

"FOX" HELD SANE, FACES GALLOWS OR LIFE TERM

until Tuesday of next week. If the motion is denied, it was expected to take their case to the supreme court by filing notice of an appeal on the ground that the new codes governing Hickman's trial is unconstitutional.

The jury's verdict virtually brought to a close one of the most horrible crimes in the history of the south-west.

It was almost two months ago that William Edward Hickman, went to the Mr. Vernon school and, on the pretext that her father had been injured in an automobile accident, secured little Marion Parker from school.

For three days he held the Pacific coast in terror through ransom letters to her father, Perry Parker, a banker.

On the third day, he dismembered the child's body, and returned her mutilated remains to her father in exchange for $1,500 ransom money. The "Fox" then fled into the north-west, where he was captured through mailed bank notes which made up the $1,500 ransom.

WANT PROPOSED DREDGING PROBED

to some sections of the country at the expense of others.

Their contention was that the drainage plan of the upper Wabash basin was one that needed careful consideration. It was plain that the dredging proposed would give better drainage to the territory near Fort Recovery but it also seemed apparent that such drainage would rush the water on westward to Indiana causing flooding of land in this section and damaging bridges, railroad grades etc.

At Bluffton for instance, the grades on state road 3 and the Indiana Service corporation, both north of this city, cause water to back up for some distance in flood time. Dredging of the upper river basin will force more water down and it is apparent that grades and bridges here will have to be altered to let the water through, if land and property east of here is to escape being flooded.

Speakers pointed out last night that if the water comes down to Bluffton and is again released here by such alterations and possible further dredging, this section will be merely passing the proposition on to Huntington and Huntington county. In the end, it was pointed out, the situation would extend to the Mississippi basin where the flood question is now in practically an unanswerable condition.

Following passage of the resolution here, citizens discussed the matter more fully and it is expected that a plan outlined by Mr. Beiderwolf will be given consideration. This plan calls for the appointment of committees in each city and town in the Wabash valley to look after their respective community's interest in the proposed dredging plan. In this way a united effort to ward off serious consequences could be made in case these committees found the plan would cause more damage than good to the communities involved.

Mrs. C. E. Bell spent the day with Mrs. Frame at Fort Wayne.
