

Flavor

is everything in breakfast oats

WHEN you find a person, especially a child, who "doesn't like oats," chances are they haven't tried the right kind.

Get Quaker Oats. Once you taste "Quaker" flavor, you are spoiled for ordinary oats.

That rich and tasty Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years milling experience. No other oats approximate it.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. Thus those who eat Quaker Oats find laxatives seldom needed. Combines protein, carbohydrates, vitamins and "bulk" in excellent proportions.

Costs the same as ordinary brands. You alone lose when you accept a substitute.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. Your grocer has it; also Quaker Oats as you have always known them.

Bryant Store Robbed Shortly After Rites Of Owner, Saturday

Hardly had the funeral services for Fred Bastian, aged Bryant storekeeper, been completed last Saturday afternoon, before robbers broke into Mr. Bastian's store and carried away merchandise valued at about $300. The robbery occurred sometime Saturday night.

Entrance to the store was gained by cutting a staple, holding a lock on a rear door. The exact amount of merchandise taken will not be known until John Bonifas, administrator of the estate, completes an inventory. The theft is believed to have been committed by local talent. The store had been closed for ten days.

More than a year ago the Bastian store was entered by thieves, who after threatening Mr. Bastian, at the point of a pistol, finally struck him on the head, robbed him of several hundred dollars in money and left him lying unconscious in a rear room of the store. An arrest was made in this robbery, a Jay county man having been taken into custody, but he was not convicted of the crime.

CONGRESSIONAL FIGHTS EXPECTED

Fifty-three Men In Indiana Are Seeking Nomination For Congressman

Indianapolis, Ind., April 13.—(United Press.)—Indiana's congressional primary fights today loomed almost as an equal to the senatorial contests for intensity.

Throughout the state, fifty-three men today are beginning the contest which they hope will result in their obtaining the nomination of the party with which they are affiliated.

In the republican ranks, only two men, Albert Vestal, incumbent from the eighth district and David Hogg, of Fort Wayne, incumbent from the twelfth district are without opposition. None of Indiana's three democratic incumbents are to have opposition in the primary fight.

Arthur Greenwood, of Washington, is unopposed in the second district; Harry C. Canfield, of Batesville, will win the fourth district democratic honors by default and the same is true in the case of Frank Gardner, of Scottsburg, who represents the third district.

Four other democrats also are without opposition.

Waldemar E. Eickoff, of Fort Wayne will be unopposed in his race in the twelfth district while Harry Rhoades, of Gary, in the tenth, Virgil Simmons, of Bluffton in the eighth district and Henry W. Moore, of Terre Haute, in the fifth district will find their way to nomination unopposed.

The hardest fight in the democratic ranks looms in the first district where William E. Wilson, of Evansville, Samuel Newman, of Evansville, Harvey Harmon, of Princeton and William D. Hardy, of Evansville are contesting for the honor of being the party's choice in the November elections.

Indianapolis and Marion county, composing the seventh district will be the center of the republican party's bitterest contest for congressional honors.

In that district five men are seeking the honor now held by Ralph E. Updike, who is asking re-nomination. The other aspirants are Merrill Moores, former representative, who bowed to Updike in the primaries two years ago; James Ogden, former Indianapolis corporation counsel; J. Roland Duvall and Morris Greenleaf.

The democrats also will have a merry scrap in the eleventh district where David S. Ferguson of Covington, is battling with William Snodgrass, of Sheridan and Roy W. Adney, of Lebanon.

In the sixth district, the fight will be hot for the democratic nomination although there are only two candidates, Maurice Douglas, former state senator of Flatrock, Shelby county and William H. Myers, of Connersville.

The republicans also face a battle in the sixth district with the wet and dry question as an issue. The dry side of the battle is represented by Richard Elliott of Connersville, a dry while Esther Griffin White, Richmond newspaperwoman, has announced that she will seek nomination and election on a modification of the Volstead Act platform.

Incidentally, Miss White is the only woman who is seeking a congressional nomination in Indiana. She hopes, she says, to be Indiana's first woman representative in congress.

The second, fourth, fifth and eleventh districts will be republican battle grounds on May 4 with three persons seeking the nomination in each district.

Fred S. Purnell, of Attica, republican incumbent from the ninth district will have opposition in his primary battle to return to congress.

Purnell is being opposed by Earl B. Stroup, of Frankfort. Harry Rowbottom, incumbent from the first district also will have opposition from Delbert V. Blackburn, who hails from Rowbottom's home town of Evansville.

Andrew Hickey, of Laporte, veteran from the thirteenth is being opposed by Thomas J. Swift, of Knox while Will R. Wood, of Lafayette, will be forced to contend with Harry H. Peabody, of Wheeler. Albert Hall, of Marion must meet the opposition of Thomas Peterson, of Montpelier and Brose Horne, of Gas City if he wishes to return to congress.

Noble Johnson, incumbent from Terre Haute and the fifth district also will have opposition in the republican primary. The opposition is furnished by William Horsey and Ray Traeblood, both of Terre Haute.

In Czechoslovakia a verbal statement made by the testator when on the point of death is a will in law. Taking advantage of this, the son of a wealthy farmer at Szegedin forged a will by phonograph, and called the servants into the room where his dying father lay unconscious. They heard a voice from the bed: "I leave all to my son, Adonis, none to the rest."

Another son became suspicious and made an investigation, with the result that the phonograph and forged record were found under the bed.

Court Orders Perfect To Serve His Sentence

Huntington, April 13.—The case against T. Guy Perfect, local man charged with criminally assaulting Bernice Allen, 16, in 1921, came to a close here Monday when Special Judge W. H. Eichhorn, of Bluffton, appeared in circuit court and entered the defendant's commitment.

Perfect is expected to arrive in this city today, having gone to Florida more than a week ago after an understanding with authorities that he would return after 10 days to receive the commitment and proceed to Michigan City. The commitment of the court was turned over to Sheriff Carl Rudloff Monday morning.

A delegation of prominent business, church and professional men visited Governor Ed Jackson in Indianapolis recently in an effort to stay the execution of the jury's verdict. The higher court granted the defendant's attorneys time to file a plea of "error."
