Bandits walked into a Chicago cafeteria the other night and robbed the cash register of $4,375 in cash. That sum would mean the sale of quite a lot of hot dogs at a nickel per.

A New York man took a drink or two the other day and then tore up $2,000 in greenbacks. Oh well, where they ought to put him he won't need much cash any way.

If you haven't your 1926 automobile license tags on by next Monday, you are liable under the law and the extension policy of the state. That ought to be all the warning you need.

If you haven't subscribed for stock in the Adams County Agricultural Association, do so now and help make this a one hundred per cent effort to make this the best county in the best county in the middle west. Properly conducted this organization will do just that.

Efforts to publish a city and county directory here will be made soon by a responsible company. This is important and necessary. If the company is given the necessary support a new edition will be published each two years, providing information of great value to the business men and to those who desire to know just where every body lives.

A western retail clothier association announces that those men who dress well must have pajamas of pastel shades of bright designs, with a three-quarter length jacket and a long sash to be carefully and correctly tied in a bow. Now some enterprising merchant will have to announce the trade in allowance for the old night gown or the ordinary "pajamas." Some things actually look silly these days.

Someone has gone to the trouble to take a census of the number of automobiles in the whole world, and he states the number to be 25,973,928, and of this total the United States has 19,999,436. Now will some one please figure out how far they would reach if placed end to end, or how many people will be killed by them during the current year?—Columbia City Post.

Holding a few shares of stock in one of the bus lines that traverse this part of the state must be anything but a pleasant occupation. With the fine new thing of a few months ago showing the ravages of the road, and carrying from one to six passengers through a thriving country like ours does not look much like replacing the old car with a new one. With a private car for each four inhabitants of the state, what use do we have of so many different ways of travel, anyway.—Bluffton Banner.

We know of a number who are planning to build houses this year and that's a sign of an era of good times for when building is going on your community is going forward. For a couple of years past we have been at the point where the town cannot grow because we cannot house the people. That's an excellent condition in a way, but retards growth. With the present facilities through the loan associations to borrow money, with a number of available lots, there is no reason why we should not have fifty to a hundred new homes built this year. We know of no better sign of a good town for for that would be undisputable proof that we are stepping along.

The directors of the Decatur Industrial Association have an important job just now, to plan for the ensuing year. What ever policy they adopt should be carried out systematically during the next twelve months and the directors should have the heartiest accord and co-operation. We should have a goal, we should have a mark to shoot at, for every one works better when he has his wagon hitched to a star. Lets get it worked out and get busy and make this a real year in this community.

The senate passed a resolution asking President Coolidge to invite representatives of the miners and operators to meet at the White House and talk over the anthracite strike with hopes that it could be settled. The president very promptly refused to do so, indicating lack of interest in the strike though thousands of people are really suffering in the east as a result. But a lot of people will not blame Mrs. Coolidge for not wanting her kitchen all tracked up this soft weather. Perhaps they can arrange it later or go to the smoke house for the conference.

Zach Dungan, clerk of the supreme court the past three years has announced that he will be a candidate for the democratic nomination again this year. He was elected in 1922 by about fifty thousand majority and he has made good, it being admitted that his office is the best conducted of any in the state house. Zach's home is at Huntington and he is well known here. He was born in a log cabin, educated himself, became a lawyer and was for years prior to his election a clerk, the claim agent for the Wabash railroad. Zach believes he will be re-elected and his million friends over the state are boosting him.

MY BRIDGE PARTNERS

My partner never holds the cards. No luck at bridge I've ever had. And when I pass he goes to "four." My partner's never really right. My hand he scornfully regards. I get him when he's in the dumps. He thinks I should have something more. And cannot even count the trumps.

My partner is the one who makes a is my luck always to hear: So many horrible mistakes. "I'm sorry, partner, I forgot! I should have led a club. I fear, I can't explain why I did not."

My partner won't return my lead. All that my partners do for me, He doubles when there is no need, is offer an apology. He leaves me floundering about. Oh, partner, just before I pass. He may know how to play, but he Forever from life's little game; Trumps high cards when he plays with Just once I wish you'd show your class, me. I'll die with one, exultant shout, Then gladly let you take me out.

I always get him when he's bad, Or has been up too late at night.

Congressman Langley Now Heads Stockroom In Prison At Atlanta

Atlanta, Feb. 10.—(United Press)—Once a powerful political leader in his home state, John W. Langley, former congressman of Kentucky, today is just one of 2,000 inmates of Atlanta federal penitentiary, serving time for transgression of the nation's laws.

On his arrival here to start a two-year term for violation of the prohibition law, Langley appeared broken in health and discouraged over his long futile fight to evade sentence. He was sent to the prison hospital for two weeks for observation and then appointed foreman of the prison stockroom.

Langley is making a model prisoner, according to Warden John W. Snook, and if he maintains his perfect record he will be eligible for parole in seven months.

As foreman of the stock room, Langley succeeds Howard Montgomery, former head of the Community Finance Corporation of New York who has been made editor of "Good Words," the penitentiary's monthly magazine. Montgomery was convicted of fraud and embezzlement.

The former editor of "Good Words" was Warren T. McCray, once governor of Indiana, whose health has broken down recently and who is now undergoing special treatment in the prison hospital for high blood pressure. It is reported that McCray will be granted a pardon before the end of his term, which was for ten years, of which he has served two.

OBITUARY

Wilson S. Smith was born near Geneva, Indiana, September 11, 1854, and died at his late residence, 407 south Eureka avenue, Columbus, Ohio, February 3, 1926, age 71 years, 4 months and 22 days. He was married to Christina Shaffer in September, 1876, and to that union were born four sons and two daughters.

He was a member of the United Brethren church at Geneva, Indiana, and also a charter member of the fraternal Order of Oaks, at Columbus.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his good and loving wife, Christina, the following children, David, Lee, and Mrs. Leona Heath, of Columbus, Mrs. Florence Kearns, of Toledo, Ohio, Chris, of Detroit, Michigan, besides seven grand children and one great grand child and a host of friends and relatives, and left a bright evidence that he has gone to meet his loving father, mother, brothers, sisters, the departed son, Floyd L. Smith, one great grand child and other relatives and friends that have gone on before.

Warsaw — Oscar Baker, a tailor, shoveled up $65 in bills that dropped from his vest pocket and threw them into his furnace with the coal. He saw the roll too late to rescue it.

Indianapolis — Dewey Clark, negro, was shot and badly wounded by a railroad detective. The detective said he caught him stealing coal from a car.

Overwrought Nerves

YOU never heard of a red-blooded person—man or woman—becoming a nervous wreck! And you never will. You never saw anybody with healthy, rich, red blood, get wearied by the activities of daily life. Did you?

No! Its weak blood—lack of healthy, rich, red blood. That's the whole trouble with those whose nerves are overwrought. They lack the resisting powers—the stamina that healthy, red-blood-cells give that enable us to stand up under the strain of daily life. S. S. S. is the salvation of these unhappy people. It is just the thing needed to strengthen the nerves, restore muscular power to the body, and increase the endurance of weak, failing, run-down women and men.

Don't keep on going down simply because your blood is starving for want of healthy, red-blood-cells. You can get back your nerve power with S. S. S. You can do it just as surely as thousands have done for the past century.

S. S. S. also clears the skin of pimples, boils, eczema—hollow cheeks fill out and firm flesh takes the place of flabby muscles. Why, you'll begin living all over again. Get S. S. S. today from any good druggist. And get the larger bottle. It's more economical.
