Moire Increasingly Important This Season

New York, Oct. 2—(U.P.)—Moire is becoming increasingly important in fashions, now appearing in formal afternoon wear as well as in elaborate dresses and occasionally in wraps. Moire skirt and jacket costumes of light-weight wools. The pattern of moire is again important in the field of metals, the new Coudure, whose surface is impregnated with 18-karat gold, being the new type of this type. The newest moire, incidentally, are smaller and more delicate than the classical staple ones. Frock sets include evening dresses in rich novelty fabrics. The tulle and moire are exciting, while taffeta velvet, sheer and supple metal media are also. Exotic combinations are observed throughout collections; a chiffon dress uses green and navy blue afternoons; frocks often have inserts of fabrics like transparent velvets, extending themselves into the all-year round fabrics. Many are giving them a prominent place during Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations.

Skirts have become long and flowing for evening, increased size is a factor in dress, and particularly in the chiffon dresses, require much swirling and of fabric to give the desired effect. An importer states that the skirt required for the average dress is now five to eight inches.

This requires as many layers as a heavy chiffon which is not as the thinner chiffons.

The receiving line, were Mrs. Tyndall and Mrs. James Arnold, who are chairman of the Drama Department of the Club. Guests of the evening included members of the Junior, Dramatic and Music Departments of the club, and numbered twelve in all.

Each Junior member had written on a slip of paper and pinned it on her dress as a manner of making herself known to the members of the other departments who were sponsors of the new organization.

Miss Desoeche Chester, chairman of the organization, presided at the meeting and explained the outline of the work to be done by the girls as well as reading a copy of their by-laws. A delightful program was then rendered by the girls which included a piano duet by Mary and Patsy Holthouse, vocal by Isabel Cloud, Josephine Anderson and Cleora Baker, saxophones by Violet Squires, and piano solos by Louise Haubold, Dorothy Hale, Olive Teeters.

BORAH PRESENTS VIEWS OF G. O. P.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2—(U.P.)—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, speaking before 12,000 persons here last night, presented a republican version of issues raised by Governor Alfred E. Smith during the democratic presidential candidate's western speaking tour.

Continuing his campaign for the republican national ticket, Borah accepted the challenge of Gov. Smith and forced questions hurled into the republican camp concerning the G. O. P. stand on farm relief, inland waterways and prohibition modification.

Declaring Herbert Hoover, the republican presidential nominee, had pledged himself to uphold the constitution by enforcing the Eighteenth amendment, Borah attacked Smith's assertion that he would enforce the dry law, if elected, although advocating its repeal.

Borah expressed belief that Smith would oppose the St. Lawrence waterway, if elected, and asked proponents of the project to consider Hoover's accomplishments as an engineer and his declaration in favor of inland waterway development.

CURTIS CANCELS SPEAKING DATES

Chicago, Oct. 2.—(U.P.)—Senator Charles Curtis, republican nominee for vice-president, cancelled all speaking engagements for this week when he arrived here today from Topeka, Kas.

Still tired from his strenuous western campaign, the 68-year-old senator told representatives of the national committee he would need several days of complete rest before resuming his campaign.

"I didn't know how tired I was until the tension let down during my two days at home," he said.

Curtis still carries his right hand in a sling to ease the pain of a mashed thumb, caught in the door of an automobile last week, and has his sore throat treated twice daily.

He was met at the Rock Island station upon his arrival here by Senator Charles Deneen, Mrs. Bertha Bauer, national committee woman from Illinois, and a delegation from western quarters of the national republican committee. He went directly to the Union League club for a reception.

He will be a guest this afternoon and tonight at the home of Albert Lasker, former chairman of the shipping board in Lake Forest, Ill.

Tomorrow he will take up residence at the Edgewater Beach hotel for the remainder of his Chicago sojourn. A half dozen speaking engagements in the northwest have been arranged for next week.

CLOSE FRIEND OF GOV. SMITH IS NOMINATED

Alfred E. Smith will watch the democratic state convention pick a candidate for governor today and then catch a late train for Albany for a few days rest from his strenuous western campaign.

He closed his first campaign trip here last night and opened his campaign for his own state dramatically with an analysis of his record as governor and denunciation of republicans as "stand pat and reactionary" and an obstructor of his "progressive program," in a speech to the democratic convention.

While he devoted his entire attention to the state, he was talking for national consumption. His record as governor has been emphasized by his campaign managers. It went to millions of radio listeners last night over a national hook-up.

Smith spoke again on "party responsibility" this time as applied to the state, and took for his "text" the republican state platform adopted recently at Syracuse. Referring to this, he wove in and out of it his story of his gubernatorial history, denouncing republicans time after time as obstructors.

The Ladies Aid of the Zion Lutheran church will meet at the school house at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The afternoon will be spent in quilting.

Marital Difficulties at 13

MRS. CATHERINE LENHART DIES

Mrs. Catherine Lenhart, aged approximately 75 years, widow of the late Clinton Lenhart, of Monroeville, died Sunday evening, September 30, 1928, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Schaefer, of Warren, Ohio.

Mrs. Lenhart had been in failing health for some time and had gone to Warren for a several weeks visit with her daughter. A son, Lloyd Lenhart, near Monroeville, also survives. The husband, Clinton Lenhart, died last spring.
