Maple Scale Attacking Shade Trees In Newcastle

Newcastle, Ind., June 22.—(United Press)—An appeal for aid from the city council here in his fight to rid Newcastle trees of the cottony maple scale blight will be made by Hoyt Hardin, county agricultural agent.

This blight has attacked trees throughout the entire city and, according to Hardin, is rapidly ruining them. Many will die within the next year, he stated.

It will take several years for the blight to kill all maple trees in Newcastle but Hardin believes that they are all doomed unless the city takes action at once.

The plan outlined by Hardin is to have all trees sprayed next winter with heavy oil emulsion through the use of a high pressure spray. This method has proved very effective, he says.

Storm Rages At Scene Of Salvaging Operations

Newport, R. I., June 22.—(United Press)—A severe storm was reported today at the scene of the S-51 salvaging operations, information received at the naval training station here from the U. S. S. Vestal said.

The message indicated that weather conditions would preclude making the final lift as had been planned today.

Naval training station officials reported that information from the vessel gave no indication that the salvage had been endangered by the storm, which started shortly after midnight. It was said, however, the storm had interfered with communications.

MARKET REPORTS

Daily Report Of Local And Foreign Markets

OPENING GRAIN REVIEW

Chicago, June 22.—(United Press.)—Grain prices are still falling, this morning's opening on the Chicago board of trade was fractionally below yesterday's close.

The weak Liverpool cables coupled with the fine weather prevailing over the American grain belt caused wheat to open a quarter of a cent lower for all deliveries.

Corn opened irregular by losses on July and December deliveries and a slight gain for September.

Oats were easier and showed small losses. The interest in rye was passive. Provisions opened lower.

Trapshooters Of State Hold Championship Tourne

Indianapolis, Ind., June 22.—(United Press.)—Every section of Indiana was represented here today at the thirty-second annual state championship tournament of the Indiana State Trapshooters Association which opened on the traps of the Indianapolis Gun Club.

The list of entries, one of the largest ever reported for the tournament, included several crack marksmen from neighboring states who are here to put in their bids for a share in the $2,000 prize money and gold championship trophies.

The feature event of today's program was the five man team race at 200 targets. Rules state that members of all teams must be bona fide residents of the same county but each is allowed to enter as many teams as it desires.

Other events to be included on the day's program are the 100 target registered shoot and the state class championship 100 targets. Both events are at a sixteen yard raise and the first event will be divided into four 25 target numbers.

Competition for the state amateur championship, at 200 targets, registered, will feature tomorrow's program. More trophies will be awarded in this event than in any other on the three day program.

Rain And Wind Damage Crops In Shelby County

Shelbyville, Ind., June 22.—(United Press.)—Severe damage to crops was reported today in many parts of Shelby county swept by a rain and wind storm late yesterday.

The downpour of rain flooded streets here and huge hailstones fell in some districts, riddling growing crops.

Subscriptions To Chicago Paper Forwarded Promptly

The subscriptions for the Chicago Herald-Examiner, sent through the Herald-Examiner, sent through the Chicago Democrat, were forwarded to the Chicago paper the day they were received here. There was no delay in sending in the names. Several persons have notified this office that they have not yet received the paper and a telegram was sent to the Chicago paper asking that back copies be mailed. We know from experience that sometimes there is a delay in getting a subscriber's name on the mailing list, but thought that this trouble would not confront a large city paper, but evidently they have about the same problems as the smaller papers. Anyway we hope you receive the paper.

Radio Does Much To Elevate Pipe Organ

By William J. Fagan

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 22.—(United Press)

Radio broadcasting has done much toward educating the uninitiated into the knowledge that a pipe organ is something more than a mere accompaniment to a village choir or an instrument to be played at the cinema while the orchestra is out taking a collective smoke.

Several organ manufacturers have taken into their hands the problem of popularizing the organ by means of series of recitals by prominent masters of the instrument. Public organ recitals have drawn pitifully small audiences, but broadcasting by such virtuosos as Farnam, Biggs, Courbois, Dupre, Hollins and others has enabled a vast audience to appreciate the infinite variety of color possessed by the average larger organ, the instrument's immense resources in orchestral effect and a realization of the difficulties attending the performance of the masterpieces of organ literature.

