Method Unchanged

Ancient Egyptian noblemen speared fish in much the same manner as do Americans today. The spear handle was tied to the wrist and the weapon was thrown at the fish.

Revenge, that thirsty drop of our souls, makes us covet that which hurts us most.—Massinger.

Gathering Diamonds

The fact that diamonds cling to lubricating grease in water, while pebbles and semi-precious stones roll off, has been made the basis for a new machine called the "pulstar," which picks diamonds out of materials in which they cannot be seen by human eyes.—Popular Science Monthly.

Getting the True Light

Frequent consideration of a thing wears off the strangeness of it, and shows it in its several lights and various ways of appearance, to the view of the mind.

Man wants but little, nor that little long. How soon must he resign, his very dust, which frugal nature lent him for an hour.—Young.

Youth in Flower

The fairest flower in the garden of creation is a young mind, offering and unfolding itself to the influence of divine wisdom, as the bellflower turns its sweet blossoms to the sun.—J. E. Smith.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

This is a great age, when a man, impressed with a great idea, can carry out his project without being imprisoned or thumb-screwed or prevented in any form.—Dickens.

PICKLING TIME

Pickles of various kinds occupy a place in many menus and if omitted the lack is felt. A moderate use of pickles and condiments for the average adult is healthful and adds to the enjoyment of more wholesome foods.

As vinegar and spices are the important ingredients in pickling, it is wise to choose the best. Many an otherwise delicious combination has been spoiled by poor vinegar and in different or ill-flavored spices. It pays to get the best even at higher cost. Much of the vinegar on the market is so strong that it needs reduction with water. In all salad dressing it is safe to dilute with equal parts of water. The taste is a good guide.

The chief charm of a pickle is its crispness. Scalding usually destroys this, and when possible it should be avoided, as, too, should the use of alum, which is very unwholesome even in small doses.

Ripe Cucumber Pickles.—These are prepared as one does matamelon pickles, and when well made, are tender and delicious. Cut the ripe cucumbers into halves lengthwise. Cover with salted water and heat gradually, then let them stand for an hour or two. Remove and chill in ice water; this keeps them firm. Make a slurr by boiling two pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, two tablespoonsful each of whole cloves and cinnamon tied in a cloth. Add the cucumbers and cook ten minutes, remove the cucumbers to a jar and pour over the boiling hot slurr. Seal in jars and they will keep a year.

Oil Pickles.—Slice one hundred small-sized cucumbers unpeeled and three medium or six small onions, sprinkle thickly with salt and let stand overnight. In the morning rinse off the salt and place in jars. Cover with the following: Two quarts of vinegar, two-thirds of a cupful of mustard seed, one tablespoonful each of celery seed and ground pepper and one cupful of fresh, sweet olive oil. Mix well before pouring over the pickles.

I love the smell of apples when they're getting sticky red. And I love the smell that crinkles from an old-time posy bed. The earthy spice of new-plowed fields is even a most sublime. But there ain't no smell that equals the smell of picklin' time.

SALADS AND THINGS

A simple salad which is easily prepared and as well liked, is fresh pineapple cut into fine pieces sprinkled over head lettuce. Serve with a rich mayonnaise.

Apple and Blackberry Jelly.

red astrakhan apples add three pints of blackberries. Cook the fruit with as little water as possible. Drain but do not squeeze. Use two-thirds as much sugar as juice and cook until it jells. Cook the juice ten minutes before adding the sugar. If carefully made it will be a beautiful red.

Peach Marmalade.—Boil twelve pounds of peaches until reduced to a pulp, adding a small amount of water, then put them through a sieve and add a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Boil, stirring constantly until thick. Put away in glasses for winter.

Spanish Salad.—To two cupfuls of diced chicken add one cupful of diced cucumber, one cupful of walnut meats, and a cupful of cooked peas. Mix with a boiled dressing and serve on lettuce.

Peas, pickles, green olives, peanuts and a little celery make a good salad combination.

Cherry Pudding.—Take one tablespoonful of butter, one-half cupful of sugar, one beaten egg, two cupfuls each of sour milk and flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, mix and beat well, then stir in a quart of cherries, pitted; bake for three-quarters of an hour.

Preserved Cherries.—To every pound of Morello cherries allow one pound of sugar. Stone the cherries, cover with the sugar and let stand in a cool place over night. In the morning put over the fire in a preserving kettle and cook slowly without stirring until the fruit is soft and the sirup clear. Skim carefully and put into jars.

An inventory of all household goods, furnishings, linen, silver, china, canned goods as well as clothing, is invaluable. Keep a list in the safety deposit box; in case of fire it will be found useful.

Fear Mother Drowned Herself And Children

River Grove, Ill., July 6.—(United Press).—Fearing that Mrs. Clara Melches, 28, has drowned herself and her three small children, authorities today planned to drag the waters of the Desplaines river in search of their bodies.

Disappearance of the mother and her three children was reported by the father, John Melches, who said his wife had been "acting queerly" for some time.

The missing mother attracted attention in Chicago two years ago at the murder trial of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb when she attempted to intercede in behalf of the slayers.
