MARKET REPORTS

Daily Report Of Local And Foreign Markets

OPENING GRAIN REVIEW.
Chicago, Feb. 23.—(United Press.)—Grain prices opened higher on the Chicago board of trade today.

Higher wheat prices in the Liverpool and Argentine markets, both of which scored price advances this morning, encouraged local dealers and they bought freely of all offerings at the start of the Chicago market. The price advances here ranged from three quarters to two cents. Corn prices were affected by extremely light receipts only 232 cars being reported as against expectations of 1,000 cars. This gave the corn market some independent strength and prices advanced 1-4 to 1-2 cents.

Oats prices were unchanged to fractionally higher. Provisions were steady.

Wets And Drys In Northern Europe To Wage A Finish Fight

By Minott Saunders,
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
London.—(United Press.)—Scandinavian countries, which for years have been wrestling with the prohibition problem, are preparing for further developments this year and both the wets and drys are rallying their forces for the fight. Both are confident of making gains, and movements in the struggle will be of interest in all countries concerned with the prohibition issue.

A general election is scheduled in Norway this year to rule definitely on the prohibition of the sale of brandy and other spirits. The prohibition element is strong and claims a certain majority in Parliament, but the wets have been conducting a vigorous campaign, which has found much support in the press.

The present Norwegian law has created more difficulties in enforcement than the Volstead Act in America. It permits the sale of wine and beer containing not more than twenty-one per cent of alcohol, and under this system distilled spirits can easily be passed under the guise of wine. Smuggling of spirits is widespread, although the government claims to be making headway against the illicit traffic.

For several years Sweden has been under the Bratt system of prohibition. This is a modification of the old Gothenburg system and the dry element, which once welcomed it, now looks upon it with disfavor because it does not go far enough.

Under the Bratt system the retail sale of alcoholic drink is subjected to many restrictions, and is in the hands of special societies which must pay a certain percentage of their profits to the state. Every citizen, with the exception of drunkards, paupers and criminals, is permitted to use an order book through which he or she can purchase each month a limited quantity of drink. This is the so-called card system.

Temperance societies dislike this system because of the possibilities for fraud. Cards may easily be exchanged, or bought by drinkers from those who do not care to use them. Also the drys claim that the system is the wrong kind of education for children, who see that their parents possess such cards and grow to believe that they should have one with their citizenship.

Sweden has local option, and many districts are now completely dry. The prohibitionists hope to gain ground through this local option, and ultimately carry the country which, like America, has its greatest wet strength in the cities.

Prohibition by law prevails in Finland and the government claims to
