PLAY ATTENDED BY LARGE CROWD

would undoubtedly ruin it for those expecting to attend the Wednesday night performance. The interest of the audience is held to the very finale of Act III, and it is then that the mysteries of the entire plot are cleared to the audience.

Herman Myers was undoubtedly the hit of the show in the character role of "Toph," the village cut-up. It was his clever acting and antics that kept the audience in an uproar continuously. All members of the cast are to be highly complimented in the splendid manner in which they handled their various roles as follows:

John Robbins—a boy of mystery

Zita—the doctor's daughter

Detective Looney—from New York

Dr. Lathan—the village doctor

"Toph"—the village cut-up

Bob—the doctor's son.....Fred Myers

Mrs. Lathan—the doctor's wife

Mrs. Blithers—the village gossip

"Squire"—the village police force.....Fred "Jim" Colchin

Selma Bangs—a member of the 400.....Florence Holthouse

Reginald Fulton—the heir

Adding a musical touch to the production was a girl's dancing chorus comprised of Winifred Arnold, Mary Colchin, Mary Helen Lose, Helen Schmitz, Henrietta Spangler, Flotilda Harris, Cecelia Appleman, Mary Green, Florence Lengerich, Viola Schmitz, Helen Tricker, Margaret Vian, Agnes Baker, Virginia Hyland, Mary Myers, Salome Schmitz, Patricia Teeple, Margaret Eiting, Teresa Baker, Dolores Klepper, Dolores Omior, Catherine Schmuckner and Agnes Wolpert. The dances were directed by Miss Margaret Niblick, who appeared in person in a solo dance entitled, "Dainty Miss."

"Always Waiting for Tomorrow" and "Gypsy Love Song" were two vocal numbers which were splendidly rendered by Messrs. Fred Fullenkamp and Paul Briede. In connection with the song "Always Waiting for Tomorrow," Thos. Durkin, Jr., gave an imitation of a "down and out," in a costumed monologue. Mr. Durkin's interpretation was very vivid. "Won't You Wait Till the Cows Come Home," sung by Miss Winifred Kitson and a chorus group, was one of the feature musical numbers.

True Fristoe presided at the piano as musical director, and, together with an orchestra, accompanied each musical number.

POLISH FLIERS, RESCUED, PLAN NEW ATTEMPT

Fall Into Sea

"We were compelled to turn back when we found our oil feed line was not functioning," Major Kubala said. "We could not repair this feed line while flying. While returning toward Spain, our engine started functioning poorly, due to an unknown cause. This was of greater seriousness than the first trouble and as we were trying to locate the cause we fell into the sea about 70 miles south of Cape Finisterre.

"We fell with such force that the wings of the plane were broken and the plane was otherwise damaged. Our fall was near the Steamer Samos of the Hamburg-American line."

Kubala then told how he and Idzikowski—two veteran war fliers who at one time were enemies of the air—were thrown into the sea and how they swam in the choppy water until the rescue boat was put off the Samos and saved them.

he injuries to Kubala's arm were not grave and the fliers decided to proceed to Paris today.

TWO PASSENGER TRAINS WRECKED AT MOUNDS, ILL.

of a man believed to be Joe Denny, 36, of Omaha, Neb., and that of an unidentified white woman were taken from the wreckage. Three unidentified negro women also were killed.

Wreckers were searching several overturned sleeping cars for three or more bodies believed pinned in the berths. Seven cars of the Memphis-St. Louis train and ten cars of the Chicago-New Orleans limited were derailed.

Uninjured passengers on the Chickasaw were re-routed to St. Louis on another train and were due to arrive there at 11 a.m.

Identification of the dead was hampered by lack of clothing, for most of the victims were trapped in their berths. The man believed to be Denny and
