Reversible Style Jacket Is Attraction

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(U.P.)—Both the separate jacket and the sweater have separate niches in southern fashions, a trick which is being used extensively in little sportswear ensembles of the resort type is the designing of the jacket in reversible style, with the idea of making it possible to vary the costume according to the mood and at the same time to suggest that the wardrobe is larger than its actual number of models.

These little jackets, which may be worn on either side, are usually the accompaniment of a silk sports frock and they may be of plain color jersey on one side and printed silk on the other. If the dress is a printed one, when the jacket is worn with the printed side out it presents a complete printed ensemble; when it is turned to reveal the plain side, the dress has the contrast of a colored jacket which echoes one of the colors in the print.

It is a clever style which should appeal especially to the younger generation of sportswomen, since the resort wardrobe must have the spice of variety and here is a simple method of acquiring it.

There are possibilities for the merchandising of this reversible jacket as a separate item as well, to accompany the many sleeveless white frocks which will probably be the backbone of every resort wardrobe. They would naturally be obtainable in linen or cotton as well as silk or jersey.

A novelty worsted with an extremely open mesh, giving a delicate, lacy appearance, is a fabric which is being given prominence for spring, both in jumpers, two-piece costumes and also in tuck-in blouses with wool ensembles. Usually the jumpers are accompanied by short, separate scarfs of the fabric.

One manufacturer, who is showing an imported version of this fabric, chiefly in white, employs it in two-piece costumes which combine a pleated flat crepe skirt with a jumper of the worsted which is finished with a vest and collar, or simply a turnover collar of the silk. This costume may be had in several colors. White blouses of the fabric, with matching scarfs, are shown with ensembles of flannel or lightweight woolen in white and pastels.

This lacy appearance is coming to the fore in other knitwear, many of the newer sweaters featuring a lace-like design. One importer is giving prominence to a collection of sweaters in lace-like.

A striking innovation in linens is knitted linen, which has the same delicate lacy quality.

The meeting of the Tri Kappa sorority has been changed from Tuesday to Wednesday, and will meet with Miss Madge Hite, at eight o'clock.

French Shepherds Use Stilts to Advantage

Walking on stilts is a fad that does not die with the ages. On the tomb of one of the oldest Pharaohs is a crude bas-relief depicting a court procession. The procession is led by a trumpeter who is perched on high stilts.

Every nation, in fact, has had its expert stilt walkers. In China, and Japan the fad is popular with youths, some of whom are so adept in this mode of walking that they require no supports or uprights to steady them.

In southern France stilts are more than fads. There they are used almost continuously by the shepherds, who have to keep watch over large flocks of sheep as well as to pass through bogs. The stilts are usually from six to eight feet high and are strapped tightly to the knees.

Both men and women in that part of the country are expert stilt walkers. In their hands they hold a long stick or cane as a support. So accustomed are these people to the stilts that shepherdesses have been known to knit socks while walking on them.

A frequent pastime of these people are stilt races, and not a holiday passes without a stilt contest of some sort. One contest recently was won by a boy and a girl, each fourteen years old. The third to come in was a shepherd, whose age was about seventy.

Dance to Health

Modern science is getting back to some of the same beliefs that held sway in primitive society. Particularly is this true in the matter of physical and mental health, for science now subscribes to the ancient theory that physical exercise leads to mental as well as physical health. The lively Italian folk dance, called the Tammella, dates from this period and derives its name from the fact that the cure for spider bites was generally believed to be a wild dance unto exhaustion.—James G. Dunton in the Dance Magazine.

Poor Man
"A thorough gentleman, the most polite man I ever met."

"Yes, Algernon, Jenkins was that."

"But he died unhappy, very unhappy."

"So, Algernon, so?"

"Yes, he was afraid his relatives would think his last gasp for breath was a hiccup and he wouldn't be able to excuse himself."

Gotham's Own
"I have buffeted about with the people of Arabia. I have fought hordes of Turks, and battled almost an army of Armenians. I have worked next to sweating South Americans, toiled beside Greeks, Swedes, Chinamen and men from deepest Africa. Yes, I know every race of man."

"Oh, so you're from New York."

One of the peculiarities of influenza is that its toxins leave the digestive system upset. Constant "dosing" for the colds which come so frequently after a flu-attack still further disturbs the digestion and lessens the appetite, just when the body needs nourishment more than ever.

And yet these colds are so apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia that they must be treated at the first sign.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally and so can be used freely with no risk of upsetting a delicate digestion. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime. —advt.
