WEALTHY LADY SUES HUSBAND

Harbor Point, Mich. There were exactly 400 guests, said to represent that mythical number of socially elite in Chicago. Save for the last minute withdrawal of the maid of honor after a tiff with the bridegroom, the wedding was a big success. Miss Barker was known then as the "Nation's richest girl."

After the wedding the Spauldings circled the world and in recent years they have spent much time abroad.

Although the divorce petition says they separated a month ago society folk here did not know anything about the Spaulding family troubles until the petition was filed.

Mr. Meat Market Proprietor: Everybody is going to eat Thanksgiving day. Sell them by telling 'em through the columns of Daily Democrat. Run your ad in Tuesday's paper.

New Precedent Is Set
Indianapolis, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Indiana public service commissioners today established a new precedent by permitting a telephone company, organized by farmers in protest against high town rates, to enter the town and break the monopoly.

The case involves the Farmers Mutual Telephone company at Versailles and the Versailles Telephone company, of that town. The order, passed today, approves a petition brought by William Hunter and fifty-four other Versailles residents asking permission to hook up with the Farmers' Exchange.

KING GEORGE THOUGHT TO BE RECOVERING

(Signed Sir Stanley Hewett
"Lord Dawson, of Penn")

Uneasiness occasioned by the King's illness stirred the Empire's millions deeply and attention was focused on the remote regions of South Africa where Edward, Prince of Wales and heir presumptive to the British throne, is hunting big game.

Although the government had considered sending a special dispatch to the Prince of Wales notifying him of his father's illness, it was later decided to send word by regular telegraphic channels.

Dispatches to the United Press from Channesburg, South Africa said the government was unable to state whether information of his father's illness had reached the Prince or whether his plans would be changed. "There would be no difficulty in a quick return journey for the Prince it was said, should the necessity arise."

The Duke of Gloucester also is hunting in Africa, and Prince George, fourth son of the King, is stationed on board the H. M. S. Durban, now in Bermuda.

The Duke of York, second in the line of family succession, was at Buckingham Palace. He had been recalled from Northampton and he remained in close contact with Sir Stanley Hewett, Surgeon and apothecary to the King.

Princess Mary planned to leave Yorkshire and return to London to remain with Queen Mary during the King's illness.

The Royal air force had planes stationed in readiness to bring the Prince of Wales from Africa by air if necessary, but it was doubtful that flying as a method of travel would be approved for the heir presumptive.

The rapid development of the King's illness came in for considerable discussion in official circles. It was recalled that he had shown no signs of indisposition up to his seizure Tuesday.

The congestion in his lung might easily turn into bronchial pneumonia, physicians said. Yesterday his temperature had reached 101, but during the night it dropped to 100 degrees last night.

The King was reported to have been cheerful last night, chatting with close personal friends who were admitted to the Royal suite. He discussed subjects of personal interest and mentioned the fact that he soon would be shooting again.

The King is lying in a sound-proof chamber with two nurses in constant attendance.

Only liquid nourishment is fed to him. The congested lung was X-rayed yesterday.

The routine at Buckingham Palace is only slightly upset. The Royal householders did not seem unduly anxious.

Britain's public followed eagerly the meager bits of news that came from the Palace. The Evening News printed an extra at 9 P. M. reproducing the evening bulletin from the Royal physicians and copies of the paper were sold out throughout the country.

Cables and telegrams flooded the Palace from all over the world and the Duke of York aided Queen Mary who was overwhelmed with the mass of communications of sympathy.

Queen Leaves Palace

London, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Queen Mary left Buckingham Palace today and her departure was taken as a good sign that King George's condition was not considered critical.

The Queen motored from the Palace gates at midday and the crowd which gathered there in spite of the bad weather noted her departure sympathetically. The men doffed their hats and, as is usual, the crowd remained silent.

The Queen was understood to be attending a performance of the Royal Choral society in Albert hall this afternoon.

The King's fever was less and although pleurisy had set in, it was considered merely the ordinary course of his illness. An official bulletin issued during the morning by Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett, the King's physicians, said:

"The King passed a fair night. The improvement noted last evening was maintained. The pleurisy which commonly accompanies this type of congestion of the lung continues to be a prominent feature."

The nation continued anxious, but its fears were partly allayed by the optimistic tone of statements from the Palace. Premier Baldwin is passing the week-end at Chequers Court, his country home. Sir William Joyson-Hicks, the home secretary, went to his Palace in Sussex. L. G. Amery, the Colonial secretary, remained in London. All were in closest communication with Buckingham Palace.

Bulletin Issued

London, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—An official bulletin issued by King George's physicians at noon today said:

"The King passed a fair night. The improvement noted last night was maintained. Pleurisy, which commonly accompanies this type of congested lung, continues to be a prominent feature."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, surgeon and apothecary of the King, and Lord Dawson of Penn, physician in ordinary to the King.

Prince Continues Hunt

Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika Colony, East Africa, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—It was learned here today that the Prince of Wales thus far has not been recalled from his hunting trip to go to the bedside of his father, King George, who is ill in London.

The Prince is on a shooting expedition in the Dore district two days' journey from Dodoma. His latest plans were to leave Kigoma Thursday or Friday for Abercrom.

The Duke of Gloucester is shooting in the vicinity of Lake Rukwa and he is proceeding towards the Chambesi river, planning to meet the Prince of Wales in Livingstone.

EGG FUTURES SUFFER DROP

Market Recovers Slightly But Price Is Off For Whole Week

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(U.P.)—Egg futures suffered a sharp setback early in the week on the Chicago mercantile exchange and although a recovery at mid-week made up part of the loss, the finish was 1 to 1 1/2c lower. November closed at 29 3/4c and December at 29 1/2c.

November's premium over the deferred delivery showed the comparative technical strength caused by light deliveries against open contracts. Shorts were nervous as a result and inclined to cover on the soft spots. The sagging December delivery reflected trade apprehension over heavy reserve supplies.

Although United States storage holdings are about 700,000 cases more than a year ago, eggs are moving into consumption at a slightly slower pace than last year. Stocks in the ten principal markets were reduced 267,300 cases during the week ending Nov. 22 compared with a reduction of 290,070 cases in the same period last year.

Butter futures moved forward steadily in a quiet market. December finished 1/4c high at 46 3/4c and January closed 3/4c up at 46 1/2c. Strength was based mainly on spot market firmness and a continued deficit in storage holdings.

The movement of butter out of storage in the ten principal markets was 3,320,483 pounds compared with 3,951,883 pounds last year. Production in 162 plants reporting to the American Association of Creamery Butter manufacturers was 4,618,512 pounds, an increase of 42 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago.
