Englishman Aroused By Old Building Sale
London (United Press)—Another American menace is threatening England, according to A. R. Powys, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings.
"There are signs," he said, "that the American campaign to buy up the choicest evidences of early English history is likely to be carried on in the future on a most dangerous scale."
There have been three or four instances recently, which attracted attention in the press, of wealthy Americans buying old buildings and having them carefully shipped home in pieces, to be reconstructed there. Powys mentioned in particular an Elizabethan Market Hall which was bought there for $1,500 from a city council, and of another council selling richly carved timbers of a house dating back to 1400 which was pulled down during street-widening operations.
Earth Tremors Rock Calexico, California
Calexico, Calif. Jan. 1.—(United Press)—A series of severe earth tremors rocked this city and vicinity early today.
Considerable damage was done to buildings but none of the establishments were shaken down.
Some of the structures were so badly cracked by the shock that they may have to be torn down, according to city officials.
Windows in business establishments and residents throughout the city were shattered.

CELEBRATION ON NEW YEARS EVE IS ORDERLY HERE

ers in the loop who attempted to gain possession of an alleged degenerate arrested by four officers.

The crowd charged the officers when they took into custody George Miller, whom Miss Helen Dolan, an 18-year-old girl, accused of molesting her. The revelers had taken up the chase when Miss Dolan followed by Miller, leaped from a street car. Several minutes were required to disperse the angry crowd and when a cordon of officers was finally gotten around the prisoner, the mob followed to the station, jeering.

Rains In New York.
New York, Jan. 1.—(United Press.)—Rain fell on the jammed mid-Manhattan streets at the stroke of 12 o'clock, but the city's uproarious New Year's celebration already was dripping wet.

Soaked without from a persistent drizzle and insured against dryness from within by plentifully stocked hip flasks, New Yorkers packed the sidewalks along Broadway so solidly at midnight that progress was tedious if not impossible.

Theaters, restaurants, hotels and cabarets were massed to the doors. A trail of Yellow-backs was left by the rattle's spenders. Probably never before was so much money expended in one night along the famed white way.

St. Louis, Jan. 1.—The New Year was whirled into existence here amidst a busy din of all the noise making devices procurable.

Well into the morning the night clubs and hotel dining rooms were crowded to capacity by the merry makers. It was estimated that some 20,000 persons—paying cover charges of from $5 to $10 each—had a part in welcoming 1927.

Eracts Statue To Hog In German Community

Lueneburg (Brunswick), Germany.—(United Press.)—A monument, dedicated to the memory of a hog is the latest contribution to the art of this town. Carved from durable granite, an unusually fat and well-groomed swine now stands guard at the entrance to the local salt mine.

The owner of the original hog, from which this model was hewn, owes his fortune to the immortalized animal. Five years ago, while seeking food, the hog led its master to a salt deposit, which later proved to be the surface of a valuable mine.

Prairie town.—George W. Smith may have to pay his father-in-law $15,000 for accompanying him on an automobile ride. Smith invited his wife's father to take a ride with him and his car was wrecked. The father sued for injuries sustained.

Bluffton.—Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mahoney of this city claim to be the "unluckiest couple in Wells county. After recovering from a fractured hip, Mrs. Mahoney fell and broke a collar bone while Mr. Mahoney recently lost the sight of an eye when a loosened spring flipped up and hit him.

Kokomo.—Ralph Costlow, motorman, claims the record for space in the limelight among those of his profession. He made the front page twice in one day, first rescuing a lad who skated on thin ice and later falling to get his car out of the way of a wayward motorist.

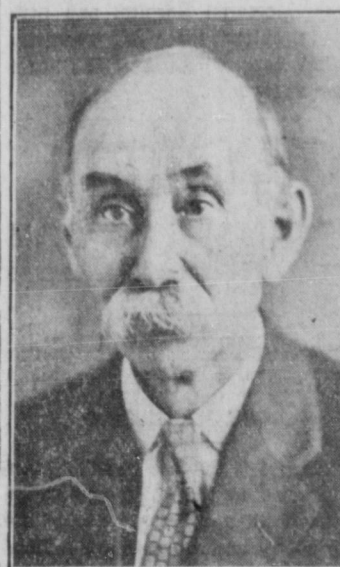

Marion.—The lusty scream of his wife is credited by Lawrence Dimius for the safety of his possessions. Dimius started reaching for his money when bandits held him up but Mrs. Dimius screamed and the footpads fled without loot.

TENNESSEE TOWN ISOLATED TODAY

Hartsville Entirely Surrounded By Flood Waters; Fuel And Food Short

The volume of business is ever. The volume of business is ever.

Hartsville, Tenn., Jan. 1.—(Unbanned by the General Electric plant Press)—Surrounded by miles of water, a "peak production," er, the backwaters from overflowed local merchants report a good streams, Hartsville today is isolated and officials of the three from the outside world.

The closest railroad tracks, which are now under at least 20 feet of water, are two miles and a half from the little city's border.

The lobby of the hotel here is filled with water. The streets are flooding 20 feet high with the black dirt from the outside world.

All the coal in the city is under at least 15 feet of water and trip are made daily by boat—to the extent of the workable railroad for small supplies of fuel.

The new year was far from a cheerful sight in this isolated town. More than a thousand persons are here for the big New Year's wolf hunt. Wolves of the heat. All the electric light wires are down and electric workers have been this assembly on their trail.

There was no light and very little heat. All the electric light wires are down and electric workers have been this assembly on their trail.
