YELLOW JACKETS LOSE ANOTHER

The Decatur high school Yellow Jackets suffered their sixth straight defeat and their fourth conference defeat of the present baseball season Wednesday afternoon, when the Fort Wayne Central high school Tigers handed them a 27-1 defeat on the local diamond. The Tigers pounded the ball to all corners of the lot, while Doege, Central moundsman, held the locals at bay. The game was called by agreement at the end of the fifth inning.

George Roop went the full five innings on the mound for Decatur and was touched for 20 hits, while he and his teammates committed a total of 12 errors. Bell and Passwater were the only Yellow Jackets to his safely, each getting two hits. One of Bell's hits was good for two bases, but he was tagged out trying to stretch it into a triple. The Central team, which is leading the Northeastern Indiana conference with four victories and no defeats, is a classy outfit.

The Yellow Jackets will go to Huntington Friday afternoon to play the Vikings in another conference game.

Curtis Walker drove in four runs in the Cincinnati Reds' 6 to 4 Win over the St. Louis Cardinals. Two errors by Frankie Frisch resulted in two of the R ds' runs.

After hitting safely in 15 consecutive games, Chalmer Cissell went hitless as the Chicago White Sox went down before Owen Carroll's brilliant pitching. Carroll allowed only four hits, the Tigers winning 7 to 1.

INTERSECTIONAL SERIES START

By Davis J. Walsh
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

New York, May 3—(INS)—After giving its customary slapstick prelude of early April, Major League baseball may be depended upon to settle down to legitimate roles in the next fortnight, beginning tomorrow with the first of the East-west Intersectional meetings. Always a show down of authority, the Intersectional factor will serve its usual purpose this time it may determine definitely and to all practical purposes whether clubs like the Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Brooklyn Dodgers belong where they happen to find themselves today or merely are occupying first division positions by the gratuity of "Squatters' rights."

For another, it may show just how far John McGraw can hope to go with his Giants this season. The club is moving west today in first place, regardless of injuries to O'Doul and Walker and the failure of Vic Aldridge to report. But it got where it is by pushing the Braves, Dodgers and Phillies around and, if that kind has anything, then Coogan's Bluff is something that ought to be called.

All the speed of the National League field, barring the Giants, is in the west. Therefore, their next sixteen ball games figure to prove just who has it—in adition to the customary four out of five.

The Giants open their western Invasion in Cincinnati tomorrow. Then they double back to Pittsburgh jump over to Chicago and finish in St. Louis Every series will be a crucial as the dependability of a suspender button. The Reds getting real pitching again, are playing the kind of baseball they showed in 1926 when they chased the Cardinals in. The Pirates apparently have come back from an indifferent break from the barrier and seem headed for the first division. The Cubs aren't hitting 6 7-8, hat size, but the chances are they will be ready true to form already.

As for the status of the Browns, and Indians, it may go unchallenged for four or five days, St. Louis will open in Washington tomorrow and the Senators at the moment seem to be all spread out like a creditor's investigation. They are not even challenging the loser right now. The Indians, meantime, will be asked to meet the Red Sox and will reluctantly consent. However, the Browns next stop will be Philadelphia and the Indians' next the Yankee Stadium and the westerners at both places will have to show plenty. This may turn out to be slightly more than they have.
