SCOUTING CITED AS BIG FACTOR AGAINST CRIME

this act. This includes federal cases only.

Continuing, Mr. Hoffman stated, "multiplicity of law causes confusions in the court, reversals of cases, and, consequently, a laxity of enforcement of law which is a breeder of crime and causes disrespect for the law."

Mr. Hoffman gave many interesting statistics on crime and violation of the law. The figures pertaining to murders was appalling. In 1927, there were 12,000 murders in America.

Mr. Hoffman stated his belief that capital punishment would decrease the number of murders in this country. "Recent years have demonstrated that the number of convicts in prisons for life imprisonment are increasing, and that the penalty for life imprisonment is losing its effect as a deterrent for murder. Upon the other hand, statistics prove that the terrible act of murder lessens in direct ratio where capital punishment prevails and is enforced. Criminals and murderers are afraid of the death penalty. The gallows or the electric chair are feared by the murderer."

Mr. Hoffman made comparisons between states where the death penalty is inflicted and in those states where life imprisonment is made a substitute.

Mr. Hoffman concluded his address with a plea for the support of the Boy Scout movement, stating that the Anthony Wayne Area council had purchased the Gene Stratton Porter Lumberlot estate near Rome City and an additional island as camping grounds for the Boy Scouts. "The teachings of Scouting make it impossible for a Scout to become a criminal and statistics prove that of the thousands of criminals arrested, only a few have ever been Boy Scouts."

Eno Lankenau, superintendent of the local General Electric plant, was the chairman of the meeting.

HOOVER'S NIECE, MARRIED, HOLDS POST AS TYPIST

Enjoys Department Store Job And Styles Self A "Poor Relation"

By Dan Campbell, UP Staff Correspondent

San Francisco, June 21.—(U.P.)—Some day she hopes to have the President of the United States pointed out as her uncle and a well-known dean at Stanford University likewise recognized as her father.

For the present, Mrs. Hulda Hoover & McClain, is content to work in a department store and live on Russian Hill and is proud to be known as Herbert Hoover's niece and Dean Theodore Hoover's daughter.

Few of her co-workers in the comparison office of the store, where Mrs. McClain serves as a typist, are aware of the relationship, the young matron explaining that "being the niece of the president helps and hinders me."

Being of an independent nature and having foresight, the petite, auburn-haired girl took typing as an added subject to her university course and after graduation she obtained for herself the department store position.

She married the man of her choice, Charles Alexander "Chuck" McClain, Jr., a classmate, when she was a sophomore in college, although laughingly admitting
