old night and was crippling around today like a vet of the "four horsemen," or Red Grange's Bears. He made a business trip to Bourbon last night, and was returning about 11 o'clock when his car began to "sputter and fust" about five miles this side of Fort Wayne. Thinking he could limp home, he came on, but the engine died on him at the county line.

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Hunters Using State Parks As Stopovers

State parks went to the front today as serving another phase of Indiana life and usefulness.

They are being extensively used as stopovers for a great army of hunters afield after the luscious Bob-white and timid Br'er rabbit.

Reports reaching the state conservation department show that hundreds of hunters recently have stopped at the various state park hotels while pursuing small game in such localities, and enjoyed the comforts of these hosteries after a day of rare sport.

State parks are so located that generally speaking the hunting is excellent in the nearby woods and fields. Of course it is understood that no hunting is permitted on state reservations.

The most noticeable increase in park hotel patronage is at Muscatatuck Inn, between Vernon and North Vernon on State Road 26. This hotel has accommodated many hunters since the season opened.

The topography of the region is admirably suited as habitation for small wild life, and the supply of quail and rabbits is abundant this year, reports indicate.

Many Dogs Imported

An interesting sidelight on the breeding of domestic animals in the United States is the number of purebred animals imported for breeding purposes.

Most of the livestock in this country is descended from foundation stock from foreign countries, but so favorable are conditions here for stock raising that this country now holds first position in livestock resources.

During the last fiscal year, ended failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

To Send Christmas Greetings By Radio

The 80-meter transmitter and receiver of Radio station GDRS have been installed at the Indiana Electric Company's store. Christmas greeting will be sent anywhere in the United States by radio, and will be relayed over the traffic routes of the American Radio Relay League. Anyone wishing to send Christmas greetings or messages to their friends by radio, or see the transmitter in operation, may do so by calling at the store. There will be no charge for sending them. Messages may be telephoned to the store.

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be alight except a tube or pipe sheep, 840; horses, 339; swine, 21; or something which had frozen up. "Bill" says he never was strong for straight walking, alone, on a cold dark night anyway.

Compared with the preceding year, imported purebred dogs and sheep show a considerable increase and indicate a decrease. All of the foregoing numbers, department officials point out, are very small in proportion to the total number of domestic animals in this country, which is about 200,000,000 head. The figures are small also in comparison with the number of purebred livestock, which, though only about 3 per cent of the total number several million head. The United States, though still acquiring small numbers of purebred breeding stock from abroad, apparently raises almost all of its finely bred domestic animals.

Present him or her with a Parker Fountain Pen for Christmas. Callow & Kohne.

11,14,15,16,17,21,22,23

Genuine No. 3 Pocahontus Lump also Chestnut Coke. Telephone your order No. 25 Burk Elevator Company 2946

2946

Mr. Klepper finally roused a farmer and tried to call a garage, but was unsuccessful. He returned to his car and coaxed it a half mile farther, before it quit again. After trying everything he knew to do, and failing to stop several cars which passed him, he gritted his teeth and June 30, 1925, according to the report started on a hike for town. He ar of the Bureau of Animal Industry, rived at 4:20 a. m., footsore and more purebred dogs were imported weary and this morning could than any other kind of purebred domes scarcely navigate. The car was sic animal. The official figures are as brought in this morning and found follows: Dogs, 1,668; cattle, 1,426; to be al