Head Of Minnesota Farm Bureau Is Out For Smith

St. Paul, Sept. 6.—(U.P.)—J. R. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, a Republican, today resigned his position to begin active work in the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Reed declared he considered his resignation necessary to maintain the non-political status of the federation. The Minnesota farm leader assailed President Coolidge for vetoing the McNary-Haugen bill; declared that Herbert Hoover had pledged his support to the "continuation of unfriendly agricultural policies," and said that the farmer must look for relief in a new order.

"The democratic candidate's pledge to 'substitute for inaction and friendliness for hostility'; his promise to aid us in securing the legislative enactment of the principles for which we have so long contended, have convinced me," Reed said, "of the importance of lending my support to his candidacy."

WITH THE BIG LEAGUE STARS

By United Press Herbert Hoover today started work on his labor speech which will be delivered at Newark, N. J., September 17.

Governor Smith continued working on New York state legislative problems today. Friends expect him shortly to make a vigorous answer to the "whispering campaign" said to have been started against him. Rudolph Spreckles, San Francisco banker and a Republican, announced support of Governor Smith because of Smith's stand on the prohibition question.

Senator Curtis will make 13 speeches in 13 days in the middle west beginning September 15 at Lexington, Ky. He will speak before three Indian tribes. Agricultural relief and prohibition are the outstanding issues of the campaign John J. Raskob said.
