American Co-Ed Tells Own Story Of Her Marriage To Indian Prince

always been—broad-minded, calm and clear-headed, except that he seemed to brood on the way his mother and brothers had accepted the announcement of our marriage. Calcutta was my first glimpse of the world entirely different from what I had been accustomed to. Rioting was then being carried on against British rule. English soldiers patrolled the dirty streets the few white people were hissed and spit at by the natives as they passed through the city.

It was then, too, that I learned Abani was an ardent follower of Mahatma Chadi, nationalist leader whose slogan was "India for Indians," my husband, the nobleman who had spent years in the United States yearning American ways, was an Anti-white agitator! I was worried.

And he had seemed to change subtly as soon as he landed in India. He took less notice of me, being intent, seemingly, on only one thing—the Indian revolution. He was in his family, which was then staying in Calcutta.

Abanti soon lost his American mannerisms completely. He reverted to an Indian. He was silent, morose, and quarrelsome. His family, however, accepted me into their home.

The Indians, however, are a people of moods. One day they would treat me as an equal, and the next I would be nothing more than a servant. I wore the long flowing robes of the Indian women and the veil she is forced to keep over her face when men are present. In every way I tried to please my husband's relatives.

And I would have succeeded had it not been for their Brahmin Priest.

The priest's only duty was performing a religious ceremony night and morning for the Bose family. When I arrived, he refused to continue the services. He vowed I was unclean, untouchable and eventhreatened to outcast the Bose family from the church—all on account of me.

Of course the rulers of Barodi were angry, both at me and at the priest. Abanti finally decided to have his brother take me to the family castle in Barodi while the prayer of another priest was negotiated. Then too, Abanti said he wanted me to meet his mother, who was staying at the Place out in the Wilds of East Bengal and that awful palace—I can smile about it now—but when I was forced to stay in it for months I thought seriously of committing suicide.

(Miss Kurlow's third article, in which she describes her "life in the jungle palace" will appear tomorrow.)

RESOLUTIONS

Adopted by Adams Lodge, No.

1311, Loyal Order of Moose

Whereas: Death has again parted

the portals of our Lodge and entering, an unwelcome guest, has taken from our Defending Circle our brother, Edgar W. Murray, and

Whereas: Brother Murray, was our friend in Fraternity, our co-laborer in all good works, and a Faithful and

Loyal Moose,

Therefore: Be It Resolved: That to

his family and immediate home circle

we express our belief in the worthiness of his life, the uprightness of his character, and his genuine love

for his fellow men.

Resolved Further: That in the death of our Brother, this lodge loses

a firm and faithful member, his family a devoted and loving friend, and marking a generous and helpful

laborer.

He served well here; he will live

well in the Hereafter.

Adopted this 10th day of August

in the year of our Lord, 1926.
