for the Alessandri and Amundsen parties. The committee is inclined to press the search until there is definite ground for abandoning all hope, despite the intimations from Premier Mussolini, of Italy, and Gen. Umberto Nobile that further aid from the soviets is not desired evidently on account of the cost. It was indicated that there is an unwillingness to pay further expenses for the work of the Krassin.

A radiogram from the Krassin quoted E. Bemounk, one of the Noble survivors, as saying he saw neither flames nor smoke when the Italia's envelope was carried away in a gale on May 25. He believes there is a possibility that the six men carried away with the bag may still be alive.

Gen. Nobile was quoted after his rescue from the ice as saying that he saw smoke and flames and believed the envelope was on fire when it disappeared over the horizon.

Washington, July 17.—(U.P.)—The countries willing to sign Secretary of State Kellogg's anti-war treaty without further change have been joined by the Irish Free State.

Replying to the secretary's June 23 note, P. McGilligan, Dublin minister for external affairs, called attention to his government's approval of the original draft of the treaty, and added that "the draft treaty as revised is equally acceptable to the government of the Irish Free State."

ENJOYING TOUR THROUGH WEST

range in the world to be crossed by a railroad. The range was covered with snow and they learned that the snow on the east side of the range drains to the Atlantic ocean and the snow on the west side drains to the Pacific ocean. The girls took kodak pictures of one another standing in the snow. From there, they drove to Milner's Pass, which is 12,000 feet above sea level, a height equal to about 30 city blocks. Here they were above the clouds and could see them moving about beneath them. The snow in the pass was 15 feet deep. In places, the road was only wide enough for one car to pass. On one side was a high rock wall, with a drop of two or three miles on the other side of the road. They then visited Grand Lake and Estes Park, the later a famous resort. They told of passing through a canyon which was very awesome, enroute to Big Thompson, which is a huge dam of repute. Their Saturday sight-seeing plans were to take them to Pikes Peak, Garden of the Gods, Cave of the Winds, Broadmoor, Manitou and Colorado Springs. On Monday, (yesterday) they expected to leave Colorado and go to Bunker Hill, Kansas, for an overnight visit with E. O. Humes and family, a great uncle of Miss Walters. Leaving there, Tuesday (today) they were to drive south through Tulsa, Oklahoma, to Arkansas, where they will visit with relatives of Miss Nelson. All details of their homeward journey have not been worked out as yet.

FARMERS URGED TO SOW ALFALFA

While conditions at the present time favor unusually good yields of corn, oats and some other crops in northeastern Indiana this year, a condition has been created by the winter-killing of hay crops and pastures which make a serious situation for the agriculturist specializing in live stock.

The winter-killing of alfalfa and clover was the worst ever known in the middle west and the damage also extended to other states.

Attention is called to the fact that alfalfa hay, wheat bran, clover hay and middlings, constituting the basic supplies of farm protein feeds, are certain to be high-priced for the next two years.

This shortage of protein feeds, with the poor condition of pastures that has existed through the backward spring and early summer, brings alfalfa into the limelight as the one crop that can be advantageously sowed during the summer to provide against scarcity of such feed next year.

In recent years the alfalfa acreage in Indiana has grown steadily, but this year about half of the acreage was winter-killed. During the next two months, however, the farmer will have a chance to seed alfalfa and get the benefit of his crop next year when the price of all protein feeds promises to be exceedingly high. All crops such as wheat and clover hay were badly damaged through the open winter.

From many sources farmers are being urged to take advantage of this opportunity to sow alfalfa during the summer and benefit by the high prices which his crop will bring next year when bran, middlings and other feeds will be expensive. The report has gone out that this means of meeting a feed shortage emergency will be practiced by farmers in many states.
