IN MEMORY OF

DR. A. G. A. BUXTON

Decatur Lodge, No. 993, B. P. O. E. has lost a distinguished member by the death of Brother A. G. A. Buxton, who died in the city of Portland, Oregon, Wednesday, April 7th, 1926. Brother Buxton was elected a member of this lodge on the 16th day of March, 1921, on a demit from a Council Bluffs, Iowa, lodge.

We knew Brother Buxton as a citizen, a friend and a fraternal brother. His sunny smile and pleasing disposition were inspirations to his fellow men. His knowledge of the affairs of life made him a wonderful companion and adviser and his counsel has been sought and freely given in the past.

It is with sorrow that this lodge records the passing of such an able and distinguished brother, whose life and attainments at all times commanded the respect of all with whom he came in contact. With his wife and family and his legion of friends we mourn his loss and extend our sincere sympathy.

We recommend that his name be inscribed upon the Elks' memorial tablet and that a copy of this memorial be given to the press and to the family of the deceased.

E. G. COVERDALE,
FRED T. SCHURGER,

APRIL 30 IS FRATERNAL DAY

National Fraternal Day Planned By All Fraternal Benefit Societies

National Fraternal Day, a day set aside by united action of fraternal benefit societies of the North American continent will be observed throughout the continent on Friday, April 30, by hundreds of thousands of members of fraternal benefit societies.

The National Fraternal Congress of America which comprises in its membership nearly all the fraternal benefit societies in North America, is sponsor of this observance. To bring to public attention the great altruistic enterprise which represents the fraternal insurance movement on this continent, is the purpose of the day.

In hundreds of communities the length and breadth of the land, meetings will be arranged with prominent speakers engaged to address them, in which members of fraternal benefit societies, both men and women, will gather to hear speeches discussing fraternal insurance and its benefits.

Particular attention will be paid in all discussions to the stability of fraternal insurance and the adequate rates of the National Fraternal Congress members; the strength of the fraternal benefit system, numerically and financially; and the value of fraternal features of societies.

The great welfare work undertaken by many fraternal groups will be emphasized. Sanatoria and hospitals have been built by some orders, others maintain free homes for aged and indigent members, operate summer camps for recreation, care of orphan members in homes or institutions, give health service to members, endow hospital beds, provide educational opportunities for deserving young people, give maternity benefits, loan money to members to purchase homes, help beneficiaries of members to obtain safe investment of insurance funds and embark upon numerous other activities which represent the spirit of fraternalism.

Miss Bina M. West, first woman president of the National Fraternal Congress, has called upon the member societies to endorse this National Fraternal Day and observe it through the medium of their subordinate units. The movement has been heartily endorsed by the Executive Committee of the Congress and by the presidents of the member organizations. The Executive Committee took final action on the project at a meeting in Chicago, February 23.

In many cities, members of the various fraternal societies will hold joint meetings or banquets in the evening of April 30, others will observe it with separate meetings, but with programs of similar nature. Others will conduct educational campaigns in the schools and in other ways seek to educate the public in the importance of the fraternal movement.

Few persons are aware of the strength, both numerically and financially, of the fraternal insurance societies of North America. Member societies of the National Fraternal Congress have a combined membership of over 10 million and represent insurance in force of over $6,000,000,000. They have local organizations of men or women in every city, village and hamlet of the country with few exceptions, while in most cities and towns, there are several fraternal benefit societies.

New Type Film Sheik Is More Intellectual

Hollywood, Cal., April 13.—(United Press)—A new brand of sheik—the intellectual lover—is supplanting the Latin or physical type on the screen. In the opinion of Marion Fairfax, foremost woman motion picture producer.

The Valentino mold of heart-crusher as personified by Rudolph himself, and scores of imitators, of Latin or Spanish origin, is gradually being pushed into the realm of the discarded screen heroes, according to the feminine movie maker.

"Look over the array of male stars who are in the ascendant today," said Miss Fairfax, in an interview today, "and you will find the mental type now dominating."

"Outstanding examples are Lewis Stone, Ronald Colman, and John Gilbert."

The screen hero with sheer "sex appeal" is losing favor with the fans.
