NOTED POET IS VISITING HERE

Frank Nelson, Auburn Writer, Calls On Friends In Decatur Today

Frank Nelson, of Auburn, noted Indiana poet and personal friend of Edgar A. Guest, famous poet, visited this city for several hours today, calling on friends. Mr. Nelson, who has gained prominence and fame as a poet, writes poems weekly for several of the leading Sunday papers of the state.

His poetry is similar to that of Edgar Guest. Mr. Nelson has written several interesting poems of his friends, one being about John D. Andrews, of this city, entitled "Whiskers." The poem was written as a letter and was mailed to Mr. Andrews while he was on his recent trip to Oklahoma.

Many of Mr. Nelson's poems have survived the passing fashion of the day and have been regarded as masterpieces. Included in his collection are odes to Riley, Marshall, Wilson and other statesmen.

CRUM FUNERAL IS HELD TODAY

said he did not believe the truck passed over the boy as only a few marks were on his body. The truck weighed about three and a half tons and was loaded with five tons of gravel.

"Burton explained to Coroner Kilgore that he was driving at a moderate rate of speed and was unaware that the boy was riding on his truck.

Removed to Fort Wayne
"Police arrived a few minutes later and took Burton's statement. He told of warning the boy by a blast of his horn at the Walnut street entrance to the boulevard when he believed the boy would attempt to catch his truck.

"The body was taken to the Hampton morgue and removed to Fort Wayne for funeral services Saturday night. The Crum family had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houck, 515 Ashland avenue, and was to have returned to Fort Wayne Saturday. A younger brother, Ned, S. accompanied Dale to the park but became separated from him during the hunt.

"Surviving, besides the parents, are the brother, Ned, and sister, Betty Lou, both at home, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Yager, of Fort Wayne, formerly of Ossian, Mrs. Emma Crum living west of Honduras."

"Your Health"

This Column is conducted by the Adams County Medical Society and the Indiana State Medical Association in the interest of the public's health.

When the Ambulance Siren Sounds

Breathes there a man with spirit so dead who never has stopped and turned his head—when the siren sounds and the ambulance speeds by. The real inside story of just what is happening within an ambulance, back at the hospital, and in the head of the young intern, who is being whirled through crowded streets on his mission to save human life is told in this week's bulletin issued by the Publicity Bureau of the Indiana State Medical Association by a Hoosier who has ridden the ambulance as an intern in New York City and Indianapolis.

"Ambulance riding is the first real thrill that an intern usually gets after he has graduated from medical school," says the bulletin. "For many long years the medical student has been in training, learning how to treat the sick and take care of the injured, and ambulance service usually gives the young physician his first opportunity to show his initiative.

"Every call for the ambulance shows how quickly the public's confidence in the cultist and health faddist fades away in any real emergency, and how completely it places its reliance and faith in the trained, qualified M. D.

"In New York and some of the larger cities, the physician who is in an ambulance service has the temporary power of a police lieutenant and wears a special uniform.

"In some cities, ambulances go faster than is really necessary. Ambulance riders have admitted that some of their fastest calls have been made on patients who are suffering from chronic old age and senility. But no matter how little actual medical work an intern may do in the majority of the cases where he answers ambulance calls, still he gets a training from answering emergency calls that he would get in no other way. He learns to be cautious in cases of gunshot wounds, stab wounds, and acute appendicitis. He learns to distinguish the vital injuries from the superficial wounds. In the old days, before medical science had been successful in preventing diphtheria by toxin-antitoxin, the intern had to be skilled in placing a tube in the throat of the diphtheria victim in order that the patient might live until reaching the hospital.

"In short, every practicing physician should go through a course of ambulance riding just as every trained newspaper man should go through the cub reporter training period. Ambulance service in most of the Indiana cities is up to the 'snuff.' Private institutions and hospitals are cooperating with the city authorities in Indianapolis and stand ready to send a private ambulance in any case of emergency when the regular ambulances of the city are busy answering calls.

"It is the rule of every hospital that a patient should be given the benefit of the doubt when any question exists as to whether or not he is sick enough to be taken to the hospital. Modern hospitals all have admitting wards and those patients who need only temporary treatment are taken to this ward and are not admitted to the hospital proper until further examination.

"Every intern must go on ambulance duty. In some hospitals an intern is on duty for a month at a stretch. Ambulance duty is one of the hardest in the hospital, the hospital ambulance usually averaging ten calls a day, and the day for the ambulance rider is 24 hours long."

Suit Against Fort Wayne Pastor On Trial

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 6.—(United Press)—The $25,000 alienation of affection suit of Howard Smith, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., against the Rev. Edgar Mullens, Fort Wayne minister, was scheduled to start today in Superior Court here.

Smith charges that Rev. Mullens, while serving as pastor of the Baptist church at Lawrenceburg, kept clandestine meetings with Mrs. Smith and won her love.

Rev. Mullens welcomed the trial to clear his name of the accusations. His attorneys were armed with depositions of a number of members of the Baptist congregation at Lawrenceburg on the conduct of the minister.

Smith divorced his wife after discovery of the alleged love affair between the minister and the woman.

FARM-TO-CITY MOVE UNABATED

Farm Population Of United States Continues To Decrease Rapidly

Washington, April 6.—(United Press)—The farm population of the United States continues to decrease, a loss of 479,000 being reported today by the department of agriculture for the year of 1925.

Farm population January 1 was 30,655,000, compared with 31,134,000 a year previous—a decrease of 1 1/2 per cent—according to the estimates, which include all men, women and children living on farms.

The decrease was found in varying proportions in all parts of the nation, ranging from one-fifth of one per cent in the west, south, central states, to 3.9 per cent in the Mountain states.

The farm-to-city movement of approximately 2,000,000 persons a year, which started in 1922, apparently is continuing unabated. The decrease in farm population was found from the following statistics for 1925:

From farms to cities, towns and villages, 2,035,000.
From towns, cities and villages to farms, 1,135,000.
Births on farms, 710,000.
Deaths on farms, 288,000.

"Chirp, Chirp," Greets Visitors At Postoffice

When a person steps into the Decatur postoffice, or most any other postoffice, for that matter, these days, he is greeted by a volley of "chirp, chirp," and, if it were not for the familiar postoffice fixtures in the front office, he might think he had walked into a hatchery by mistake.

The annual movement of baby chicks from the hatcheries to the poultry raisers is on in earnest now and several thousand chicks have passed through the local postoffice already. Postmaster Fritzinger stated today that there were 1,000 chicks in the local postoffice one day last week. Some of the chicks are arriving in Decatur from hatcheries in other cities while some of them are being mailed by local hatcheries for destinations in other communities.

Passenger Air Routes In Indiana In Near Future Is Possibility

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.—(United Press)—Indiana people soon will be able to make trips from Indianapolis to Louisville, Chicago, Birmingham and Atlanta, by air, on regular schedule, Postmaster General Harry S. New said here yesterday.

New, who is visiting here, declared the government is now negotiating with a commercial air company for mail contracts between Chicago, Birmingham and Atlanta.

"This company, New said, will operate a regular passenger schedule in connection with its mail route.

"In a few years all the leading cities of America will be connected by fast air lines with regular service," New said. "Gradually the government air mail service will be discontinued as arrangements are perfected with privately owned companies for the carrying of the mails."
