INDIANAPOLIS MAYOR IS NAMED IN ADAMS PROBE

INVESTIGATION OF SENSATIONAL CHARGE OF CORRUPTION IN STATE AND CITY POLITICS BY MARION COUNTY PROSECUTOR APPEARS PROBABLE; MAYOR DUVAL ADMITS HE MADE CERTAIN PROMISES TO STEPHENSON.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 7.—(United Press)—Thos. Adams, Vincennes editor directing a probe of state politics, indicated today he would make another appeal to Gov. Jackson for an interview with D. C. Stephenson, former klan dragon, in the state prison at Michigan City.

Should the Governor again refuse his request, Adams said another course would be resorted to in the pursuit of his investigation.

He claims that refusal of state authorities to permit Stephenson to be interviewed is preventing him from securing evidence which he asserts will clinch the charges he has aired.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 7.—(United Press)—An investigation by the Marion county prosecutor's office of sensational charges of corruption in state and city politics appeared today as a possibility in the expose of the political activities of D. C. Stephenson, former klan dragon.

Prosecutor Wm. H. Remy, announced he would confer with Thos. H. Adams, head of the committee of editors conducting a probe of the Stephenson regime, on evidence gathered by Adams.

Remy would not say before going over Adams' information whether it would be made the subject of a grand jury investigation.

The prosecutor declared, however, that he could subpoena Stephenson if necessary, from the state prison at Michigan City, where the former dragon is serving a life sentence for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer, of Indianapolis.

While Remy prepared to look into the charges, the staff of the Indianapolis admitted the authenticity of one of two documents photostatic copies of which were given out by Adams.

Duval admitted he wrote a letter to Stephenson two years ago saying he would become a candidate, for treasurer of Marion county and "go down the line for you and the boys."

GIVES RILEY DAY PROGRAM HERE

Interesting Program Here; Public Program Tonight

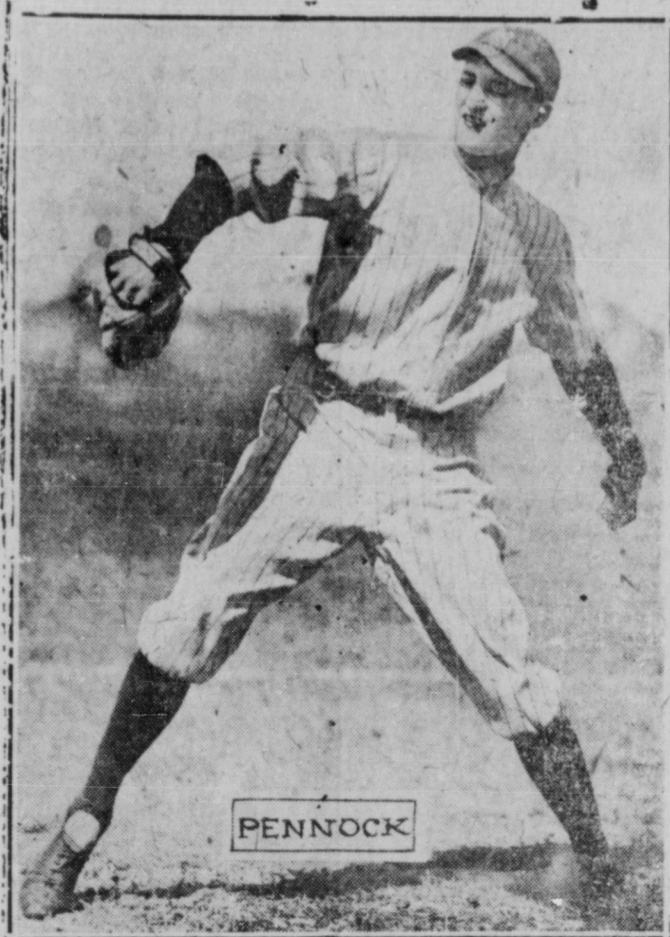

Mr. Calvin Power, noted reader and lecturer, will give a public Riley Day program in the Decatur high school auditorium at 8 o'clock this evening, under the auspices and for the benefit of the pupils of the grade schools of this city. Mr. Power gave a special program for the high school pupils at the high school building at 11 o'clock this morning and one for the grade schools at the old gymnasium on First street at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The public is invited to attend the program this evening.

No program like the one given by Mr. Power, in its variety and charm for juvenile or adults audience, is duplicated by any other. He first reads poems suitable to the years of those to whom he speaks, giving each its particular setting, and telling something of how the poem came to be written and who the persons named in the poem were; then come the pictures illustrating a pilgrimage he made to the home of the poet and that of the immortal Orphant Annie. An no series of pictures ever held groups of children or their elders in such amazing thrall as does this one.

Thousands of boys and girls in every city were Mr. Power has presented his work, after witnessing this most unusual exhibition, have said they would give a dollar to see it all over again; while grown-ups from all walks of life, at the end of a two-hour program, declare they could have listened two hours longer.