In this connection, one of the most interesting of figures connected with the organ world recently was heard in a recital from the Skinner studios in New York through WAHG of Richmond Hill, Roy Spalding Stoughton, of Worcester, Mass., in addition to being a composer for and a performer on the organ, is paying teller of the Worcester Bank and Trust Company.

Stoughton's compositions have long found favor with recitalists throughout the United States. He is particularly successful in his employment of the oriental—in fact, his WAHG recital featured a first performance of excerpts from his "Arabian Night" suite. A man possessing the ability to make a very comfortable living from either his business or his music is a rarity, indeed.

Inventors Bend Their Efforts Toward Safety Devices For Aviation

Washington, June 22.—(United Press.)—All parts of the country are attempting to perfect devices to make flying as safe as walking, it is learned at the U. S. Patent office.

Inventions of every description, to prevent airplanes from crashing to the earth, have been sent in to Commissioner T. E. Robertson. Patents have been granted on about 300 types and an equally large number have been rejected or are pending.

Parachutes, balloons, extra wings, gas bags, and all sorts of trick devices to keep planes in the air in case of engine trouble or other accident have been patented recently.

Two Philadelphians have patented a balloon parachute safety device which they believe will prevent aviation disasters. Under their plan there is a large parachute and a balloon on the top wings of a plane.

Automatically when a plane begins to fall or at the release of a catch by the pilot the parachute opens and the gas bag begins to fill with non-inflammable gas. The balloon part is to right the ship while the parachute is to bring it slowly and safely to the earth. This safety apparatus is supposed to prevent an airplane from crashing and is supposed to bring it right side up whether it is doing a tail spin, nose dive or side swipe.

A North Carolina inventor patented a contrivance that fits snugly on the upper wings of a plane and opens into a parachute when the pilot touches a spring.

Still another has a parachute on the tail end of a plane, his theory is that the heavy engine will force a ship to fall nose-down and the chute on the rudder end will bring the craft slowly to the earth in case of an emergency.

Officials of the patent office said however that the parachute devices for airplanes were not very successful as it requires such large chutes. They pointed out that if it takes 50 square feet to hold a man up in the air it would take a parachute many times larger to save a plane.

Balloon and gas bag safety apparatus they said, were well enough if the pilot has time enough to fill his bags with lifting gas in the face of an emergency.

Dr. Taylor, 2011 Glendale Ave., Detroit, says: "I was paralyzed four years. Three years ago I was recommended by a good doctor to take San Yak Pills for three months, and they cured me. I know as I did nothing otherwise and improved at once. I have gotten more out of life in the past year than in any previous year and I am 78 years of age."

See what it does for the Kidneys
Dr. L. P. Bailey, of McBride, Miss., says of San Yak: "It will do all you claim. It is fine medicine for the blood and has cured rheumatism of long standing. When one treats the kidneys with San Yak he is renewing the whole body. One can always depend on San Yak."

(Signed) L. J. Bailey, M. D.
High Blood Pressure

Mrs. W. E. Brandon, of Robinson, Ind., writes: "I took San Yak for high blood pressure and it worked like a charm. I am not now troubled any more."

S. F. Marrang, of Ohio Oil Co., Marshall, Ill., says: "San Yak is a wonderful medicine for stomach and bowels."

Dr. Geo. W. Snyder, of Chicago, said this for people advanced in years: "San Yak lends the thrill that comes from making human life last longer better. I am free to state that by its use it would be quite impossible, owing to its wonderful antiseptic action on the pancreas and bowels, to become afflicted with appendicitis or constipation. San Yak does not irritate the internal organs and its effect is delightfully soothing. Sold at Smith, Yager & Falk and leading druggists."

an emergency.

Aviation will still be hazardous, it was pointed out, until one of the inventors strike upon a safety contraption that will be effective in case of fire as well as engine trouble, collapsed wings and other accidents that occur in the air.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. O. P. Edwards, of Leipsic, O., underwent a major operation at the Adams County Memorial Hospital at noon today and is recovering nicely.

John Bernard and Mary Martha Terveer, children of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Terveer, underwent tonsil operations at the local hospital this morning.

DONALDSON—The infant son of Rev. Frank Myers was painfully injured by an infuriated rooster before being rescued by an older sister.
