MARKET REPORTS

Daily Report Of Local And Foreign Markets

OPENING GRAIN REVIEW

Chicago, April 29.—(United Press.)—Grain prices opened irregular on the Chicago board of trade today. Wheat prices opened fractionally below yesterday's close in all deliveries. Temperatures throughout the belt are higher, but rain is badly needed in many parts of the northwest offsetting the favorable reports received on winter wheat in the southwest.

Corn opened fractionally lower. Considerable activity is expected in this grain as the elevators are selling May holdings and are buying July.

Oats opened unchanged in the May delivery but fractionally up in July and September. Both the export and cash demand for this grain have decreased lately.

Provisions opened unchanged.

Move To Clean House In Marion County Ku Klux Klan Is Started Today

Indianapolis, Ind., April 29.—(United Press.)—A movement to clean house in the Marion county Ku Klux Klan was started today by an insurgent faction led by George Elliott, deposed cyclops.

Elliott and his followers incorporated the "Red Star Movement" which will be made a rival organization of the Klan if a reconciliation is not effected with the existing order.

Elliott was dismissed from office by Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, for political activity.

Depositors In Yoder Bank Receive Final Payment

The final 10 per cent payment to depositors of the Yoder State Bank, which went into liquidation in August, 1924, will be made today by the Farmers' Trust Company of Fort Wayne, liquidating agents appointed by the state to close up the affairs of the Yoder institution.

The Yoder bank was robbed in March, 1919, and the principal victims were people who had notes and bonds in deposit boxes in the bank. It was estimated that the amount of plunder totalled more than $25,000.

Very little cash was secured by the robbers, but the business of the bank slumped after the robbery and finally it was decided by the stockholders to liquidate, although the bank was solvent and none of the stockholders or depositors lost money.

Mrs. Chase died late yesterday after a long illness due to advanced age. She served as an army nurse in the Civil war, joining the nursing corps when her husband with the Union forces in Tennessee was stricken with smallpox.

An attack of the same disease after her husband recovered left her almost totally blind.

Mrs. Chase will be buried in Crown Hill cemetery in Indianapolis beside the body of her husband.

"Stella Dallas" To Be Shown At Fort Wayne

At the moment of a girl's greatest happiness why was the gaping, curious crowd permitted to press against the iron fence outside and peer through the window at this most sacred ceremony?

Only two women in all the world shared this secret—both of them mothers. The police ordered the shades drawn, the onlookers outside might be dispersed more easily. The butler started to obey the order. But the beautiful woman at the bride's elbow defied the police, that the mother of the bride, standing in the pelted rain, might see her little girl married.

Why couldn't Stella Dallas be present at the wedding of her daughter Laurel? As a mother, what sacrifice had Stella made to assure the happiness of her child? What was the strange bargain made between this cutthroat parent and the "new mother" of Laurel? Never before was there such a compact between two women.

These dramatic secrets are known to 200,000 persons in New York who have seen Samuel Goldwyn's presentation of the Henry King motion picture production "STELLA DALLAS" now in its fifth month at the Apollo Theatre, New York City.

We think we know what you will say about "Stella Dallas." It will be presented at the Shrine Auditorium for one week starting Sunday, May 9th with matinees on Sunday, Wednesday, and Saturday at 3 p. m. and nightly at 7 p. m. and 9 p. m. The price of admission will be 25c and 35c with a few reserved at 50c at the matinee performance and the prices at night will be 25c and 50c with a few reserved at 75c. To insure best seats we suggest ordering reserved seats by mail now. 11x

"What Price Glory" To Appear In Fort Wayne

That startling, salty comedy drama, "What Price Glory," with a splendid cast, headed by Jack Roseleigh, Jack Carlyle, Desiree Stempel and Willard Joray, will be the attraction at the Majestic Theatre, Fort Wayne, on Saturday, matinee and night, of this week.

The reason for "What Price Glory's" overwhelming success is that after seeing it the spectators really know what "The Big Show," the great World Conflict, was really like. For months and years we who kept the home fires burning have been hearing descriptions of it. And they would always wind up with the lame conclusion: "But you can't describe it. It was too big. Too different. You had to see it to know."

But one young American who saw, could describe it. Laurence Stallings, a young newspaper man, who had been captain of a company of United States Marines, and who lost a leg at Belleau Wood, used to spin yarns of that colorful corps to Maxwell Anderson when their days' work was over in the editorial rooms of the New York World. So vivid were his pictures of these demi-gods and devil dogs that Anderson told him that with such good material they could make a great play. "Let's go to it," said Stallings. And in three weeks time they had gotten their first draft of the play together. Then they pounded it into shape, took it to Arthur Hopkins, and within another month this play was in rehearsal.

On the night of the opening, even the Broadway wisecracks who were ice cold in their conviction, stood on their seats and cheered themselves hoarse. Here was a play that was more than a play. It was a revelation and a knockout.