Riley is "the people's poet," and the message of his verse and something of the story of his struggles and privations and his later victories never fail to hold all who come within their hearing. No other poet has such a glad-some message for children and youth, as he, and no other is read as much or quoted as often. And because of the educational value of this Riley Day offering it is hoped every pupil in our schools may get the benefit of it.

BRITISH MINERS ENLARGE STRIKE

Coal Miners Vote To Withdraw All Safety Men From Mines At Once

London, Oct. 7.—(United Press)—Great Britain's embattle coal miners today prepared to employ the most formidable weapon they could use in their battle with the owners of the coal mines.

The national delegate conference of miners voted to withdrawal of all safety men from the mines.

Throughout the coal strike about 60,000 miners have been working as usual. They are the so-called safety men who look after the pumps, the ventilating machinery, care for the pit ponies and in general keep the mines from becoming foul, underground lakes.

Today's resolutions was interpreted as meaning that the miners would permit the flooding of all the pits in Great Britain.

Under the emergency regulations which have been in force since the present industrial trouble became acute months ago, the government would be able to man the mine pumps with volunteers or troops, or to take virtually any means to prevent the incalculable loss which would result from widespread sabotage in the pits.

NEW EVIDENCE IS GATHERED

State Plans To Introduce More Testimony Against Aimee McPherson

By Lincoln Quarberg

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 7.—(United Press)—A mass of new evidence tending to disprove Aimee Simple McPherson's famous tale on kidnapping was prepared by the state today for presentation at the hearing of the evangelist on charges of criminal conspiracy.

The testimony includes details of the deep sea diving operations which attended the long search for Mrs. McPherson in the ocean after her disappearance last May and which caused the death of two men.

Robert D. Hunt, Venice diver, was one of the new witnesses called by the state. He was prepared to testify, if he was called, that the search for the evangelist's body was continued for publicity purposes.

Hunt also told District Attorney investigators he was hired by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, co-defendant and mother of Mrs. McPherson to keep up his diving exploits to help convince the public that the evangelist was actually drowned.

Bill Sherdel's wobbly pitching in the tenth helped the Yanks to put over the single run that won the game.

Sherdel weakened after a hard battle, committed a wild pitch, passed two batters and hit another.

This, combined with a sacrifice fly, gave the Yanks the game.

Babe Ruth, who hit three home runs in yesterday's game, failed to get a hit today.

SPECIAL SERMON FOR THIS EVENING

Evangelist at Baptist Church To Discuss The Second Coming Of Christ

Special stress has been laid on the sermon to be preached this evening at the revival service at the Baptist church, by the evangelist, the Rev. M. F. Scruby, of Dayton, Ohio. The subject of the sermon is "Sixteen Million Reasons Why I Believe In The Second Coming of Christ."

There will be a service Friday evening, but none on Saturday evening. The revival will close Sunday night. On Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, there will be a mass meeting, to which the public is cordially invited. The Sunshine B. Y. P. U. will meet Friday afternoon, immediately after the close of the public schools.

Rev. Scruby preached on the subject, "Lessons From The Dove Cote," last night. He said, in part:

"We have here, a picture of great multitudes of people coming to Christ, and entering his kingdom. This promise was in large measure fulfilled on the day of pentecost, when three thousand people, Jews and Gentiles, believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, and accepted him as Lord and Saviour. The promises of God are not like the promises of man. When we make a promise, it becomes void as soon as it has been fulfilled. God's promises may be fulfilled in the experience of multitudes of people, through many centuries, and yet remain just as valid as when He first made them.

"This question of the prophet gives birth to three questions which we wish to consider. First, Why should people come to Christ? Second, How should we come to Christ? Third, Why should so many come to Christ? There is a complete answer to each question in the experience of the doves returning to the dove-cote.

"As the doves return to the dove-cote to be fed, as people should come to Christ because he is the true bread of life."

FIFTEEN WOMEN ARE CANDIDATES

All Aspire To Seats In U. S. Congress; Many Seek State Offices

Washington, Oct. 7.—(United Press) Fifteen women are running for congress this year, according to a list of candidates on file today with the clerk of the house.

They aspire to membership in the lower house. A sixteenth, Cora Bixler, Pennsylvania Socialist, who sought senate membership, died after the state primaries.

Women's organizations estimate that perhaps 200 more are candidates for state and municipal offices throughout the country.

These entries represent the largest phalanx of candidates put forward by women since suffrage was accepted, and the result will probably entrench more women in public office over the country than before.

Terms of two women governors elected two years ago expire this year and one of them, Mrs. Nellie Ross of Wyoming is a candidate to succeed herself. The other, Gov. "Ma" Ferguson of Texas, was defeated in the primary.

At present there are three women in the house and none in the senate. The three house members have received renomination and will face opponents at the polls November 2 in their fight for re-election.
