FARM LEADERS

DRAFT PROGRAM

Chicago, June 2.—(U.P.)—Farm leaders of fourteen corn belt states met here today to draft a program of political activity which they hope will secure for the middlewestern farmer government "protection and relief."

The meeting, specifically, was in charge of chairmen of the fourteen states committee, organized recently to protest President Coolidge's second veto of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

The general "protest" or "farmers' revolt," however, involved the presidential candidacies of three middlewestern favorite sons, namely, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, U. S. Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, and Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas.

SECOND LEG OF OCEAN FLIGHT IS MOST DANGEROUS

quent intervals along the course. The chief danger of the long 3,200-mile jump at Suva was the possibility of running out of fuel.

"I'd hate to see the plane wrecked in a forced landing," Lyon said, "but I'd rather take a chance on that than to stop now."

There was a possibility, however, that enough gasoline might be loaded into the Southern Cross to carry it all the way to the Fijis. Kingsford-Smith said the tanks may hold 1,500 gallons, which was believed enough to put them in Suva barring accidents or misfortune. That amount would be 300 gallons more than the plane carried when it left Oakland.

As soon as the Southern Cross is ready to resume the Australian journey, it will be taken out to baking sands, on the Island of Kauli, the only spot on the islands where a heavily loaded plane can make a run long enough to lift it from the ground.

The Southern Cross required 27 hours and 28 minutes for the flight from California. The most trying part of the journey, the four men agreed, was during the early hours of yesterday when they temporarily lost their bearings and were uncertain of the amount of gasoline left in the tanks. Once they had feared their fuel would be depleted before they reached land, but the gasoline gauge was found later to be registering faultily. They arrived at their goal with 130 gallons to spare.

"After we dropped the San Francisco radio beacon, we navigated by periodic compass," Captain Kingsford-Smith said. "All through the trip the plane performed splendidly. The motors fired clear through to the finish."

Attorney F. M. Cottrell, of Berne, was a business visitor in Decatur today.
