MANY ASPIRE TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S JOB

McKinley for the republican senatorial nomination.

He has been as close to Mr. Coolidge as Mr. Coolidge's running mate in 1924. It, apparently has no political organization as yet but the dyes could make one for him.

Borah is regarded as a liberal and staunch advocate of far reaching farm relief. He has come into conflict with the administration repeatedly upon foreign policy.

Dawes:

His championship of revision of senate rules in his inaugural speech and subsequent campaign were hailed as a forecast that he would enter the 1928 ring. But his candidacy has been given a recent spurt because of an announcement that he believes the "equalization fee" system of stabilizing farm prices is economically sound, although that view is directly opposed to the view of the President.

He made a national rules campaign last summer and will continue his speaking tour this summer.

He is a good friend of Lowden and might withdraw if Lowden ran.

Lowden:

First of opponents of the President to hob up, after a speaking tour last winter in which he opposed the President's farm relief stand. Word from the middle west has given politicians here the firm impression that he is probably the strongest candidate in the corn and wheat belts.

He turned down the republican vice presidential nomination in 1924 after it was given to him. He has the ground work laid for a big organization.

He is a dirt farmer and has been making speeches for several months throughout the country on farm relief legislation.

Watson:

He apparently dominates the republican organization in Indiana, as manifest by his overwhelming victory in the recent senatorial primary.

Always previously a supporter in everything, he came out publicly last week in favor of the equalization fee farm provision opposed by the President.

Widowed Mother Gives Life To Save Daughter

Duquesne, Pa., June 2.—(United Press.)—A widowed mother today gave her life to save that of her 7-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Rosa Stolar, 31, as was her usual custom, accompanied her daughter Mary to school. When they approached the railroad tracks of the Pennsylvania near Duquesne station Mrs. Stolar holding the child's hand, stood by the tracks as an East bound passenger train roared by.

When she started across the engine of a westbound train bore down on the pair. Mrs. Stolar without a moment's hesitation hurled the little girl out of danger but was killed herself.

Kidneys and Back Made Life Miserable

Says He's Full of Pep Now, and Pains are All Gone.

"I suffered with pains in my kidneys and back for three years. My back at times seemed as if it would break in two. I was tired out most of the time, and when I came home from work I just felt like I wanted to lie down. I lost flesh until I only weighed 155 pounds. Nothing I took did me any good till I found Vi
