DOLLAR DAYS:—

W. P. Schrock who has just returned from a several weeks business trip through the east, brought with him a copy of the Syracuse, N. Y. Herald which describes at length, with photos, the late summer Dollar Day held in that city and which Will says was the most successful of its kind he has ever had called to his attention.

Sales for one day in that city totaled more than two million dollars and every store was crowded. Various stores arranged windows which were covered with curtains until 9 o'clock on the morning of the opening. The band paraded the streets and at the fixed hour every curtain dropped and the sale was on. Speaking of the event, the Herald said editorially:

"Syracuse has celebrated once more its late summer holiday—dollar day. It was an experiment when our retail merchants undertook to set apart a day common to most of them for clearance, for disposing of a large volume of goods at small prices, for marking at one dollar what was clearly a bargain at that figure. Dollar day is an experiment no longer.

The newspapers have carried the announcement of dollar day sales for a great variety of merchandise. There is no department of retail merchandizing which has not been touched. There is no important retail store that has not made attractive offers.

We need not the testimony of store managers or clerks to know the stores have been busy, altho we have that testimony. The streets and shops were so busy that downtown Syracuse streets looked as populous as on any day of state fair week, and the stores a great deal more populous and busy.

It has come about that a public holiday is a dull day in town, excepting at the movie houses. Dollar day is not a holiday. It does not at all resemble a holiday. It is a continuously busy day; for those who come to buy come in vast numbers; and they come at all hours. Dollar day has been a great success.

Gov. Smith's speech on the power question before an immense audience in Denver Saturday night was in his best and most effective manner. There is no question before the public of more far-reaching significance, nor one that strikes deeper into the economic interests of the people now and for generations to come. If this is not appreciated by the masses of the people, so much the worse for them. That it is appreciated by the private interests that are seeking to seize upon the nation's power sites to the end that they may make billions through the exploitation of the consumers of power is impressively demonstrated by the disclosures of the investigation now being conducted by the federal trade commission. On this subject there must be plain speaking. Mr. Hoover's failure to so much as mention the subject in his speech of acceptance carries its reverberations. The fact that he was literally forced to attempt a correction of that strange blunder at Los Angeles a few days later is indicative of his attitude. And the character of his comment in this brief talk indicates that he is more concerned with the concealment of his position and purpose than in their exposition.—New York World.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Sept. 26—(U.P.)—The judges couldn't decide so they gave the State Fair baby contest prizes to both Joyce Marie and Gloria Ann Downing—twins.

Governor Alfred E. Smith is not afraid to speak out and that fact is winning for him many friends every where he speaks and throughout the country as well. In his Helena speech Monday night he assailed the G. O. P. record of scandal in plain language and why should he not? Mr. Hoover who is now a candidate sat by and watched all the proceedings of the last two administrations and to say that the party in power is not responsible for it is a new precedent. Governor Smith believes that "public office is a public trust" and his record proves it.

Numerous demands are being made that Mrs. Willebrandt resign as deputy attorney general of the United States and that she quit making republican speeches. Strange to say the complaints come from wets and dries alike. A Wisconsin leader demands that she quit the stump and Dr. Shumaker of Indiana insists she is unfit to serve as an official because of her authorization of the use of bootleg whiskey for the Florida sufferers. She will talk herself into serious trouble before she gets through with it.

If they let Loeb and Leopold out of the Illinois state prison on an error as now seems probable, it would be wise for those young men to hasten right on through to the coast and take a boat for some foreign land. To stay here would surely bring troubles and plenty of them and the board of pardons will be taking a serious chance if they thus give these men the advantage of an error or a supposed technicality.

Every dollar given to the Red Cross fund at this time will go for the aid of the unfortunate people down in Florida. They have suffered greatly. Just how much cannot yet be told for the waters are receding slowly but it is known that loss of life has been terrible and that thousands of survivors are suffering from influenza, pneumonia and other ailments. Give some thing to the fund.

This is no time for a candidate to lose his voice and the fact that Mr. Curtis feels his slipping will be regretted by Governor Smith and others who were finding some thing in each speech the senator made to come back on. Mr. Curtis has made several "bad breaks" in the campaign.

Sir Horace Darwin, 77, son of the Darwin of "monkey" fame, who spent a life time in arguing that we descended from the animals who hang on trees by their tails, is dead. Now what we want to know is whether under their logic he goes back to join the jungle tribe.

Snow is not, exactly unheard of for September but is most unwelcome. It makes it too long a winter, but perhaps after this a little flurry we may get some real autumn for a number of weeks. You just can't tell about it in this section any more.

The cool weather is certainly slowing up the golf business and several of the boys are complaining that their game has been ruined. They may come back however if old Sol gets friendly again.

You are invited to come up to democratic headquarters any time. Each evening you will find a crowd enjoying the radio or discussing the campaign. Every body welcome.

All scientific writers tell us that all diseases arise from gastro intestinal trouble. San Yak Pills are antiseptic to that portion of animal or vegetable food passing to the secum and colon undigested, causing decomposition and self poisoning. You can delay the time for putrefaction and old age feeling by the use of San Yak Pills. Ordinary laxatives reduce the mucous membrane of the lower bowels and create constipation. BOYS FROM 20 CITIES DISPLAY TINY AIRCRAFT

New York, Sept. 26—(U.P.)—Fifty-nine boys in 20 cities have qualified for the finals of the National Playground Miniature Air craft Tournament to be held in Atlantic City, October 5 and 6.

The successful boys have been chosen under the auspices of a national committee of which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Commander Richard E. Byard, and others prominent in aviation are members, on the basis of flight records of models made in local trials early this month. Every boy made and launched his own plane.

Boston and Washington tied for first place in the number of boys qualifying, Boston having four juniors and four seniors and Washington five juniors and three seniors. Chicago placed five; Elmira, N. Y., four and the remaining cities from one to three.

Among the seniors, Herbert Dorsey of Washington and Edward Marcoulier of Evanston, Ill., led in qualifying in the greatest number of events. Each placed in six out of the ten. Edward Harms of Evanston led the juniors by qualifying in six events. George Bell of Washington and Robert Loper of Topeka, Kans., were second among the juniors with four events each.

Some remarkable flights were made in the preliminaries. Marcoulier, junior champion last year who constructed

MRS. LORENA WOOLSEY

"My health returned quickly as soon as I started taking Konjola," says Mrs. Lorena Woolsey, 112 Buntin street, Vincennes, Ind.

"For years I suffered with nervous indigestion," Mrs. Woolsey continues, "the victim of terrible pains after eating, bloating, dizzy spells, extreme nervousness and heart fluttering. I was constantly with sick headaches, and was so worn out generally that life was a burden.

"I sought relief in many medicines, but until I heard of Konjola found nothing to help me. The new medicine worked wonders. I am perfectly well again; sleep like a child, eat anything and find life a pleasure instead of painful drudgery. I know there are countless women in the condition I was and how I wish all of them could know the remarkable value of this new compound."
