NEWS AGENCIES OF WORLD MEET

Improvement of Facilities For Exchange of News Is Objective

Geneva, Aug. 19.—(United Press) A commission of 16 of the world's leading news associations representing 10 countries and four continents met here today under the auspices of the League of Nations with the object of improving world-wide facilities for the interchange of news as the most practicable means of promoting understanding between all peoples and of preventing the international misunderstandings which often leads to war.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League, made the opening address.

In an effort to obtain relative equality in treatment of independent agencies and official agencies, Howard introduced the following motion: "Being convinced that the fullest and freest exchange of news between nations constitutes one of the surest guarantees of international understanding and friendly relations, as well as one of the most certain means for preventing those misunderstandings between nations and peoples which often lead to war, and whereas telegraphic news agencies at the present time perhaps are the greatest as well as the quickest means for the exchange of news between nations, and whereas every facility thus accorded these agencies for the fulfillment of their national and international task constitutes a safeguard for the world's peace as well as the surest furtherance of those highest ideals of international understanding and collaboration that are the fundamental bases of the League of Nations.

Therefore, be it resolved that all the governments of the world be requested to grant and to assure absolute equality of treatment to all telegraphic news agencies whether official or independent.

1—"in the matter of distribution of all official news;

"2—in the matter of priority or order of transmission of their telegrams;

"3—in the matter of telegraph, telephone and cable rates."
