OUTLINES BORER CONTROL PLANS

of full responsibility for these two functions of scouting and quarantine enforcement was for the purpose of releasing state funds and personnel hitherto used in such work to enable the state department of agriculture to give their undivided attention to resources to the problem of holding the increase in the number of borers in the infested territory in each state below serious commercial damage.

In addition to these control features, the department's program provides for research work in all fields related to the borer problem as an aid to future control. In this research the department welcomes the fullest co-operation on the part of the states in supplemental research and every effort is being made to coordinate in a practical way what the department and the states are doing in the field of investigation leading to improved methods of control and the adoption of farming systems in the corn belt to the presence of the corn borer.

Appropriation Requested
For scouting, quarantine enforcement and for research the department has requested in its estimates a total of $1,267,580, which represents an increase of $548,000 over the regular appropriation for such work during the present fiscal year.

Supplementing this program, the department and the state agricultural colleges plan for the continuation of the intensive educational campaign now being conducted by their co-operative extension service in infested territory. This campaign is being supervised in each state by the state director of extension and is being carried out by the county agricultural agents in infested counties with such assistance as is available from the state agricultural colleges and the department. The expenses of this educational work will be borne during the coming fiscal year by the regular federal and state appropriations for co-operative extension work.

Farm Control Demonstrated
Since the results of the campaign demonstrated that by the use of known control methods, and in spite of adverse climatic conditions, farmers could greatly reduce the increase in borers or actually reduce their numbers, as resulted for example in Ohio and New York, this object of the campaign can be regarded as having been satisfactorily accomplished. Until such a large scale demonstration had been made both with respect to local benefit from reduction in the number of borers as well as to the retardation of spread, it was recognized that the farmers could not justly be asked to undertake the added expense of cleanup and other essential control measures.

In other words, it was fully appreciated that the federal government could not underwrite as a continuing policy the local or regional control of the corn borer, any more than it could similarly underwrite the control of other farm pests, and this phase of control under the program of the department has been left as already indicated to the state concerned.

An extensive program of research on every phase of the corn borer problem is in progress and will be extended next year. Much of this work is in co-operation with the state experiment stations. The program has been carefully worked out by the department and the states and by a joint committee representing the Association of Economic Entomologists, the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, the American Society of Agronomy, and the American Farm Economic Association. The program of research, therefore, represents the best judgment of the scientists of this country.

LINDY'S HEALTH DECLARED GOOD

Host To "Lone Eagle" In Balboa Denies Flier's Nerves Are Bad

Balboa, Jan. 24.—(INS)—Reports that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was on the verge of a nervous collapse were denied today by Col. A. G. Fisher, at whose home the young aviator is staying.

Emphasizing that the flying colonel was in good health as a result of his recent vacation at Bouquete, in the interior of Panama, Col. Fisher told the International News Service that he was unable to account for the many reports to the contrary.

Anyone seeing Col. Lindbergh, his host said, could observe that his health was not failing.

The general impression here was that when Lindbergh arrived in Balboa he did appear "Shaky" but that his vacation he seems rested. It was pointed out that the "breakdown" report may have grown out of the fact that Col. Lindbergh took time for a vacation.

National Grange Attempts To Alter McNary Farm Bill

Washington, Jan. 24.—(INS)—Encouraged by the split in the "corn belt" backers of the McNary-Haugen bill, the National Grange today launched a new campaign to translate its debenture plan into law.

L. J. Taber of Columbus, O., Master of the Grange announced that the Grange's executive committee, after a meeting last several days, had decided to continue support of the debenture plan without reference to other farm bills.

The debenture plan, which was rejected in congress last year, calls for Payment of export losses on farm products out of tariff receipts. The scheme, it is claimed by supporters, was first suggested by Alexander Hamilton, secretary of the treasury, in 1790.

Meanwhile the house agriculture committee continued its exploration into new phases of the McNary-Haugen bill, with backers encouraged by the opposition of ex-governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois to any compromise scheme.
