Set Training Tables for Fighting Crickets

The sporting element in China has been training fighting crickets for hundreds of years. Huge sums are still bet on cricket fights and the owners of champion crickets are nationally known. In his booklet, "Cricket Champions of China," Dr. Berthold Laufer, famous sinologist of the Field Museum of Natural History, discloses the interesting methods used by the Chinese in training these scrapping insects. Even in ancient times the trainers prescribed strict diets for their battlers. The usual diet consist of a dish of rice mixed with fresh cucumbers, hulled chestnuts, lotus seeds and mosquitoes. Some of the owners and fanciers allow themselves to be bitten by mosquitoes, and when the mosquitoes are full of blood they are given to their favorite crickets.

The fighting crickets are kept in specially devised jars, which are made to serve as both summer and winter homes. The jars are furnished with tiny beds and water jars. The champion crickets are transported in finely wrought cages, some of which are filigree gold.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Now Cast Doubt on Myles Standish Tale

Capt. Myles Standish may have asked John Alden to propose to Priscilla Mullens for him, as Longfellow wrote (there is historical doubt on the point), but despite the means he may have taken the redoubtable soldier was married twice and left many children.

Proof of this has been found through twenty-one years' record searching by Dr. Myles Standish of Boston, eighth lineal descendant of the soldier.

"The legend about which Longfellow wrote 'The Courtship of Miles Standish' is not very convincing," said Doctor Standish. "Before coming to America, Captain Standish was in Holland and there he married his first wife, Rose. Rose died the first winter in America. Later the soldier married Barbara, who is said to have been a first cousin of Rose. They had several children. It is between the death of Rose and his marriage to Barbara that the captain is supposed to have courted Priscilla. It is a pretty story."—Miami Daily News.

Brotherly Love

A large crowd was waiting breathlessly on the beach. In the distance a small black object could be seen bobbing up and down on the crest of the waves. It was a bottle—and inside was a message!

A party of brave men ventured out in a row boat to see what tragic news it contained. After some difficulty the bottle was picked up and brought back to shore. With shaking fingers the leader of the party pulled out the message.

"The finder of this bottle," he read "might please send it to my brother in Aberdeen and tell him to take it to the Pig and Whistle. There's two pence on it."—London Answers.

Too Much Pep

Norma, age seven, was visiting her grandma, and they were telling jokes. Grandma told Norma the one about the boy who went to the grocery and bought some pepper for his mother and when he arrived home and opened the package he found the pepper was half peas (p's). Norma was quiet for a few moments, and then she said: "Grandma here is one for you!" "A little boy went to the store to buy some pepper for his mother, and when he came home and opened it he found it was half pep."

Appropriately Named

Little Rock, Ark., was named from a rocky promontory which rises at the south bank of the Arkansas river some 50 feet above the river and now used as one of the abutments of one of the four bridges which span the river. This rock is the first seen as ascending the river, and was called "Little Rock" in contradistinction to the bold precipice about ten times higher which rises some three miles above upon the opposite bank and is called "Big Rock." This is now the site of an army post.

Movie Star

Five-year-old Ethel had never attended a picture show, but had heard her brothers and sisters talk a great deal about the "movie stars." One evening Ethel was out riding with her parents after dark. It was a new experience to Ethel to be out driving late enough to see the stars, and she was very much interested in watching them. One bright star in particular attracted her attention, and as the machine moved Ethel thought the star was moving and said, "Mamma, that must be a movie star."

One Thing Missing

Mrs. Newlywed rushed in from the kitchen, a smoking pie dish in her hands. She placed it on the table in front of her husband.

"There, dear," she cooed, "that's a cottage pie."

"I'd have known it was cottage pie," he remarked after the first few mouthfuls.

"You would?" she asked, delighted.

"Yes," he replied. "I can taste the thatched roof and the crazy paving. But what did you do with the bricks?"

clear donations in his 1920 gubernatorial campaign, and the other, being the party's acceptance of a large contribution recently from Thomas Fortune Ryan, the New York capitalist. Senator Robinson (R) of Indiana, demanded that Smith be subpoenaed as a witness in the Teapot Dome case, while Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, pointed out that the Democrats at the 1912 convention adopted a resolution overwhelmingly declaring they would never select a nominee that "had the support of Ryan, J. Pierpont Morgan or any other person in the privilege-granting or favor-seeking class."

Will Not Summon Smith Washington, March 20.—(U.P.)—Gov. Al Smith will not be subpoenaed by the senate Teapot Dome committee to ascertain if Harry Sinclair, indicted oil man, contributed liberally to his 1920 gubernatorial campaign, Chairman Nye announced today. "The committee cannot go into the question of whether Smith appointed Sinclair a state racing commissioner or whether Sinclair gave a campaign contribution to the New York governor," Nye said. "Our investigation is confined to the bonds of the Continental Trading Co."

Senator Robinson, Republican, Ind.

said he did not intend to let rest his charges that Sinclair was a liberal Smith campaign contributor, even if the committee intended to ignore them. He announced he would make a speech to the senate about the matter.
