Today's Duty First

Be not anxious about tomorrow. Do today's duty, fight today's temptations, and do not weaken nor distract yourself by looking forward to things which you cannot see, and could not understand if you saw them.—Charles Kingsley.

Old Idea Wrong

The old tradition that the royal road to efficiency is for everyone to come in at the bottom is now a delusion. The brain which is capable of being trained for highly skilled work is not usefully employed in the heaving of wood and drawing of water.—London Daily Telegram.

Protecting Paint

By adding a half pint of oil of cedar to each gallon of paint one may combat the very annoying curiosity of flies and gnats to find out for themselves if the wet paint is really wet. Some painters prefer to use oil of citronella in smaller quantities. The effect is the same, the insects will avoid the fresh paint because of the odor.

Life

M. E. Tracy was speaking of the relative unimportance of things. "Prince or peasant," he declared, "we begin with a yelp for food and end with a wail for sympathy. In between, we swell with pride and take ourselves seriously."

Dough Won't Do It

A lot of dough doesn't necessarily keep a man from being half baked.—Farm and Fireside.

Hudson's Craft Small

Henry Hudson's Half Moon was a boat of 80 tons burden. The last like the ton, has a somewhat flexible measure, but it is safe to say that the vessel in which Hudson sailed in 1609 was a shallow little craft of not over 600 tons and probably less.

Whale's Yield of Oil

The amount of oil which can be taken from a whale depends on the individual whale. The sperm whale yields from 5 to 145 barrels of oil, averaging about 25 to 30 for cows and 75 to 90 for bulls. In 1831 there was a record of a whale yielding 274 barrels of oil.

Alum Stops Blood's Flow

Sometimes it is difficult to stop flow of blood after a tooth has been extracted. If powdered alum is applied to the cavity it will stop the bleeding.

Old Belief Wrong

The idea that a man falling through the air from a great height loses consciousness before he lands has been proved to be a fallacy. It has been found that persons falling malfatun full control of their faculties until they come into contact with some solid object.

Realistic Travel

A steamship advertisement promises that "as you go up the gangplank in New York you get the tangy smell of salt and tar in your nostrils." Probably the company keeps a barrel of each standing beside the gangplank. And for $10 extra they will supply a pirate with cutlass in teeth.—Woman's Home Companion.

Of Real Value

An instrument has been invented to indicate one's sensitiveness to sunburn. But a more needed measure would be one to establish one's likelihood of being burned in the stock market.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Speech and Performance

"I have said many wise things," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown. "for it is the custom of leisurely inclination to make speech take the place of performance."—Washington Star.

Golf Ball's Depravity

How does a golf ball know where to land so a falling leaf will envelop it?—Detroit News.

Congressional Pages

The pages in congress are not appointed by any committee. Appointments in the senate are a part of senatorial patronage. Appointments in the house of representatives are made by the doorkeeper upon the recommendations of members of the house. There are 19 pages in the senate and 41 in the house. The age limits are fourteen to sixteen years.

Ginseng in Commerce

Nearly all ginseng grown in this country is shipped to China for medicinal use. The industry depends entirely on the Oriental market. Ginseng is consumed in negligible quantities by the Chinese in this country, and the plant has practically no value in the United States or in other countries outside of China.

First to Protect Oysters

Rhode Island was the first state to set aside water territory for the propagation of oysters. As early as June, 1790, this state set aside a small tract for the cultivation and propagation of oysters by private parties.

Soiled Piano Keys

If it is only superficial dirt on piano keys, a damp cloth will remove the substance, or a cloth dipped in milk. Do not have the cloth so wet that any liquid runs between the keys. After cleansing, allow the piano to remain open so that the sunlight may keep the keys white. Dust regularly.

Chinese First in Field

Early in the Seventeenth century the Chinese knew that cottonseed contained an oil, for it is reported in their records that in preparing cottonseed for feeding cattle they first extracted the oil, which they used for illuminating purposes, and then cooked or boiled the seed.

SAYLORS MOTOR CO.

DEAR FRIENDS:

I'm getting to be a regular interviewer. And I've found this much—it's mighty interesting to talk to people.

For instance there's the fellow I was talking to yesterday.

He boards here in Decatur and he says he used to mail his laundry home every week for his mother to do. It meant an extra trip to the post office for him—and extra work for his mother.

One week she was sick, so he called us up and we came around after it. He's been sending it to us ever since, and it's a whole lot easier on his mother as well as a whole lot easier for him.

Our number is 134! Get to know it.

BEN ZEEN.
