"Unexpected Ensemble" Makes Appearance

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(U.P.)—To the endless array of ensembles paraded since the ensemble idea first saw the light of day has been added the "unexpected ensemble," a term sufficiently elastic to include just about anything one may assemble.

Chanel and Patou are credited with strengthening this tendency by their introduction of green coats with brown dresses, blue ones with grey and so on. Obviously the acceptance of the contrasting, rather than matching, ensemble simplifies life by removing the strain of matching silks and wools. With colors paired off harmoniously instead of presented in total blends one feels less likely to be off key, to say nothing of color. With color-sense the average woman may evolve varied and interesting ensemble costumes instead of being hide-bound by a rule which says "the ensemble must match." This rule has been amended to read "the ensemble must have continuity"—surely sufficient rope to entangle those not color conscious.

Advance information for spring is on combinations in woollens which include variant weights as well. Wool crepes united to tweeds, wool georgettes molded with other crepes heavier in texture may be cited as ways of presenting the idea which is concerned with repeating the design in contrasting fabrics. It is easy to recall that printed chiffons and taffetas identical in design and color were found to be effective—and worth occupying in other medias.

The Pythian Needle Club will meet at the K. of P. Home, Monday evening after lodge. A pot-luck supper will be served at the supper hour. All members are urged to attend as plans will be made for the Christmas Party.

Tomorrow is Armistice Day. President Coolidge has issued a proclamation that the day be observed in church and school. We do not want to recall the horrors of war, but to lovingly honor those that paid the supreme sacrifice. The dominant note is "Peace." Religion and patriotism are not only the highest emotions in the human soul, but they are inseparable and interwoven. The brotherhood of man rests fundamentally upon a religious basis. It would, therefore, be folly to commemorate Armistice Day and talk of peace unless we are willing to dedicate ourselves anew to the things that make for peace.
